Aircraft Scour Half Continent For Lost B-50

Record-Breaking Air Search Seeks Fate of 16 Passengers

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 23 (AP).—Canadian and American rescue planes criss-crossed the vast expanses from Labrador to Arizona today in a so-far vain search for a missing B-50 bomber.

Relatives of the 12 air force crewmen and four passengers aboard the bomber meanwhile were notified that the 16 were missing.

Scores of search craft scoured the Canadian wilds, the western desert country and the broad midwest. None of them, however, reported sighting a trace of the bomber, a converted B-29, now more than 24 hours overdue.

ELABORATE

An officer at Selfridge Air Force Base in Michigan described the search as one of the most elaborate in history.

The B-50, normally based at Davis Monthan Air Force Base at Tucson, Ariz., was one of a group that took off from there late last month.

It left Goose Bay, Labrador, Thursday night on a routing flight to Tucson that should require only about 12 hours. It had a gasoline supply good for 17 hours.

The air force said no contact had been made with the plane since the takeoff. This indicated, a Selfridge office said, that either the plane's radio was out of order or the craft did not get very far from Goose Bay. Otherwise, he explained, contact would have been made with a C.A.A. station early in the flight.

The air force still held out hope that the flyers would be found alive.

GOOD CHANCE

Lt.-Col. Justin C. Gunnison, commanding officer of the 5th Rescue Squadron at Lowry Field, Colo., directing the search, said:

"Since there has been no communication whatsoever from the plane since it left, I believe it may be located on the first part of its flight—somewhere between Goose Bay and the Canadian border.

"If so, I believe there is a good chance the men may be found."

Reds Claim U.S. Planes Bombed Chinese Village

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Moscow radio tonight broadcast a Tass News Agency report of an alleged new violation of Communist Chinese territory by American planes.

The Tass dispatch from Peiping quoted a report from a correspondent of the Communist New China News Agency from Antung. It said American planes "raided and bombed territory of the Chinese People's Republic and wounded three Chinese citizens."

"On September 23 at 10:01 p.m. (local time)," the report said, "an American plane crossed the Chinese-Korean frontier and raided the village of Lakushao in the District of Kwartien of the Province of Liaotung and disappeared afterwards towards the south.

"At 10:15 p.m. another American plane appeared over Antung from the northeast and dropped 12 bombs on the northeastern part of the town. Three Chinese citizens were wounded, among them one child. Many houses were damaged. At 10.19 p.m. the plane disappeared in a southerly direction."

Antung is in Manchuria near the point at which the Chinese-Korean border along northwestern Korea ends at the Yellow Sea.

Communist China previously had accused the United States of two violations of her territory.

Race Horses Lost in Fire

MARLBORO, Md., Sept. 24 (Sunday) (AP).—At least eight horses burned to death Saturday night as fire destroyed two barns at the Marlboro race track. One other horse had to be destroyed because of burns.

The barns were full because of the track's current ten-day meeting.

None of the track personnel was injured.

Daylight Saving Ended Last Night

If you forgot to set your clock back an hour last night, do it now.

Last night was the last night of Daylight Saving Time—the night when time stands still for an hour. An hour and one minute after midnight, it was still 12.01.

So set your clock back now, or you'll be an hour early at church.

U.S. Newspaper Claims to Disclose Secrets of Russia's Atom Strength

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (ins).—The New York Journal-American in a dispatch from Washington tonight gave what it described as the super-secret story of Russia's atom bombs.

The dispatch, from Kent Hunter of the newspaper's Washington bureau, said the Hearst newspapers can disclose:

1. Russia has three atom bomb plants. They are near Irkutsk in the Lake Baikal region; in the Kusnetsk basin between the Caspian and Aral Seas, and at a new city, Sevouralsk, east of Lake Onega.

2. The Russians are believed to be producing four bombs a month and have an estimated stockpile of 60.

3. Bomb storage centres have been set up at three widely-separated areas to provide quick use in any direction.

JET BOMBERS

4. Russia has produced a four-jet bomber for direct delivery of the bomb and a second four-jet bomber carrying a rocket monoplane to deliver the bomb in a final run after separating from the mother-ship.

5. Russian spying to obtain the atom bomb started in 1943.

6. Col. N. Zabotin, in charge of the Russian spy ring in Canada, has been killed in Russia because his spy ring was discovered and Soviet plans upset.

7. Part of the Russian plan called for the recruiting or kidnaping of atomic scientists in other countries.

8. Work at the plants is safeguarded by minefields, secret police guards, radar alarms and anti-aircraft defences.

DEEP STORAGE

9. Russia's bomb storage centres are 450 feet underground, blasted out of granite mountains.

10. With her offensive atom war plans completed, Russia's current activity is perfection of cosmic ray anti-aircraft defence.

The Journal-American story said that the Russian spy apparatus in the United States is headed by Gen. Mikhail V. Serov and includes the military and commercial missions of the U.S.S.R. in that country and in Canada. The story said this ring picked up its first hints in 1943 that the United States had the atom secret and was working on production.

This, it said, set off frantic efforts in Russia to win the race for atomic supremacy. Top Soviet scientists were ordered to list the information they needed, and a super-secret espionage group was set up to steal it for them from anywhere in the world.

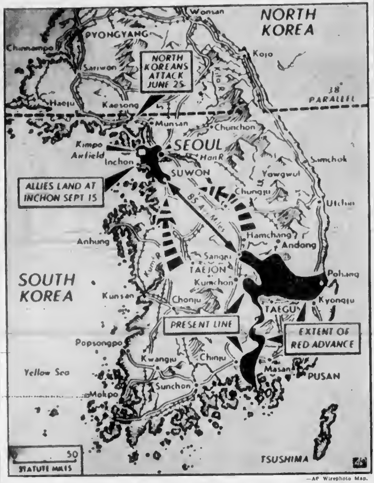
What Allies Have Regained in Korea



—AP Wirephoto Map.

Black areas detail territory won back in South Korea by Allies in September assaults sparked by amphibious landing at Inchon September 15. A week earlier the North Korean advance had been stopped by a firm stand in the Naktong River beachhead after more than two months of withdrawals. Allies driving northwestward out of the Naktong beachhead are within 85 miles of their companion forces in the Seoul-Suwan area. Broken arrows show main routes to Seoul from the southeast.

U.N. Blocks Attack On Chiang Regime

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP).—With little talk, the United Nations Assembly today beat down another Russian attack against Nationalist China and then heard sharper anti-Soviet notes injected into the Assembly debates.

A move by Jacob A. Malik, Soviet deputy foreign minister, to throw out a report by the Assembly's credentials committee permitting Nationalist China to remain in the Assembly, was defeated on a show of hands vote, 41 to 6, with three countries abstaining.

The Assembly then quickly accepted the committee's report, 46 to 5, with one abstention, and went on with the general talking. The credentials committee decided against acting on Chinese representation in the U.N. until a study committee approved by the Assembly makes a report.

SOFTER TONE

The Russians tried vainly to oust Nationalist China last Tuesday, on the opening day of the fifth general assembly. The Russians have adopted a softer tone on some points before the Assembly, to the puzzlement of most observers, but they are going right down the line in attacking Nationalist China at every opportunity.

Malik, backed by the Polish and Soviet Ukrainian delegates, said the credentials committee failed to take into account the "genuine situation" in China. He said that was that the "Kuomintang group" did not represent China.

"CONQUEST"

T. F. Tsiang of China said that the 450,000,000 Chinese regarded the setting up of the "puppet regime of Peking" as another "foreign conquest" by the Soviet Union. He said the Soviet Union actually has three seats in the Assembly (U.S.S.R., Soviet Ukraine and White Russia) and is trying to get a fourth. He said it would be more honest to give the seat to the Caucasus or some other Soviet Republic.

Dirk U. Stikker, Netherlands Foreign Minister, told the Assembly as the general debate resumed that Soviet "unfaithfulness" to the spirit of the U.N. "has brought us where we are today." He said Moscow-made tactics and methods are being used in non-Communist countries to sabotage recovery and disturb the people.

Eruption Kills One, Hurts Six

TOKIO, Sept. 24 (Sunday) (INS).—One person was known dead and six others seriously injured in yesterday morning's violent eruption of Mount Asama's 8,350-foot high active volcano.

Thick clouds of volcanic ash and smoke were thrown as high as 30,000 feet into the air by the eruption of the volcano 86 miles northwest of Tokio.

The dead and injured were members of a group of ten engineering school students who climbed the peak during the two-day school holiday. One survivor said the group was within a thousand feet of one point on the two-mile wide crater when the eruption took place.

HIKERS EXPOSED

Police investigations showed there were four groups of mountain climbers totaling about 100 persons on the peak when the eruption began.

Fears were also expressed for a group of four mailmen who left the hut at the foot of the mountain for a moonlight climb Friday night saying they wanted to see the sunrise from the summit. They may have been killed or seriously injured.

The observatory in Karuizawa, eight miles away, reported the eruption caused the earth to vibrate for 90 minutes. The first 20 minutes brought a series of violent shocks.

Taft Labeled Labor "Enemy"

HOUSTON, Sept. 23 (AP). — The A.F.L.'s Political League, with an expected $1,000,000 war chest, named Senator Robert Taft (Rep., Ohio) today as labor's "Number One Enemy."

Joe Keenan, league director, asserted to the A.F.L. convention "Hitler would rule the world" if all congressmen had voted like Taft. "Now he has gone to give aid and comfort to Stalin," Keenan added.

Keenan told unionists to get 2,000,000 more people in 20 states to register for the November general elections and aid in wiping out what he called "the last dying gasp of the reactionaries."

"We want a pro-labor majority in Congress to repeal Taft-Hartley. That takes more than good intentions. That takes votes," Keenan said.

Vishinsky Hears and Reads He's Unpopular

U.S. Troops Thrust 27 Miles Into Reds

Advances Herd Communists Into Ever-Shrinking Pocket

TOKIO, Sept. 24 (Sunday) (AP).—A 27-mile drive by United States troops along the coast of South Korea today herded the Red army into an ever-shrinking pocket between the Southeast front and Seoul.

Other United States forces at the northwest corner of the old Pusan beachhead were within 11 miles of sealing a circle around enemy troops now in a fighting retreat up the main highway to Seoul.

United States warplanes, in close support of the advancing Allies, killed 500 North Korean soldiers Saturday. This brought their estimated kill to more than 2,500 Communists in three days.

SLOW GOING

The fight for Seoul in the Korean west coast beachhead was still slow going. United States Marines battled in the outskirts and cruisers off Inchon shelled Red positions.

But United Nations forces in the southeast beachhead were moving fast. They seek to break apart the Red army there and trap it piecemeal.

A U.S. First Cavalry task force which made a 35-mile dash northwest of Taegu and seized Sangju was reported today to have swung south ten miles to the town of Oksan. That put the Americans within 11 miles of Kumchon from the north.

U.S. 24th Division troops were last reported nearing the outskirts of Kumchon from the southeast. Kumchon is a strategic junction on the road between Taegu and Seoul.

A.P. correspondent Bem Price said planes had a field day in the Kumchon area, shooting up 15 Red tanks and dealing flaming death to fleeing soldiers with jellied gasoline bombs.

KILLS REDS

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said its planes killed 500 Reds Saturday and destroyed 20 tanks. The air force pilots estimated they killed more than 1,100 Reds Friday and more than 900 Thursday, most of them along the southeast beachhead.

A U.S. 25th Division spokesman said a task force moved ahead 27 miles along the south coast to within eight miles of Sachon.

He pointed out that seizure of Sachon, a Red stronghold, would out-flank Red troops fighting other 25th Division elements to the northeast. The 27-mile push carried the Americans 53 air miles west of the port of Pusan. The Reds were less than 35 miles from Pusan earlier this month.

Red willingness to reduce Seoul, with its 1,000,000 population, to ruins by a street fight, if need be, stalled advances there, but operations south of it bolstered hopes of shortening the war.

United States Seventh Division troops at Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul, were 85 air miles away from U.S. First Cavalry troops at Sangju. The Suwon captors also were only a little over 100 miles from U.S. 25th Division troops near Kumchon.

Field officers told A.P. correspondent Hal Boyle progress was good toward achieving a juncture.

"If it is accomplished within the next two or three days," Boyle said, "they see a strong possibility of the end to major fighting in the Korean war during the first week in October."

In addition to the more sensational 27-mile dash, there were medium gains elsewhere in southeast Korea which either pushed back the Reds or cut between them.

One was the capture by U.S. 24th Division elements of the town of Songju, seven miles southwest of Waegwan.

British troops had been fighting due west toward Songju when they ran into Red resistance and called for air support.

U.S. Senate Overrides Veto of Bill

By JOHN B. OWEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP).—The United States Senate today over-rode President Truman's veto of a hard-boiled set of Communist controls. A smashing 57-10 vote made them the law.

Then Congress hurried home for the election campaign. Members will return November 27 to act on excess profits tax legislation and make way for the new Congress in January.

Enactment of the anti-subversives bill was delayed 20 hours and 48 minutes by a lost-cause filibuster carried out by a handful of Senators. They finally stepped aside after debating futilely against the bill, which Mr. Truman contended would actually help the Communists and "weaken our liberties."

NO CHANCE

The determined band, conceding they had no chance, insisted nevertheless that the vote be delayed until the Senators thought over the veto message and heard from home.

Twenty-six Democrats and 31 Republicans voted to make the bill law despite the veto. Ten democrats voted to uphold the President.

Tension and excitement marked the all-night session.

Senator Langer (Rep., N.D.), slumped grey-faced to the floor after a five-hour speech against the bill and was taken to a hospital to recuperate from exhaustion.

OPPOSES CHIEF

Senator Lucas (Dem., Ill.), Mr. Truman's own lieutenant in the Senate, told a hushed chamber that he would oppose the President.

It was the last major business.

Mr. Truman bounced the measure back to Congress with a 5,500-word veto message in which he said the bill would help, not hurt the Communists. He contended it would weaken existing security and seriously hamper the F.B.I.

'Angling' Thief Strikes Again

It appears that Victoria's "fishing pole" operator got a bite last night without using his usual tackle.

Police report that the home of Mrs. E. G. Stevens of 949 Empress Avenue was broken into last night while a party was in progress.

Using a ladder to the bedroom window, the thief pulled the bed over to the window and made off with purses belonging to guests.

Three purses were taken, with two containing about $20 and the other an undetermined sum.

Method used was strikingly similar to burglary of the home of B. Nicol, 1186 View Street, some weeks ago and several others since.

Little Twins Given Shelter

Two-month-old female twins were abandoned last night in the yard of Mrs. M. Sawchuck, 869 Humboldt Street.

No, they weren't children. They were puppies, but for them the night was just as cold and lonely.

City police brought the canine waifs into headquarters and a kind-hearted constable agreed to take them to his home for the night.

On Monday police will turn the pups over to the S.P.C.A., which will try to find a better home for them than the one from which they have just been evicted.

B.C. Telephone Company May Seek Higher Rates

The B.C. Telephone Company may apply for a further increase in telephone rates following the second rate boost approved Friday.

Gordon Farrell, president of the company, said yesterday that he was "disappointed" in the increase authorized by the Board of Transport Commissioners at Ottawa.

The new rates supplant those authorized in an interim order and will go into effect October 6.

Mr. Farrell said that "the failure to obtain the requested increase may necessitate the company applying for a further increase."

The new rates will be higher than those established by the board's interim order of May 26 and already in effect, but will be lower than the rates sought by the B.C. Telephone Company in its application made in June, 1948.

A Victoria subscriber, under this new ruling, who formerly paid from a low of $2.20 to a high of $2.60 for a two-party residence service and who now pays $2.80 as a result of the interim order, will hereafter pay $2.96.

The company had applied for a rate of $3.

A business subscriber who now pays $7 will, in future, pay $7.36.

Sales tax further increases this total.

Japanese, German Exports

Wartime Enemies Enjoy Roaring Canadian Sales

By TOM GREEN

Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, Sept. 23.—Two former enemies—Japan and Germany—are selling more goods to Canada than they did even in prewar days, the Department of Trade and Commerce said tonight.

Canada in turn is exporting far more to Japan than she buys from that country, but her trade to Germany has declined substantially this year.

In the first six months of 1950, Canada purchased from Japan goods valued at $6,232,000, compared with $2,220,000 in the same period a year ago and $2,723,000 in 1938. The imports were largely textiles, toys and fruit.

EXPORTS SOAR

Canada's exports to Japan in the first half of this year totaled $14,007,000 as against $2,800,000 in the first six months of 1949 and $16,700,000 in the January-July period in 1938. Machinery, cars, shoes and animal products made up the bulk of the shipments.

In the first six months of 1950, Canada's imports from Germany totalled $6,280,000, compared with $4,294,000 in the same period of 1949 and $5,034,000 in 1938. The main imports were drugs and chemicals, clocks and parts, steel wares, dies, cameras, hops and textiles.

Canada sold to Germany in that period goods valued at $3,817,000. This was well below the total of $20,681,000 exported in the January-July period in 1949 and $6,996,000 in the prewar year 1938. The principal exports to Germany were butter, whisky, drugs and chemicals, flour, linseed and vegetable oils, asbestos, canned meats and ships.

U.S. Fifth Air Force Orders Probe Of Mistaken Attack on Highlanders

US FIFTH AIR FORCE ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 24 (Sunday) (AP).—The Fifth Air Force has ordered a full investigation of the air attack on British troops yesterday by Fifth Air Force planes.

One British battalion suffered between 50 and 60 casualties in the attack with bombs, rockets and machine-guns. Some of these casualties, however, were inflicted by Korean Red mortar fire which coincided with the American air strike.

The Americans hit the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders with napalm (jellied gasoline) incendiary bombs and raked them with machine-gun fire after the British troops had called for air support.

After the fighter-bombers had struck, the Communists swept over the position—held by two Argyll companies—and long-range Communist guns lobbed shells into the British lines farther back.

In 90 minutes the dead and wounded were believed to be nearly 100

NEWLY TAKEN

The mistaken raid was on high ground which the Argylls had just captured

The planes dropped their explosives too far back, in spite of huge recognition panels laid out by the Scots.

Before the Communist attack the Argylls called for artillery support, but none was available, the Americans having already withdrawn their guns.

An Associated Press photographer, Gene Herrick, watched the bombing incident from an advanced command post about 400 yards away.

Herrick said he made a number of pictures, but soon put down his camera to help carry litters of British wounded across the Naktong River.

FIRE ON LITTERS

While he was helping to carry a wounded private across a bridge, North Koreans opened fire on the litter column with a 76-millimetre self-propelled gun.

The photographer said many of the British Tommies were angry, but others, including Pte. Arthur Holmes of Liverpool, were philosophical. Holmes said, "It's just one of those things. This is something that couldn't be helped. Up to now the American Air Force has given us very good support."

Pte. John Grant of Glasgow said "the better part of two companies was hit," and several officers were lost. Grant himself was injured.

"IT WAS ROUGH"

On the way back from the command post, Harrick said he heard Pte. Stanley Williamson of Birmingham tell an officer, "It was rough up there, sir"

The officer replied, "That's all right, son. You did a good job."

Williamson said he was hit in the leg and slightly wounded by North Korean fire before the air attack.

Strike Hits Express Firm

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP).—AFL truck drivers and helpers tonight started a strike against the Railway Express Agency here and in Jersey City, N.J.

Union spokesmen said the work stoppage would halt all Railway Express Agency deliveries into and out of the New York Metropolitan area.

Albert M Hartung, the firm's vice-president in charge of personnel, said the striking workers totaled 2,300, the number employed currently.

Dewey Refuses To Beg Pardon

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INS).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said tonight he is "unimpressed" by demands that he apologize to Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky for his attack on Russia as a "slave labor" state.

Dewey made the charge at a New York City-sponsored dinner Thursday night and Vishinsky and the entire Soviet delegation walked out during his talk

The Governor told newsmen:

"I am left unimpressed by the requests. Only the truth will keep us free, combined with a great deal of strength."

Fight Goes On Against Fires

EDMONTON, Sept. 23 (CP).—More than 700 fire fighters today continued their week-long battle in sweltering Autumn temperatures against more than 30 forest fires threatening small towns, farm homes and valuable timber tracts in Northern Alberta.

Only two fires have been brought under control in the last 24 hours and two new ones were reported overnight in the Lac la Biche region, 110 miles northeast of here.

Worst fire is raging at Wanham, 240 miles northwest of Edmonton, where more than 50 square miles of land has been blackened.

At Newbrook, 60 miles north of here, wind increased again late yesterday and whipped a persistent muskeg fire back into a fury. The settlements of Altan Siding and Abee were threatened.

"It's not a case now of a few houses or one town being threatened," one Newbrook resident said. "The whole countryside is afire."

Bars Canadian Attache

OTTAWA, Sept. 23 (CP).—Another incident has ruffled the diplomatic relations between this country and Communist-dominated Poland.

The Polish Government, which recently condemned the Canadian Government for not returning certain treasures held in this country in safekeeping during the war, now has flatly refused to allow a Canadian military attache to take up duties in Warsaw.

The Canadian diplomat, Lieut.-Col. H. A. Phillips, of Kingston, Ont., is now waiting in London for the final outcome of the friction between the two countries.

Army headquarters in Ottawa has refused to comment on the situation but another authoritative source disclosed that Col. Phillips was dispatched to Warsaw early this month to replace the then military attache in Warsaw who had been transferred to another post.

Indications are that Poland took the unprecedented action to bar its representative on grounds Poland had no military attache in Canada.

The Canadian Government has stated that if the Polish Government wants the treasures they should take the matter before a Canadian court. They have declined to do so.

Planes Make Mercy Trips

EDMONTON, Sept. 23 (CP).—The R.C.A.F. was engaged in two more mercy missions today, one in the Northwest Territories and the other in West-Central Alberta.

A Dakota aircraft from Whitehorse, Y.T., was en route to Norman Wells, N.W.T., after evacuating a Mrs. Raymond from Sawmill Bay, on the southeast shore of Great Bear Lake and 600 miles northeast of Whitehorse. The woman was reported suffering from pneumonia.

Helicopter took off from Edmonton today for Penhold, Alta., where it was to pick up a Calgary doctor and take him to the aid of an unidentified American Hunter at Caroline, Alta., 90 miles west. The tourist was said to be suffering from a fractured hip.

Yesterday an Edmonton-based R.C.A.F. Dakota completed a 2,650-mile mercy flight, evacuating an ailing American from Eureka Sound weather station in the Far North to Hospital at Churchill, Man.

HOFFMAN TO NEW POST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP). — The Washington Post says today in a copyrighted story that Paul G. Hoffman will become head of the Henry Ford Foundation, a multi-million-dollar research, educational and philanthropic organization. The paper adds that William C. Foster, now deputy administrator, will succeed Hoffman as administrator of the Economic Co-operation Administration.

More Soldiers Said Murdered

WITH U.S. 25TH DIVISION, KOREA, Sept. 24 (Sunday) (AP). — A frontline radio report said the bodies of 20 American soldiers, each shot through the head, were discovered today by advancing negro troops. The preliminary report reaching division headquarters said "this is evidently another atrocity."

ONE KILLED IN RIOT

LUCKNOW, India, Sept. 23 (Reuters).—One person was killed and four were injured in a Hindu-Moslem riot here today. A 24-hour curfew has been imposed.

Whistler Case Embarrassing, Sheriff Says

PARADIS, La Sept 23 (INS).—The case of the "phantom whistler" who has terrorized an 18-year-old bride-to-be in Paradis ended today, but police declined to disclose their solution.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Edward Prejean, of St. Charles Parish, said the case is over.

A "phantom whistler" has plagued pretty Jacquelyn Cadow with threats of death if she goes through with her plans to marry handsome 26-year-old state trooper Herbert Belsom.

EMBARRASSING

Prejean would not go into details about the police solution of the case, but indicated that it will be "pretty embarrassing" for someone when it is announced.

The campaign of terror drove Jacquelyn into a state of hysteria when telephone threats began coming from the "whistler" At intervals in the eight months of terror, strange whistles, "sometimes resembling a funeral march," were heard outside the Cadows' modest home.

Discuss Defences

Big Three Finish Talks; No Hint on German Units

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP). — A highly secret Big Three conference concluded today without any official hint of what was decided about including German units in a North Atlantic defence force

A brief communique from the American, British and French Foreign and Defence Ministers said they had discussed "an adequate integrated defence force for Europe" It added that the ministers agreed to make no further statement pending a meeting of the 12-nation North Atlantic Council next week The meeting is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday in New York

The United States was represented at the conference in a 37th-floor suite of the Waldorf Towers by Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Defence Minister George C. Marshall, the United Kingdom by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell, and France by Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and Defence Minister Jules Moch.

One reason for the secrecy was that the Big Three wanted the governments of the other nine nations of the North Atlantic Council to get a report on the two-day meeting before it is made public.

Secondly, if agreement were reached on the touchy issue of authorizing German troops, whether soon or in the distant future, the governments would want to move cautiously to avoid arousing European fears that Germany was being "remilitarized."

A French source said before the conference adjourned that Communists could capitalize on such fears not only in France, but in Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and other countries with a history of German invasions.

It appeared that if and when German military units are authorized, the announcement also will stress safeguards to prevent any future German aggression.

Unofficial French sources said the French were insistent on guarantees that the Allied forces in Europe would more than counter-balance the strength of any future German units.

Girl Not Slated To Be Queried

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 23 (AP).—Oakland police said they questioned a 48-year-old man named George Boyle for several hours last night, after he said he "knew something" about the 1943 murder in the Bahamas of Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire.

Augustus Roberts, assistant police superintendent scotched a rumor that pretty Betty Roberts, now the Baroness Alexander Debildering of New York, was to be interviewed in connection with the case

"I know who Betty Roberts is, but this is the first time I have heard her name mentioned in connection with the present inquiry," Roberts said.

The Baroness, 16 at the time of the trial, was an important witness. Defence lawyers contended she talked with Alfred de Marigny, accused of the slaying, at the same time the crime was being committed.

High Red Says East Germans, Soviets Reviving Nerve War

By THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN, Sept 23 (AP)—A leading Communist said today the East Germans and the Russians were deliberately reviving their war of nerves in this four-power capital.

This official a member of the Socialist Unity (Communist) Party's central committee, declared in a brief, guarded interview

"We want to show the Western occupation powers that they and their handy men can sleep quietly in Berlin only if we want it

He said West Berlin will be harassed every time the Communists see a "weak spot"

The fact that a high Communist was willing to talk to a Western reporter about the subject at all indicated how cocky the German Reds are becoming However, he demanded anonymity before commenting on anything

RAISED SIGHTS

He indicated the Communists have raised their sights slightly in the new campaign They have concluded that the West Berliner is too tough to be impressed by scare tactics So now the Berlin situation is being used to try to frighten others especially the West Germans beyond the Elbe

If the Berlin situation can be made to look from the outside like a keg of dynamite, Communists reason, the West German businessman may decide to keep his investments where he can see them. The Bonn Republic may be worried into thinking the surrounded former German capital is too much of a rat hole for its hard-won money If such thinking can be made preeminent, the West German may be induced to write off Berlin as an anchor he can do without.

This would put the Western occupation powers in the position of defending what the West German himself would not want to try to defend.

SEEK SPLIT

Any schism between the Western Allies and the Germans, regardless of how small, would be welcomed by the Eastern Communists as worthwhile.

Where the Communists will hit next is anybody's guess. The Communist leader commented succinctly that Western weak spots in Berlin are not hard to find.

This week the Communists cut off West Berlin's power supply temporarily. There was a flurry of arrests of the police of both sides

The high Communist made clear that another full-scale blockade like that of 1948-49 is one thing that will not be attempted now.

Mortar, Anti-Tank Gun Show Slated for Today

The Canadian Scottish will be action today at 2 p.m. at Finlayson Point, adjacent to Horseshoe Bay.

And the public is invited to come down to Beacon Hill Park to watch the local soldiers prove their ability with a three-inch mortar, six-pounder anti-tank gun and Bren machine gun.

The two-hour firing display will be held on the Dallas Road seafront and will be under the direction of Major J Fawcett.

Targets will be anchored about 400 and 800 yards offshore for the gunners to aim at Tracer ammunition will be used in the machine guns to enable the public to follow the path of the bullets.

Lieut. H. A Gray of the support company of the Scottish will be in charge of the mortar fire; Lt H G. Schoeing, anti-tank gun, and Capt. J. S. Grimmond, machine guns

Major A Clarke, of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery Work Point Barracks, will be co-ordinating officer of the shoot.

PARKING PROHIBITED

Meanwhile, Deputy Police Chief Harry Mercer announced that parking will be prohibited on Dallas Road from Douglas Street to the "park circle." Through traffic will be stopped while the shoot is in progress and the road leading to the lookout will be blocked

Besides the firing display, other units of the Reserve Army will be on hand and equipment will be laid out for visitors to examine Pipe and brass bands will also be in attendance

If bad weather puts a damper on the program, an announcement will be made over local radio stations about 1 p.m.

NEW POLICY

Lt Col W. J Farnsworth, commanding officer of the 75th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment indicated a change in policy regarding the training of gunners in his unit last night.

In view of present world conditions and the experience gained from reports from the Korean war, members of the regiment will now spend more time in small arms training.

The new policy will take effect immediately. Capt. L. R J. Palmer, who commands the regiment's 158th Battery at Patricia Bay airport, will take charge of 50 men at Heal's Range today to fire 5,000 assorted rounds

Lions Club Carnival to Be Held In Armoury Next Week-End

Bay Street Armoury promises to be a busy centre next Friday and Saturday nights when the Victoria Lions Club stages its annual Fall carnival.

Earle Cross, chairman of the committee in charge of the carnival, says it will be held from 7 to 11 p.m. on each night, and that this year's presentation has been designed to attract even more Victorians than have attended such events over the past several years.

In addition to the usual games, shooting galleries and novelty events for young and old, there will be a special entertainment program each evening provided by performers of the popular "Spotlight on Youth" program—seen weekly at a local theatre throughout the Summer months, under the direction of Hugh Curtis.

To add to the atmosphere of novelty, members of the Lions Club attending the various stalls and booths at the carnival will be dressed at clowns and hobos.

Every member of the service club organization will have some responsibility at the carnival Proceeds of the two-night event will go toward the numerous community activities and charities of the club.

RUSH FOR PERMITS

Yesterday's rain resulted in the Victoria Fire Department being flooded—with calls for fire permits.

From 8 a.m. to about 4 p.m., hard-pressed alarm room operators made out 103 permits for persons wanting to burn rubbish.

Reason for the rush was that all through the dry weather permits were refused. Applicants were told to apply again when the weather was damp.

By phoning the station and giving name and address, a person can receive permission to burn rubbish until the end of the month, after which there are no restrictions.

Forest Management Is Gaining Support

THE recent application by the R H MacMillan Export Company for an extensive forest-management licence in the Alberni and Clayoquot Sound area brings to four the number of such requests within the year. This is evident support of the Provincial Government's policy which brought into effect for the first time in so definite a form the proposals which had been advanced by the Provincial Forestry Department over a considerable period. While there are some objections to the present arrangement as it stands—chiefly on the ground that very large blocks of timber can be leased and controlled by comparatively few individuals—a definite start is being made towards a more regenerative forest program than has existed before.

It has been clear for a long time that stripping forest lands faster than nature can regenerate the timber could only lead to outright exhaustion of British Columbia's softwood stands. The urge to cut without regard to regrowth has been present for decades without intermission, freshly spurred by the World War and the postwar demand for lumber. Annual cuts of close to four thousand million board feet, against natural regeneration less than one-third of that figure, indicated an ominous trend. Even while logging practices have improved and a greater degree of responsibility is shown in extracting these primary assets, something needed to be done to redress the ratio of cut to growth. For many practical reasons that could only be done gradually.

The forest management program, which has sustained yield operations as its aim, can bring British Columbia more into line with practices prevailing in the much older forests of Europe. When use replaces waste and care is taken to restock denuded acres on a definite basis there is some encouragement for the future. Even so it may be a century before the real benefits of the new policy will mature

The Flag Issue Rears Its Head Again

CONCEIVABLY Prime Minister St Laurent might be able to persuade Quebec thought in a way not possible to Mr. Mackenzie King, but one doubts he will be anxious to revive the issue of a distinctive Canadian flag. This is a subject that splits the nation in two, with one Province adamant against the inclusion of the Union Jack—notwithstanding its past and present use, about which there is apparently no objection—and all others against its omission. Minority opinion is thus disproportionate, but it is fundamental.

While the flag question died a parliamentary death a year or so back the Canadian Legion are not content that this should be so. They think it high time that Canada should have a flag to call its own, which it should, and the Dominion Command was charged at their recent convention to pursue the matter. This will not be happy news for the Government, nor probably for Parliament either.

A parliamentary committee spent laborious months examining some 2,400 submitted designs before eliminating all but one, that which consisted of the Red Ensign with a golden leaf in the fly. This was four years ago. A Liberal caucus squashed its adoption when Quebec members threatened to rebel because of the presence of the Union Jack. Thereafter the matter was gradually shelved. Sentiment may have altered in Quebec since then, but unfortunately no evidence exists to indicate this might be the case

Whatever the Canadian Legion may do, however, who will be watched with interest by those who believe the subject is one that cannot be shelved forever.

For the Fon It's Far From Fun

BY now the United Nations probably wishes it had stuck to its knitting and left the matrimonial affairs of the Fon of Bikom and his multitude of "wives" severely alone. For its meddling the U.N. has been given a polite slap on the wrist and a neat lesson in domestic relations and social welfare, which while scarcely adaptable to the Western world, suits the Fon's family circle admirably.

The Fon is a tribal chief in the Cameroons, Nigeria. Some months ago a band of busybodies with more zeal than discretion confronted the U.N. General Assembly with the startling intelligence that in this enlightened era the Fon was the possesser of 400 wives. They could envisage nothing but slavery and degradation in such an uncivilized setup; and what was the U.N. going to do about it? These being the days of commissions on every conceivable subject, the U.N. solemnly appointed a four-man one to journey to the Cameroons for a glimpse of this modern harem and a chat with the inmates.

Well, it turned out that the Fon wasn't that kind of a sultan at all, but a benign centenarian; that he hadn't anything like 400 wives, only a mere 110; and that his polygamous proclivities, far from the imaginings of the do-goods, were from motives of solicitude for the welfare of his so-called wives. The "wives" received the uninvited mission coldly and sent it away flea in ear. They made it clear that they did not welcome the delegation's nosing, were perfectly happy and contented, and in no need of liberation or emancipation by anyone.

A red-faced and wiser commission, shown the evidence of what seemed to be a model welfare scheme, returned to report tersely. "Polygamy is a type of social security," which may pose something of a problem in cross-indexing for the filing clerks.

Victoria Symphony Orchestra Reaches Maturity

IT is with considerable pleasure that The Daily Colonist has arranged to sponsor the opening concert of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra's tenth anniversary season, on October 4 The Colonist does so because of a firm belief in the value to the community of this and kindred endeavors to provide opportunities for all people to share in the enjoyment of good music. In this development the community owes a debt to the Symphony Society which it can discharge only by continuing to support its praiseworthy efforts.

A special article in the magazine section of this issue outlines the history of the orchestra and its parent society. It has been an uphill road financially, with no more than token assistance from the public purse The reward of those who have worked to build the original small group of musicians into a full symphony orchestra lies in the fact that it now ranks fourth among the symphony orchestras of Canada That is a notable achievement in the short space of nine years, and one of which the city has every reason to be proud.

AN OBJECTION

Sir,—Like many other people, the Windermere Hotel has been my home for a number of years.

Yesterday, without warning, we were told that the hotel had been leased for the headquarters of the R.C.M.P. and we must all "clear out" on October 15 as the police wished to move in on that date.

Legally, no tenant can be evicted without being given a full month's notice and as an English woman I am greatly puzzled why the Canadian police should seem ignorant concerning this law.

SPEEDING ON HIGHWAY

Sir,—Stand for around ten minutes at the bottom of Colquitz Avenue and watch those speed maniacs go by.

They don't care about the double lines. They have to pass everything, regardless of cars coming from the opposite direction. They are dodging in and out at such terrific speed one turns faint to watch the narrow escapes from death and marvels that there are not more people killed.

Also, I believe that it would do more good than talk to leave cars that have crashed at the side of the road for a few days, just to let these motorists who do not abide by the laws of the road see what can happen.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

H. B WARNER looked more desiccated when he called on Miss Swanson at the Royal Theatre last night than he did the day I spied him sitting on a fence in the courtyard of the Empress Hotel That was about eleven years ago, so he has every right to have shrivelled a bit.

If I remember correctly he was none too pleased that I had run him down. It broke his incognito, as it were. Whether there was a subtle revenge in the subject he discussed—dogs—I have never since been quite sure. Although, as it happens, they were Bette Davis' dogs

A decade ago Victoria was a mecca for Hollywoodians, and it was common experience for a reporter to chit-chat with these celluloid personalities In the flesh they were an interesting mixture, and not all so urbane as Mr. Warner was despite his suppressed annoyance.

There was that scintillating star, Spencer Tracy, for instance. To a colleague who boarded Frank Morgan's yacht to meet him he was plain rude, while he ran out on this column so callously it prejudiced me against his pictures. He broke a personal promise for an interview which I found out later he had no intention of keeping, as he had arranged to go fishing No doubt the fishing was preferable, but that sort of duplicity did not appeal to me.

* * *

Mickey Rooney was another disappointment. He proved to be a very ordinary youth indeed, accompanied, I recall, by guardians, perhaps with reason. He had nothing to say, and he said it poorly. Why bobby-soxers should have pursued him en route from the C.P.R. dock to the Empress I shall never understand. Every local high school had fifty youths who put his looks to shame.

Douglas Dumbrille, never a star but a leading "heavy" of those days, belied his film roles He was a pleasant chap wholly unlike the sinister character he generally aped on the screen, and the cup of tea we had together suited him much better, I'm sure Anna Neagle, on the other hand, was the double of her picture self. She had came up to help Gracie Fields entertain the troops by enacting her "Alice Blue-Gown" singing and dancing sequence, and when she stepped off the plane in Esquimalt Harbor she was just a lovely girl, charming and quite unaffected.

As for Gracie, she is un-Hollywoodian No more refreshing performer ever came to Victoria, on or off the stage. Except, perhaps, that all the world's her stage, as the Lancashire folk here demonstrated when they gave her a royal welcome. But of course you know all about Gracie Fields.

* * *

Cole Porter reminded me of the George Raft you see in gangster roles He had a brooding look and when hunched over a table with two companions gave the impression some dark conspiracy was being planned. Yet his danger consists only in writing songs for movie stars, I believe. That other musician, Alec Templeton, was surrounded by mentors the day I met him, who shepherded him carefully from harm—and inquisitive reporters. He had the cheeriness so marked in many blind men, and was as perky as a robin, a quality his radio programs transmit very well.

When he was here Brian Donlevy was not the star he became later. You would have taken him for a smart young businessman, not an actor. He was the friendly type, aware no doubt that without publicity half the fame of movie people would evaporate. It was a pleasure to meet him.

Jack Benny I never met. He invaded Victoria with his stooges during the war, you remember, commissioned by Canadian officialdom to instruct us on why we should buy war bonds. Even if I had never cottoned to his act that faux pas was enough to keep me away. I glimpsed him vaguely, at a distance, which was as close as this column desired.

"WE have a principle in education. It's called equality. You know what that means, children—it means we are all equal."

The speaker was Education Minister W. T. Straith The occasion was the opening of a one-room school on Cortes Island at the head of the Gulf of Georgia.

Since the war, the Government, backed by local school boards, has a proud record of transforming the ideal of education equality into fact. The ideal, often expressed by Mr Straith, is to give every child, regardless of race, creed or location, an equal chance to learn

* * *

Main sufferers because of race up to now, have been native Indians. They have been segregated at reserve schools, some of them very good schools, but falling far short of the ideal, which would permit Indians to mix, in fact and spirit as well as in words, with whites

For many years Canadians have mouthed about racial equality with flagrant hypocrisy. In actual fact, native Indians were set apart and looked down upon They were barred from the chance to become full citizens of their homeland

Now the Government is making agreements with Ottawa which will permit Indian children to attend the same schools as whites on terms of full equality.

* * *

I saw the official opening of one such school at Quathiaski Cove. Quadra Island, last week It was good to see. The Indian children were mixing in. They were bright, alert and neat, obviously taking on the standards of their schoolfellows in dress and conduct. Indian mothers proudly attended the opening ceremonies to see their youngsters take a full part in the entertainments provided.

For the first time their children were being given an equal chance.

Because of geography it is more difficult in British Columbia than in any other part of Canada to give rural children equal opportunities with those who live in the cities. The Province is dotted with small communities not large enough to justify school buildings, and individual families separated by great distances

The islands along the East Coast of Vancouver Island are typical. They're dotted with tiny settlements of loggers and fishermen, whose children in the past have suffered severe educational handicaps.

Since the war the Government has developed an amazing bus transportation system to bring children from isolated areas to good schools. The old tumbledown rural school house is rapidly being replaced by small but modern rural schools comparing well with those in the city

* * *

Campbell River district has the most unusual "bus" system in Canada Every day a motor launch travels 35 miles to collect children from the islands for the school at Surge Narrows. All of these children would otherwise have to take their education by correspondence right from the primary grade. As it is they didn't miss a school day throughout last Winter.

A secondary effect of providing good schooling in remote areas is to aid in developing British Columbia's rich hinterland Married couples who formerly would not go into the remote areas because of educational disadvantages for their children are now quite happy to have a part in pioneering the lonely places

"WHY are you filling in that form? Surely you have not been involved in another automobile accident," the boss of the shop exclaimed when he saw Bill, the Broad Street barber, holding a stub of pencil as he labored over a sheet of paper covered with fine print. "I can safely say that I have had fewer automobile accidents than you," Bill retorted. "Is that so? At any rate, your brand of driving has caused more than a score of others to have accidents. Now let us hear about the gigantic mental effort you are trying to achieve," the boss continued "As a matter of fact I am trying to get a rough idea of the amount of income tax I will have to pay next year. Any more questions?" Bill retorted. "What do you suppose you will be able to fill in under the heading of dependents?" the boss asked. "Never mind about that. I am going to try a shot in the dark The Dominion, Provincial and municipal governments are my biggest dependents," Bill chuckled . "I read a headline in an Eastern newspaper that the Dominion Government might move some time this year to halt the soaring cost of living" a customer remarked to Barber Ben "I remember in history how King Canute ordered the sea to fall back" Ben observed . "Something will have to be done to stop the increase in the number of traffic fatalities throughout the Province" a neighbor said to the Keating Squire when they were driving to the city at a safe 25 miles per hour "Heavy fines and suspension of drivers' licences have not accomplished anything What do you think of a safety campaign with carefully selected slogans?" the squire asked. "A very good idea What would you suggest as a sample slogan?" his friend inquired "If you want to see 75, do not look for it on the speedometer," the squire answered . . Highest legal speed limit in North America is that of 70 miles per hour on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

It Can't Be Done—But He Does It

(From The Baltimore Sun)

MANY an ocean voyager has been astonished to see his ship overtaken by a school of porpoises bowling along at the speed of an express train and disappearing presently over the horizon ahead.

Now and then one or more of them will be seized with the impulse to ride the ship's bow wave, sometimes for hours on end And if the porpoise is close enough, the observer discovers to his astonishment that the porpoise's flukes are moving hardly at all—though his forward motion, synchronized with the wave, may be that of a fast ship.

How does he do it? The British scientific magazine Nature conducted a symposium on the question not long ago. And it was the almost unanimous conclusion of the scientists who participated that what the porpoise does in the way of fast swimming simply can't be done, by porpoise or anyone else

That is, taking into account the resistance of the water, the shape of his body, the calculated propulsive efficiency of his muscular system, and the porpoise's estimated output of energy, it is simply impossible for a porpoise to swim as fast as he does as long as he does. Yet he does.

Victoria in Beard and Crinoline

From Files of The Daily British Colonist for September, 1863

By G. E. MORTIMORE

MANY people moan that a nickel won't buy anything these days They would have had reason to moan even louder in the colonial period, when the coin didn't exist.

The Daily British Colonist thundered editorially because the smallest coin in circulation was the now-vanished "bit"—valued at 12½ cents

The only traces of the coin that now remain are the everyday slang terms "two bits" and "four bits." Few people know that the bit was ever minted

The Colonist complained that the coin worked a hardship on poor people who didn't have much of a jingle in the pocket.

"As our working population increases, it will be necessary that a smaller coin should be in circulation than that nondescript variety, the 'bit.' So long as there is no less coin, small consumers do not meet with justice in their purchases

"It is impossible to split the difference between a 'quarter' and a 'bit,' or between a 'bit' and no piece at all, and the advantage is sure to be taken against the purchaser, either in quality or quantity.

"No country has ever been able to carry on its domestic commerce without the use of smaller coins or their substitutes Without them the poor customer is obliged to purchase more than he requires of one article, whilst he goes without another because he only wishes to expend one bit; again, the purchaser of one article, price ten cents, pays one bit for the article, whilst he who buys five of the articles pays but four.

"This is out of all proportion in favor of the large consumer, and tends to the restriction of trade by barring the poor man from the opportunities of fairly expending his small earnings."

The Times of London had said there was room for 800,000 workmen in the two colonies The Colonist observed that "they will be a class who know the value of a penny, and it will be expedient to provide for them with its substitute in cents."

We don't have to worry about a smaller coin today. It's doubtful if we need the proposed seven-and-one-half-cent nickel. All we need is the large, economy-size dollar we used to have.

"Go ahead," replied the other, "[illegible] if you do, it'll cost you a stroke."

In One Room in Berlin West, Russia Co-operate

BERLIN, Sept. 23 (AP)—A funeral calm hangs over Room 179—the last room in Berlin where Russians and Westerners work at the same table.

The Soviet lieutenant on duty looks glum and bored. He taps idly with a pencil on his log-book, in which he has written scarcely 30 lines.

An American sergeant at the other end of the table wonders aloud how he'll like being a civilian again after 21 years in uniform.

A staff-sergeant from London tells of the job he might go back to in his family's pub in Fleet Street.

BOOKED FOR CONTROL

Room 179 is on the ground floor of a building on Potsdamerstrasse. Two hundred rooms were booked there for the Allied Control Authority back in the Potsdam era.

Nearly all the rooms are unused and locked. The only one that Russians come to is 179. A sign on the door says: "Allied Air Safety Centre."

In Room 179 Russia and the West do two things. Exchange flight plans for aircraft in the three 20-mile-wide Berlin corridors, and deliver protests against each other for violating four-power traffic rules.

Nobody gets much in the way of apology or regrets. The violations are relatively harmless. An American airliner cuts a corner of Soviet-occupied Thuringia. A formation of Russian jets skims the outskirts of West Berlin.

ONE SERIOUS INCIDENT

The only serious East-West aerial incident occurred early in 1946. A Soviet fighter collided with a British transport, but the West's verdict was that it was a Russian pilot's error, was not intentional.

When the Allied airlift was roaring at full strength in a single day 1,398 flights delivered 12,940 tons to Berlin—the Russians at the centre arranged for Western rescue parties to reach lift planes which had crashed in the Soviet zone. These courtesies were appreciated, but weren't the stuff that headlines are made of.

Traffic now rarely exceeds 25 American and British planes in a day. The French have a couple. The Russians each morning announce in vague terms the day's operations for hundreds of fighter planes at their air bases in the corridors.

Of all the vast array of inter-Allied agencies created in 1945, the Air Safety Centre alone has survived without a Soviet rupture.

The unwritten rule of the Air Safety Centre is: "No politics here."

Pravda Assails Canadians

MOSCOW, Sept. 23 (AP)—A Pravda correspondent reported from Korea today that "Canadian flyers, drunk with gin, are killing the wounded being evacuated" from Seoul.

(An R.C.A.F. transport squadron has been flying supplies from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokio as part of the United Nations forces. There has been no announcement, however, that the Canadians have been flying into Korean airfields.

(The Moscow dispatch made no further reference to Canadians).

In Ottawa, an R.C.A.F. spokesman described as "fantastic" today a Moscow charge that drunken Canadian flyers are killing wounded being evacuated from the former South Korean capital of Seoul.

There are no Canadian airmen on combat duty in the war theatre.

Strictly Fighting Man

G.I. Finds Germany Dull, Takes Furlough to Korea

WITH U.S. 25TH DIVISION, Sept. 23 (AP)—The soldier who bought his own ticket to the Korean war is happy.

"This is what I wanted," said Sgt. Richard R. Pretzer of San Francisco as he moved up with an attacking spearhead toward Chinju.

Everyone but Pretzer is wondering how he got here.

Officially, Pretzer was—until yesterday—part of the 1st Infantry Division at Furth, Germany.

"But Germany was no place to be with a war in Korea," Pretzer explains. And his old division, the 25th, was in Korea.

So Pretzer asked around. He found by re-enlisting he could have a furlough. He re-enlisted. Then Dick bought a plane ticket to California. In San Francisco he planked down his savings for another air ticket—to Tokio.

At Tokio's Haneda airport the red tape is thick. But the sergeant hitchhiked a ride to Taegu, then climbed on a freight train to Pusan. There he found a truck headed for this front and climbed in.

He went right up to a rifle company.

Then Pretzer reported in—still on furlough. Days later, after the doughboys knew they had a fighting man with them, he told the true story.

Cables raced back to Washington. Yesterday a cable came back.

Dateline: Washington.

Text: Sergeant Pretzer is assigned to the 25th Division. Records will be forwarded from Germany.

Oslo Expects Canadian Ships

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 23 (Reuters).—The Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent and two destroyers of the Royal Canadian Navy will arrive in Oslo on Tuesday for a six-day visit, it was announced yesterday.

The Canadian warships are on a cruise to member states of the North Atlantic Treaty. This will be the first time the Canadian navy has visited Oslo.

Hospital Plan In Effect Soon

CALGARY, Sept. 23 (CP)—Calgary's $1-a-day "plus extras" hospital plan will go into effect November 1, City Council announced last night.

The scheme provides that of the $6.20 a day standard charge of hospitalization, the ratepayer patient will pay $1 a day plus any extra charges which are made above the flat rate. Of the remaining $5.20, the Provincial Government will continue to pay a grant of 70 cents a day, and the difference of $4.50 will be split between the Provincial Government and the city, which will pay its share out of taxes.

The plan is voluntary for non-ratepayers. Those joining the scheme will pay a rate of $15 a year for single persons and $20 a year for families.

Oddities

DETROIT, Sept. 23 (AP)—Police were sympathetic with 82-year-old Mrs. Dorothy Hamilton after tracing some lottery tickets to her.

They figured she was just a bewildered old lady caught up on the gambling fringe. Then they took her fingerprints.

Police said it turned out that the woman in the old-fashioned clothes had an international police record. Records showed she had been jailed in Britain in 1927 for obtaining money under false pretences.

So police marked her down as the mastermind of a lottery proposed to raise $75,000 for two non-existent orphan homes.

Mrs. Hamilton was charged with operating a lottery.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23 (AP)—When Mrs. J. T. Olsen opened a cupboard door to investigate a noise yesterday, out popped a snarling bobcat.

He's one of two which clawed out of a pen next door after their recent capture in the mountains. Mrs. Olsen called humane officers to "Come get these cats."

"Put them in a box, lady," they said.

"Not these!" she retorted.

They're still on the trail.

Beneficiary Of $10,000 Proves Nun

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23 (AP)—The mysterious "Sue" left $10,000 in the strange will of Charles Babonet of Los Angeles proved today to be a nun teaching in a New Orleans school under a vow of poverty.

She is Sister Eugenia who before entering the Roman Catholic Order of the Daughters of Charity was Evelyn Bogart of Los Angeles. She teaches at St. Stephen's Parochial School here.

The tall, pale faced, bespectacled nun, jovial rather than ascetic, confirmed today that she is the "Sue" to whom Babonet left $10,000 because she and a neighboring family befriended him some 33 years ago.

She first learned of her good fortune last night, she said, when her mother and "a gentleman" whom she declined to identify called her by telephone.

GOES TO POOR

Asked what disposition she would make of the money, she replied:

"Our life is dedicated to the poor. Any money I get will be distributed to help the poor and no one organization will get the lump sum."

"Sue," then a child of nine, was riding in the car of the William Tysons 33 years ago when they picked up Babonet walking along the highway and gave him a happy day at the beach. The Tysons had never seen Babonet before or since but the quiet Austrian immigrant never forgot that day.

"If I live to be 1,000 I never forget that day," Babonet wrote in his will and left the Tysons $100,000.

War Increases Marriage Rate

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—The marriage rate has been climbing since the Korean war started June 25.

In many places it has risen 20 per cent, an Associated Press survey shows.

A check was made of 20 marriage licence bureaus scattered around the country. Every one reported "business" in July and August, 1950, was greater than in the same period of 1949, when the war was still cold and the draft only standby machinery.

One marriage licence bureau reported the mid-Summer parade to the altar broke all previous records. Kent County, Michigan, where Grand Rapids is located, had 408 applications to wed during August.

New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Minneapolis and several smaller cities reported 20 per cent increases over last Summer. Philadelphia had the biggest wedding boom since 1946.

Five Postwar Years Dull Sense of Guilt

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 23 (Reuters).—Five years of growing postwar prosperity have dulled Germany's sense of war-guilt, says a senior American official.

The gradual warming-up of the cold war was encouraging Germans to say "what they really think."

In making these comments on a popular survey which showed an increase in the number of Germans hankering after "the good old days of Nazism," he suggested: "Figures can lie."

There was no cause for alarm. All the survey showed was merely a national consequence of the passage of time.

BADLY APPLIED

The figures showed an increase from 52 per cent two years ago to 58 per cent today in the number of Germans who thought Nazism was a good idea badly applied.

Five years in which to reflect, said this official, had affected German thinking. So, too, had the restoration of freedom to express their thoughts.

The impact of Communism and the freezing of the world into "East" and "West" camps had entered into their answers, he said.

Germans have found more confidence to utter their secret conviction that Nazism was the answer to Communism, he said.

The return of thousands of prisoners from Russia—many exhausted, emaciated and ill-clothed—has hardened feelings and revived memories that the same men all but conquered European Russia, he continued.

The survey did not mean that Germans were Nazi or ultra-Nationalistic, he added.

CONDEMN WAR

It showed, for instance, that they almost unanimously condemned such Nazi characteristics as aggressive war, concentration camps and race persecution.

Supporters of the race superiority doctrine had fallen from 43 to 34 per cent.

The number who credited the United States with furthering, rather than hindering German recovery had grown from 39 to 68 per cent.

So did the number admitting Hitler's responsibility for the war—from 26 to 55 per cent.

Pride in recovery had dulled the edge of the immediate postwar self-abasement, the official said.

While acknowledging dollar help, Germans felt the dollars useless without the hard work and efficiency which has translated them into relative well-being, he said.

EGO BOOSTED

Politically, the courting of Germany by the Western powers also was a boost for the national ego.

German officials tended to agree with this American assessment of the survey.

They commented that Communism had brought into sharper focus basic similarities and differences between itself and Nazism.

Similarities were: Personal dictatorship, concentration camps, single parties, religious persecution, totalitarianism. Under major basic difference, they listed economic and social policies.

Nazis believed in private enterprise, private profit and private ownership of industry, although controls were introduced ("Guns for Butter") to facilitate rearmament.

Jewelry Firm Celebrating 40th Birthday

One of Victoria's oldest jewelry firms, Little & Taylor, is celebrating 40 years of continuous service to citizens of Victoria.

In 1910, Little & Taylor was founded at 611 Fort Street, by the late M. J. Little and Howard Taylor.

Following the fire which demolished the David Spencer store that year, a move was made to 817 Fort Street, and in 1924 a further move was made to the present location at 1209 Douglas Street.

Today, the firm is headed by T. M. Little, son of one of the founders.

An expanded service based on traditions established by the founders, includes a factory room where individual pieces of jewelry and special orders in gold, silver and platinum are manufactured; an engraving department, where intricate patterns are produced with ease and a watch department.

The firm, noted for its beautiful jewelry, has had the distinction, since 1940, of being the only registered jeweler of the American Gem Society in the city.

The employees of Little & Taylor, many of them of long-standing service with the firm include Harry Whittingham, Al Watson and Vic Powley in the manufacturing department; Arnold W. Trevett engraving, Maurice Nolin and E. J. Jordan watch department; Miss F. M. Smith and George Titterton assisted by Mrs. E. Browne and Mrs. B. Clair, sales staff, and Miss A. Harness, credit.

Whittingham and Trevett are World War One veterans, and Powley and Jordan, Titterton, Nolin, veterans of World War Two.

T. M. "Tommy" Little continues to carry out the policy of the founders, "to represent goods exactly as to their quality, to sell to those who know and to those who don't know values at a uniform fair price; to fulfil all guarantees, to deserve the confidence of the public by always giving satisfaction."

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1950

Today's quotation: "More important than the fact that a nation is judged by its art is the fact that a nation lives by its art, and the things men live by are more important than the things they live on." —Allen Tucker

Sunday for Everyone—Make this a quiet Sunday. Read, relax, catch up with correspondence, visits to those who are old, incapacitated, or in need of some cheering up. Shun opposition, inharmony.

Look for your birth date and birth sign below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Take pains not to "rub someone the wrong way." Be an inconspicuous, quiet listener.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Be discerning, judicious, analytical about congenial ties you form now.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Retain the esteem of others; veer away from revisions which may damage your status.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Wait until you can see your way clearly before obligating yourself. Adjust to changes.

July 23 to Aug 22 (Leo)—Review monetary records; check cash. Get some relaxation.

Aug 23 to Sept 22 (Virgo)—Team up with others, but first make sure that everything is clear. Show stability.

Sept. 23 to Oct 22 (Libra)—Maintain peace and tranquillity, take no action which might cause bickering or physical discomfort.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Find pleasure in company of loved ones. Take no chances, however.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Head off any negative role or sense of strain in the "hustle and bustle" about you.

Dec 22 to Jan 19 (Capricorn)—Pamper those in your locale a bit; they'll want plenty of notice.

Jan. 20 to Feb 18 (Aquarius)—Elude activities which may tax the bank roll or cause damage to possessions.

Feb 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Set the pace today; guide those about you toward worthwhile pursuits. Be very tactful.

Planning Ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: September 27, 28, 30, October 5, 6.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1950

Today's quotation:

No day has ever failed me quite
Before the grayest day is done
I find some misty purple bloom,
Or a late line of crimson sun.
—Grace Noll Crowell

Monday for Everyone—Devote this day to routine and ordinary interests. Circumvent a tendency to opposition or inharmony. Do not permit the words or actions of others to upset you.

Look for your birth date and birth sign below:

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Have nothing to do with negative persons. Conclude minor pending issues.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Check to see that goals will not prove too costly. Fortify relationships.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Co-operation of the right type is lacking, so depend upon your own efforts. Dispatch responsibilities.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Be sure you don't overestimate proposals. Use extra care in transit and as to what you say or write.

July 23 to Aug 22 (Leo)—Monetary aid from folks should not be counted upon. Pursue an economical course.

Aug. 23 to Sept 22 (Virgo)—Be ready to carry out your end of things, even though others do not.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Hold firm to convictions when transacting business with vacillating folks. Be poised, cautious.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Finances are a major consideration in planning activities. Keep clear of questionable ventures.

Nov 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Demand no ultimatum in the domestic or community scene. Avoid radical actions.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—In contacts with "touchy" folks, be as diplomatic and sympathetic as possible.

Jan. 20 to Feb 18 (Aquarius)—Calculate the financial side of projects before putting them into operation.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Defer revisions until you are certain they are for the best, get others' reaction to them first.

Planning Ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: September 27, 28, 30; October 5, 6, 12, 14, 19, 20, 21, 24, 25.

CHAPTER XVIII—Continued

Yet Mike's whirlwind methods of getting about gave him a bird's eye view of the London of this period which he never afterward forgot. Whether hurtling over the cobbles in a rocking hackney coach, or fighting his way through the crowds, Mike's raucous voice and flailing arms never failed to make their progress so meteoric that houses, shops, men, women, horses, colors, scents and noise seemed to flow past like the sights and sounds and smells of a whirling nightmare.

Zachary hated London by night more than by day. He was thankful, when on Saturday night Mike dragged him out for a last evening's revelry, that it was the last. Tomorrow would be Sunday, and on Monday he'd be on his way home.

Yet from the start of the evening's entertainment, he was uneasy. For a beginning, Mike insisted upon putting Zachary's bull-roarer in his pocket. "Let that damn thing alone!" Zachary implored him irritably. "Put it back where you found it, Mike. It's unlucky. It's mine, isn't it? Put it back, I tell you."

But Mike was not in an obliging mood, and merely thundered down the stairs and out into the street with the bull-roarer still in his pocket. Zachary followed in a bad temper, and they walked in silence to the eating house of Mike's choice.

The door swung open to admit half a dozen noisy young revelers, officers on leave, like themselves. They looked around for a moment, saw two of their kind devouring most succulent steak, and bore down upon them with whoops of joy.

Up till the early hours of the morning the night was gloriously rowdy and quite harmless. In between the visits to Leicester Fields, Haymarket and Vauxhall Gardens they wrenched a few handles off respectable front doors, yowled like cats, and played leapfrog over the stone posts along the pavements.

It was this last amusement that led to trouble. Leapfrogging was the prerogative of the street urchins, not of the gentry, and a row of posts stood conveniently not far from an alley leading to one of the pits of darkness that so haunted Zachary. He saw the posts, he noticed the alley, and felt misgiving even before he saw the flying figure of Mike leading his battalion into action. Some sort of underground message must have conveyed itself from the posts to the slum beyond the alley, for in five minutes a band of young roughs had come surging up out of the darkness, yelling blue murder, and the fight was on.

Mike suddenly thought of the bull-roarer. Having just knocked out two opponents, and being momentarily at leisure, it struck him that the glorious din of it might do something to scare the enemy and clear the muddied heads of his own side who were getting distinctly the worst of it at the moment. He produced the treasure from his pocket, twisted the string 'round his finger and swung it. Nothing for a moment, then the soft whirring, then the roaring rushing wind, louder and louder, rising gloriously above the noises of the battle. The effect upon the enemy was immediate, but not quite what Mike had intended. They saw the small brown thing whirling at the end of its string, such an instrument of glorious noise as they had never beheld before, and they coveted with a desire that could not be denied. Casting their other opponents from them, they set upon Mike.

The onslaught was too much even for Mike, he slipped and fell, and a tall ragged scarecrow of a boy leaped upon him and dragged the bull-roarer out of his hand. Then in a flash the boy was gone, racing off with the bull-roarer down the dark alley; and not only with the bull-roarer: he had Mike's purse too.

In a moment Mike was on his feet again, tearing after, winged with rage, Zachary after Mike, those of the warriors who were not by this time incapacitated by their wounds yelling at their heels like hounds in full cry.

CHAPTER XIX

At the first sound of the bull-roarer, Zachary's heart had sunk like a stone. He had never been able to rid himself of his superstitious feelings about it. God help them all now, for they had left the streets and plunged headlong into one of those pits of darkness into which a man might fall and never be found again. On and on they went, down and down, deeper into the darkness and the foulness.

The end of it all came with surprising suddenness. They reached what seemed the end of an alley, blocked by a door in a wall, and the dark boy flung himself against the door. He had expected it to give way but someone had apparently bolted it upon the other side. He was half-starved, and had not the strength of his pursuers, but he turned with his back to the door and faced them, his fists ready.

"Let him alone, Mike!" yelled Zachary. "Damn you, let him alone!"

But Mike's demon of hellish anger had got him and would not let him go. Zachary saw his face beneath the red hair, scarlet with drink and hate and rage, and the murderous look in his eyes that made him seem a stranger. He'd kill the other fellow if he could. He leaped, but Zachary leaped quicker and was between the two of them, the dark boy knocked backwards between his own body and the door.

Mike saw a dark, lean face confronting his own, and was sent staggering by the blow of a fist on his jaw, and for a moment or two did not grasp the fact that it was Zachary he was fighting and that his real opponent had vanished. When he did grasp it the realization that it was Zachary who had robbed him of his quarry and given him that blow on the jaw, added bitter hurt to a rage that had long ago passed beyond his control. His blows came so thick and fast that Zachary was gripped by panic. "Stop it, Mike," he gasped. "Mike! It's me, Zachary. Mike!"

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

WORST MISERIES OF CHILDREN'S Colds Relieved Overnight
Warming soothing relief from the misery of children's colds comes quickly when you rub on Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Often by morning most of the distress of a cold is gone. VapoRub is so effective because of its special double action. First, VapoRub penetrates deep into cold-congested bronchial tubes to relieve congestion ... soothe irritation. At the same time, it stimulates chest and back areas like a warming, comforting poultice. Tonight, use Vicks VapoRub for your child's cold.

Esquimalt High School Facing Progressive Year

By KITTY DIXON
Esquimalt High School

There is a bright future for E.H.S this year! The Students' Council, under the able sponsorship of Mr. Reid, is already at work. Its members for the year 1950-51 are as follows President, Jeanne McKay; vice-president, Art Gamble; secretary, Jean Spedding, treasurer, Laurie Todd, Red Cross representative, Shirley Nutter and cheer leader, Trisha Hamill. Class presidents and secretaries are: Division 1, Peter Doherty, Gerry Guest. Division 3, Bob Hancock, Patsy Burke. Division 4, Jean Saunders, Helen Douglas. Division 5, Cee McCready, Don Silcocks. Division 6, Dave Walker, Nedine Wright. Division 7, Jim Ord, Carmen Harvey. Division 8, Marcus Cunningham, Ron Holder.

The school is glad to welcome two new members to the teaching staff this term. They are Miss Margaret McKay, formerly of Nelson, B.C., and Miss Dorothy Laidler, an ex-student of Esquimalt High.

ELECT OFFICERS

On Tuesday, September 12, the three houses, Mercury, Jupiter, and Neptune, under the sponsorship of Mr. Anderson, Miss McKay, and Miss Cnnibear, respectively, met to elect this year's officers.

Mercury elected Trevor Jeanes as house captain, Don Joyce as boys' sports captain, and Beverly Rose as girls' sports captain. Barrie Jackson is house captain of Jupiter, Ron Hunter, boys' sports captain, and Jean Joyce, girls sports captain. Neptune chose Ted Saunders as house captain, Laurie Dodd, boys' sports captain, and Margaret Dobrocky, girls' sports captain.

The opening dance is scheduled for Friday, September 29, with the "Continental" Orchestra in attendance. The students are hoping to make it a great success.

Victoria High Students Elect House Captains

By JEAN WEBSTER
Victoria High School

Showing plenty of school spirit, V.H.S. has started another year, predicted to be the "best ever." Student Council work has already begun, with the first meeting being held last week. George Woollett, who last term was elected president after a very lively campaign, and Ron Birch, the runner up, already show definite signs of better-than-average leadership, and, aided by an efficient secretary in the person of Barbara Oliphant, they seem a good foundation for a prosperous year.

HOUSE CAPTAINS ELECTED

Senior classes elected the house captains recently, naming Marjorie Durnam and Bob Clarke, Delores Lavoie and George Henn, Catherine MacDonald and Garry Pynn, Margaret Sinclair and Pete Zarry as leaders of Houses I, II, III and IV, respectively. Keen competition is expected with House IV out to retain the cup, and all four houses sporting several noteworthy athletes

MAJORETTES REORGANIZE

V.H.S.'s vivacious majorettes have reorganized for their tenth consecutive year. Oldtimers Hazel Lum, Olga Leschuk, Barbara Chung Betty Jean Boulton, Shirley Heinrichs and Doreen Knepp will be joined by Joyce Taylor, Ann McPherson, Louella Kalk, Shirley Rowe, Joan Long and Shirley Waring. These eye-catching twirlers will make their season's debut at the October 20 basketball game.

While on the subject of basketball, a word should be said here about the "Totems." Bolstered by oldsters George Woolett, Lorne Oakley and Pete Zarry, and their ranks swelled by several potential stars, the rep team has already started training. Despite a delay caused by the surfacing of the gym floor all the "hopefuls" can be seen outside being put through their paces by coach Gordon Hartley, who is also training his track proteges for cross country racing.

Council Of School Named

By JOYCE JOHNSON
Mount Douglas High School

The first students' council meeting of this term was held last Monday. The council consists of President Doris Glass, Vice-President Budd Webb, Secretary June Drage, Treasurer Lorraine Walker and the Red Cross president, house captains, classroom representatives, and Hi-Y presidents.

Classroom representatives are: Margaret Laubach and Don Joyner, Grade XII, Eva Webb and Ted Johnston, Grade XI; Mary Cairns and Bob Skillings, Grade X, and Verna Hearn and Henry Lum, Grade IX.

Mount Douglas welcomes to the school the two new members of the staff, Miss Francis and Mr. Gibbs.

Bud Webb was re-elected president of the Boys' Hi-Y this year. The other officers are: Norm Lidstone, vice-president; Al Wallis, secretary, and John Gayton, treasurer. Membership is limited to students from Grades X, XI and XII.

The Girls' Hi-Y chose Margaret Revel, president; Joyce Johnson, vice-president; Peggy Arwick, secretary, and Beverley Hearn, treasurer. Membership of the club has increased this year due to the large number of Grade IX girls eager to join. The first house meeting of the Hi-Y was held September 15, at the home of Margaret Revel. Agnes Keith, author of "Three Came Home," was guest speaker and related her experiences in Borneo.

The houses have chosen their captains and vice-captains. They are as follows: Skeena—captain, Charlie Lum; vice-captain, Margaret Laubach; Douglas—captain, Beverley Hearn; vice-captain, Bob Skillings; Fraser — captain, Douglas Bonar; vice-captain, Daphne Blake

The senior girls' and boys' table tennis teams have been chosen for the inter-house competition which will begin shortly.

The girls' grass hockey team has started practising for this year's inter-high competition. Their first game is scheduled for Tuesday, September 26. Margaret Laubach was chosen captain again this year.

Adult Education Centre Hits Stride This Week

The Victoria College-Normal School Building gets into full stride as an Adult Education centre this week.

Regular uses of the building began two weeks ago when students of the Normal School started classes.

Victoria College students begin lectures at 8 30 a.m. Monday.

In the last two years, the building has taken on increasing importance to the cultural and academic life of the Greater Victoria area. This has been possible through the co-operation of the Departments of Education and Public Works.

USED EVENINGS

The building is being used on certain evenings as well as for regular day classes.

Authorities are of the opinion that an educational plant should not be closed up at 4 or 5 p.m. They consider that expensive facilities like schools should be available for adult education during the late afternoons and evenings.

During the past week, more than 50 local Government officials, business and professional people attended a Public Relations Institute held under the auspices of the evening division of the Victoria College.

Sessions were held from 4 to 6 and 7 30 to 8 30 p.m. each day Instructor was Paul G. Weaver, public relations consultant from Seattle.

WEEK'S CALENDAR

The evening calendar for this week is as follows.

Monday, 8 15 p.m., in the auditorium—First meeting of the season of the University Extension Association with U.B.C. librarian, Dr. L. W Dunlap, lecturing on "Lincoln's Papers."

Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 7:30 to 8 30 p.m., will be spent in taking registrations for the Victoria College evening division credit courses. It is essential that interested students register at these times since no course will be given unless it attracts a sufficient enrolment.

These credit courses provide an excellent opportunity for recent high school graduates to begin their university education, for others to obtain credits that have been withheld for various reasons and for adults to take courses for their academic and cultural interest.

On Wednesday, some of the non-credit courses of the evening division get under way at 8 p.m.

These are:

Labor Relations, under the leadership of Barrie H. E. Goult and a number of other lecturers from Victoria and Vancouver

The Development of the Symphony, with Graham Steed as lecturer.

Newcomers Initiated At Belmont

By BILL PARKER
Belmont High School

For the first time in the school's short history, newcomers to Belmont were initiated into the school body last week. Some 60 juniors underwent a rigorous but amusing indoctrination in becoming "Citizens of Belmont."

Highlight of the initiation came Friday afternoon, when the small fry had to cover a rather difficult obstacle race which included brief encounters with sawdust, ladders and water. Following the obstacle race, they were led in a short snake dance, and then paraded past the seniors, bowing and curtsying all the while. In closing the ceremony, an oath of allegiance was administered by council president Annie Maude Betts. As a welcome to the juniors, the school gave three cheers and the council then presented them with refreshment for surviving the ordeal.

All in all, the ceremony was most enjoyable, although some of the newcomers had their doubts at times. It is hoped that the initiation will become an annual event.

Students Hold First Social Of New Term

Three of last year's graduates from the Victoria Provincial Normal School who are at present teaching in the city returned last Friday night to aid the present students in staging the first regular Friday evening social activity of the year.

The three graduates, Desmond Cavin, Victor Dawson and Albert Frye, supplied music as they had done many times when they were students. They were aided by two of this year's student, John Buchko and Robert Miller and by one of the present faculty members, H Farquhar.

The program consisted of a sing-song, followed by a dance. Refreshments were served. It was estimated that more than 200 students and their friends attended.

Postpone Discussion Of Polling Stations

Meeting of the City Council legislative committee, scheduled Friday to discuss setting up multiple polling stations for civic elections, was postponed.

Ald. Harold M. Diggon, chairman, indicated the meeting would be held early next month.

Co-operates With Community Chest

FRANK PAULDING

After 30 years' experience as instructor, and after many requests, Mr. Paulding has decided to sponsor and teach an up-to-date streamlined course in public speaking, salesmanship, group leadership, and human relations, that is particularly suited to Canadian psychology and to the needs of Canadian business and professions.

It will consist of 18 double sessions plus a final banquet, and the very reasonable fee will be $39.00 including texts, subject to $4.00 cash discount. In the course stress will be given to speech communication, but human relations, salesmanship, group leadership, and memory training will also be featured. The conquering of fear and building of confidence are specialized.

A demonstration meeting was advertised for Monday, Oct. 2, but owing to the Community Chest drive has been postponed to Wednesday, Oct. 4, 8 p.m., at Terry's. Reservations and further information can be secured by phoning Frank Paulding at E 5890 or writing to 380 Foul Bay Road. ***

Star of "Next Voice You Hear" Nancy Davis No Cinderella

HEARD IN HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—Nancy Davis the 26-year-old actress Dore Schary personally selected to star in "The Next Voice You Hear," is no cinderella hoisted to fame on one of those typical Hollywood talent searches.

Nancy is the daughter of Dr. Loyal Davis, successful Chicago neuropathic surgeon and head of his department at Northwestern Medical School. She is a graduate of Smith College. All her life she has had everything her little heart desired.

But I wouldn't call Nancy spoiled, even though she is the only daughter of a family rich enough to live on Chicago's exclusive Lake Shore Drive.

Nancy is a sensible citizen. She lives in a small apartment in Brentwood. Although she longs for a small home with a garden, she feels she cannot afford it yet.

"Apartments are nothing new to me," she said. "I'm a city girl and I have lived in one all my life."

CONVERSATION IN CAR

This conversation took place in my car. I had gone to M-G-M to watch Lana Turner and Ezio Pinza emote in "Mr. Imperium," and Nancy, who haunts every set, was a visitor too.

"Hello," I said. "I have to leave for the beauty parlor in five minutes. How about driving to Westmore's with me while I get beautified?"

Amusements

ON THE SCREEN

- Atlas—"They Live by Night," at 3.27, 3:16, 9:35, plus, "Masked Raiders."
- Capitol—"Treasure Island," in Technicolor, at 1.00, 3.19, 5.38, 7:57, 10.16.
- Dominion — "Broken Arrow," in Technicolor, at 1:09, 3.06, 5:08, 7:21, 9:39.
- Fox—"Make Mine Laughs," plus, "The Bribe." Complete shows at 6.30 and 9.10.
- Odeon—"The Rocking Horse Winner," plus "Golden Salamander."
- Oak Bay—"So Evil My Love."
- Plaza — "The Baron of Arizona," plus "Movie Crazy."
- Royal — "Sunset Boulevard," at 1.55, 4.26, 6:57, 9.22.

"I'd love to," she said, "if you can send me back to the studio to pick up my car."

That was all arranged in a twinkling. Nancy and I were soon seated side by side in my car.

Nancy really looks unlike the usual conception of an actress. She might be the daughter of any town's leading citizen, or the competent secretary of a big official, but you would never label her an actress. I told her as much.

"But my mother was on the stage," she said. "As Edith Luckett, she was on Broadway."

NO OPPOSITION

"Then you had no opposition from your family?" I asked.

"None in the least," was her reply. "My parents hoped I would graduate from college. Although I intended to leave after my second year at Smith, I waited and received my degree for which I am very glad. I was so eager to start my stage career, I didn't want to spend four long years in school at first."

"What brought you to Hollywood and the movies?"

"Television," she said.

I must have looked my surprise, for she hastened to explain that she was playing in "The Tale of Christopher Bean" on video when her agents asked M-G-M. to take a look at her.

"My agents then had me come to California and make a test," she said. "You see, I appeared with Mary Martin in 'The Lute Song,' and with ZaSu Pitts in 'Ramshackle' on Broadway. In New York it's different from Hollywood—a New York agent selects you as his client. You don't engage him.

ASKED AGENCY

"No Broadway agency asked to represent me, so I asked Berg and Allenberg here in Hollywood to see what they could do about motion pictures, and M-G-M. engaged me."

This Davis girl is right down to earth—honest and forthright. She is grateful that Dore Schary, who joined M-G-M just about the same time she did, gave her the lead in his favorite picture. She thinks she is shot with luck to have Dore give her Bill Wellman to direct her again in "Plymouth Adventure."

"Plymouth Adventure" will be her third picture. She is coming along so fast that within a year she'll be one of M-G-M's top stars.

"Any one man in your life?" I asked her. I'd heard that Bob Walker was smitten with her.

"Not yet," she said. "I won't be trite and say I am married to my career, but that's pretty much the truth."

She left me to keep a tennis date. Swimming, tennis and other sports are her favorite recreation. She looks just what she is—a healthy, wholesome girl, well educated, well brought up and a lady.

Uncle Wiggily Story

By Howard Garis

LOCKED IN

In the dark room, where they had been hidden by Mother Cat, who had three little kittens and their mittens, Uncle Wiggily and his friends waited for what might happen next. As I told you, what had just happened yesterday was that they heard the sound of a big splash in Frog Pond.

The castle of the Marquis of Carabas stood on the shore of Frog Pond. And as Uncle Wiggily and his friends were in the castle they could easily hear the splash.

"Well, I guess he jumped into the water all right," said Buster, who was one of the pretend Hallowe'en ghost noise makers.

"Yes, I guess the Marquis is now swimming out," said Uncle Wiggily. "Mother Cat told me he was a good swimmer so he will come to no harm from having jumped in."

"Avast and belay!" chuckled Bosun, the jolly old seadog. "But how did the Marquis get from his bedroom, next door to our room, and into Frog Pond so quickly."

"His bedroom opens onto a balcony," said Doodle the funny little dog. "And the balcony is right over Frog Pond. So it was easy for the Marquis to jump into the water. Shall I play some music from my box, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Why do you want to play, Doodle?" Mr. Longears asked.

"Well," answered Doodle, who had a funny way of talking through his nose like Fred Allen, "I think we should celebrate in some way. We wanted the Marquis to hear funny ghost noises and then jump into Frog Pond to pay him back because he chased Bunty, didn't we?"

"That's right, Doodle," said Uncle Wiggily. "What we did was to play a joke on the Marquis because of what he did to Bunty. Yes, I suppose you may have your box play, Doodle. That is if you can make funny music?"

"But where are you, highness?"

"I'll try," barked the funny dog. "Come on, Box, please play some funny music while the Marquis of Carabas is swimming out of Frog Pond."

Doodle's box played a funny tune called "When You Get Wet, the Next Thing Is to Get Dry."

When the music stopped, Uncle Wiggily and his friends heard the Marquis shouting from the shore of Frog Pond:

"Puss! Puss in Boots! Where are you?"

"I'm in your bedroom," answered the big black cat. "But where are you, Highness?"

"I was in Frog Pond," the Marquis answered. "But I'm out now. I jumped into Frog Pond to get away from the ghost. Has he gone?"

"I think he has, Your Highness."

"Then, Puss, bring me down a towel so that I may dry myself. And also bring me a pair of dry pajamas. These I have on are all wet."

"I should think they might be," said Puss in Boots. "Wait a moment and I'll bring you dry things."

Uncle Wiggily and his friends could hear Puss opening bureau drawers, getting out a towel and dry pajamas. Then they heard the big black cat running out of the castle to where the Marquis stood, wet and dribbling, on the shore of Frog Pond.

"Well," bleated Uncle Butter, "our trick worked fine! I only wish now that some pirate would come and take the Marquis on a trip to the other end of Frog Pond."

"There are no pirates, Uncle Butter, any more than there are ghosts," said Uncle Wiggily. "It's all make-believe."

"I'm not sure about that," said the jolly old goat. "There may be no ghosts, but I'm sure there are pirates. Now let's go home."

"Yes, I think we should get back to the houseboat," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "Bosun, turn on your flashlight and open the door."

"Aye, aye, Cap'n Wiggily," barked the old seadog. He rattled the knob and then whispered: "We're locked in!"

I'll tell you more Tuesday if the automobile horn doesn't blow talcum powder in the face of the pussy cat doll and make her sneeze off her shoes.

The bid

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 N T	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The club jack was opened. Dummy's ace won, and two leads drew the outstanding trumps. Then, feeling that he had little to lose by taking the heart finesse (since he would always be able to discard a diamond on the heart ace) declarer led up to the heart queen. East won and returned a diamond, and when South, of necessity, took that finesse too, it failed and he was down one.

The proper way to analyze such a situation is as follows.

If the heart king is on side, declarer is assured of success by playing correctly, without taking the heart finesse. Before we prove this statement, however, let's observe that declarer also has a chance to make the contract, without jeopardizing his other play, by finding the heart king not too well guarded in the East position. Thus, correct play is to cash the heart ace and ruff a low heart, then to return to dummy and ruff the other low heart. Obviously, with the cards lying as above, this drives out East's king and establishes the heart queen.

But now let's assume that West has the heart king, and see with our own eyes why the finesse is not necessary. South, having ruffed out dummy's two low hearts and eliminated clubs from both hands (and trumps from the opponents' hands), finally leads the heart queen from dummy and discards a diamond on it. Now it is just as though South had taken the heart finesse, because West is end-played—he must either give declarer a ruff-and-discard, or lead up to the A-Q of diamonds.

Canadian Money Confuses Seaman From Peru

Cook Gilberto Gjamarra (right) is puzzled as steward Roberto Donoso explains difference between Canadian dollar and Peruvian 50 peso note. Gjamarra, non-English-speaking member of Nootka crew, has never been to Canada before. Nootka was recently bought by Peruvian interests and is awaiting sailing orders at V.M.D. shipyard. Crew of 17 Peruvians were flown here.

Ship's Crew Flown Here

Peruvian Cook of Freighter Nootka Likes Victoria But Longs for Senora

By RON BAIRD

Gilberto Gjamarra is homesick.

Gilberto is cook aboard the freighter Nooka, recently bought by Peruvian interests and now awaiting sailing orders at V.M.D. shipyard.

He and 16 other crew members were flown here from Peru to take the vessel back.

The 41-year-old cook stood in his galley, Friday night, and wondered how Senora Gjamarra and his three sons and a daughter were getting on back home.

He's never been this far away from home and besides, Gilberto doesn't know a word of English.

When quitting time comes, the other Peruvians head into town and take in the sights—not so Gilberto.

LONG DAY

His day in the galley is a long one, and by the time night comes it's nearly too late to take a look at the city.

I found him in the galley just as he finished his day's work.

"Buenas noches," I said.

Gilberto looked up, smiled as he heard his own language spoken, and shook hands.

His friend, steward Roberto Donoso, stood by as interpreter in case our Spanish negotiations broke down.

I wanted a picture of Gilberto.

"Yo quero tengar su fotografia, senor," I said.

A light of recognition burst upon Gilberto's features, he excused himself and left the galley.

He returned minutes later with two pictures, one of his wife and another of his father-in-law.

BREAKDOWN

Negotiations broke down, Roberto stepped into the breach and we finally got things sorted out.

"He's homesick," said Roberto, "this is the first time he's been away from home."

I concluded it was my Spanish that brought on the nostalgia, but it turned out that it wasn't altogether that.

"Gilberto has never been farther from home than Latin America. He's worrying about his wife worrying about him," Roberto said.

Gilberto explained that this was a wonderful country. Victoria was "magnifico" and the people were "most social" but that he hadn't had the opportunity of seeing much of anything.

"Are you working pretty hard?" Gilberto was asked.

He nodded rather sadly and explained that he was the only cook on board and that his Peruvian pals were rather hearty eaters.

RIGHT QUESTION

"Er, what about the airplane trip here?"

Zingo, that did it!

"Magnifico, magnifico!" said Gilberto.

He said it was his first plane ride, the flight was very "serene" and the stewardesses—"ooo la la"—or the Spanish equivalent.

His face turned very sad again—he was thinking of the senora and the children.

Roberto cut in to say how the other crew members were making out since their arrival.

"They think Victoria is very nice, as a matter of fact they are in town tonight," he said.

I wondered how they could make people understand since none but the first mate spoke English.

"They point to things, ask the price by holding up their fingers and looking quizzical—it usually works," said 37-year-old Roberto, who speaks English fluently, having lived in the United States for eight years.

"WHAT TO BUY?"

"What is Gilberto going to buy if he goes into town?" I asked.

A quick conference produced what sounded like "a mechanical whatsit." I rather doubted whether the local stores stocked this article.

"A sewing machine," Roberto hastened to explain.

"It's for the senora, so she can make clothes," he said.

Gilberto asked, rather sadly, whether he could buy one in Victoria.

He brightened up when reassured that he could.

Roberto said Gilberto was going to do some shopping Saturday—"He's very anxious to get that small sewing machine.

"Gilberto wants to know if his picture will be in the paper," Roberto said.

"It would be nice for the senora."

I said good-bye. Gilberto, Roberto and I shook hands.

"Don't forget the picture," Gilberto reminded me.

Clouds May Block View of Lunar Eclipse

Victorians may not be able to witness the total eclipse of the moon tomorrow night if the cloudy and rainy weather continues.

Officials at the Astrophysical Observatory at Gonzales Heights announced last night that the weather outlook for Monday was for a few showers.

The eclipse is the only one visible to residents here this year, and it will be a disappointment to many if the skies are obscured.

The lunar eclipse will be seen generally in the Eastern and Central Pacific, North and South America, a large part of the Atlantic Ocean, the Arctic and Antarctic, Europe and Africa.

The partial eclipse will begin here at 6 32 p.m., P.S.T., and will last approximately three and a half hours. The total eclipse, which begins at 7.54 p.m., will last about 45 minutes.

The first stages of the eclipse is the moon's entry into the penumbra of the earth. This part of the spectacle merely darkens the moon's face slightly. Usually only experts can detect the darkening.

Then the umbra is reached. This is the earth's blackest shadow. It will appear as a dark disc cutting the moon's edge, and moving slowly across its face. When the moon is completely covered by the earth's shadow it is in total eclipse.

However, owing to the earth's atmosphere, there is never complete darkening of the lunar surface.

Even at mid-eclipse there is sufficient light refracted to make it visible as of a dull ruddy hue. The reddening is due to the absorption of the blue rays in our atmosphere.

This is the second lunar eclipse which has occurred this year. The first was on April 2, but it was seen only by residents of the Eastern Hemisphere.

Two eclipses of the sun have already occurred this year, but neither were visible to Victorians. The first took place March 14 and was observed only in the Antarctic. The second took place September 12 and was visible only to observers in the extreme North of Siberia and Alaska.

Masons Attend Millins Rites

Funeral services for Cyril E. J. Millins were held at McCall Brothers' Funeral Chapel yesterday afternoon; Ven Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns officiated.

Mr. Millins was well known in Victoria as proprietor of Mortimer's Monumental Works. A resident of this city for the past 40 years, he died last Thursday.

The service was attended by many friends, including members of the Fourandex, the Victoria Masonic Choir and the Masonic Order.

The hymn "Lead Kindly Light" was sung during the service. Many floral tributes were received.

Pallbearers were G. M. Prentice, H. Pattinson, J. Dirom, J. Walker, H. Hill and L. S. Daynes.

Interment was in Colwood Burial Park.

CHEVROLET SELECTED BY TIRE FIRM

Tergeson Bros., well-known Victoria tire house, have used Chevrolet consistently in their fleet of pickup trucks. Above is shown the latest unit, just delivered by Wilson Motors Ltd. The firm's work entails many long runs out into the country, carrying tires and service to the logging camps on the back roads. Such gruelling work calls for the utmost in reliable performance from any truck, and this is found in Chevrolet, coupled with outstanding economy of operation.

FESTIVAL OF BRITAIN 1951

A CENTURY AGO the Great Exhibition of 1851 drew visitors to Britain from all over the world. Next year's Festival, to commemorate that event, will in its turn be remembered a hundred years from now, long after the headlines of today are forgotten.

The coming Festival is the greatest ever planned. The 1851 Exhibition was confined to London, and its keynote was industrial progress; the Festival of Britain 1951 will be spread throughout the United Kingdom and will put the whole nation on show.

Exhibitions in London, Glasgow and Belfast will tell the story of Britain's contribution to civilization in Science, Invention, Industry and Architecture. In addition, twenty-three centres throughout England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland will hold Festivals of the Arts.

In support of this official programme there will be something of interest for the visitor to see in cities, towns and villages all over the country—from carnivals, exhibitions, pageants and traditional ceremonies to sporting events of all kinds.

From May to September 1951, for five packed months, wherever he should choose to go the visitor will find

BRITAIN AT HOME TO THE WORLD

Further details of the Festival Programme will be published in this paper over the next few months.

READING HABITS

We noticed the other day that CKDA staffers have a varied taste in reading material and thought it worth while to comment. Dorothy Tupper, new addition to the writing staff, is currently reading ACRES and PAINS, by Perelman, while Dave Hill settles down with his lunch and a volume of Encyclopaedia Britannica. Terry Garner buries himself in The NEW YORKER, while Ferdy Baglo enjoys POGO. Bill Stephenson can't get away from it . . . so he reads faithfully, The Sporting News, and Engineer Ray Tate, The Green Sheet.

DRAMA BY FRENCH AUTHORS

Two famous French authors will be represented on the FAVORITE STORY, and FAMILY THEATRE series this week. On Monday, at 8:30, THE CRIME OF SYLVESTRE BONNARD, by Anatole France, will be introduced by Ronald Coleman, as RISE STEVENS' favorite story. On Friday at 8:30 FAMILY THEATRE will star William Lundigan, Ray Collins and Frank Lovejoy in Victor Hugo's THE BISHOP'S CANDLESTICKS.

527 WINNERS

That's a record for any program . . . or station for that matter. But CKDA's LUCKY LADY program, m.c.'d by DAVE HILL, has awarded 527 prizes since its inaugurated some time last April. In addition four jack pots totaling [illegible] in retail value have been given away.

CHANGE OF TIME

Terry Garner's 30 minute session of the BEST in jazz, has been re-scheduled to Sunday nights at 11:05. For such top names as George Shearing, Sarah Vaughn and Woody Herman, we suggest you dial 1340 at that time.

TREASURE CHEST

Many of you have possibly noted the addition of this program to the CKDA schedule, but through various reasons have not taken the time to turn on your radio and listen to it. You'll find it one of the finest programs of concert and semi-concert music on the air. Aptly named, the TREASURE CHEST features such famous names as THE BOSTON POPS, KENTUCKY MINSTRELS, JAMES MELTON, RISE STEVENS and composers such as LISZT, FOSTER, BEETHOVEN, CHOPIN and many more. If you are looking for some fine music to accompany your evening at home, be sure to dial 1340 for THE TREASURE CHEST heard nightly at 9:05.

R.C.A. (Reserve Force) BAND

Warrant Officer Charles South will lead his 28-piece Military Band through some favorite band selections, this and each succeeding Sunday afternoon at 3.30. The program originates in the Bay Street Armoury and features men of the volunteer force who do a remarkable job. If you like good band music, we suggest you listen for this new entertaining Winter series.

PIANO REQUESTS

Another feature making its debut this Sunday is the program starring Fred Pitt at the piano. Every Sunday morning at 10:05, Fred will be playing your requests, with Bill Stephenson at the mike. Hesterman and Co. present the feature.

FINIS

That's it for this week. We'll have more news and a chuckle or two in next week's column . . . watch for us.

Ottawa Alderman Comments on Victoria

Colonist Photo

Pleased with general friendliness of city, but unfavorably impressed with parking situation here is Ottawa Alderman Charles A. Parker, pictured above with Mrs. Parker. They are visiting city following attendance at recent meetings of Canadian Tourist Association held at Calgary, Banff and Jasper. He said Ottawa was soon to copy Victoria's practice of maintaining hanging flower baskets throughout downtown area.

People "Friendly, Polite"

Victoria's Parking Problem Serious, Visiting Ottawa Alderman Believes

An Ottawa alderman here on a brief visit thinks Victoria's parking problem is a serious one for the traveling public.

He is Alderman Charles A Parker, who has come to Victoria for the first time following stops at Calgary, Banff and Jasper, where he was a delegate to the Canadian Tourist Association meetings.

Alderman Parker says Victoria's parking facilities are "obviously inadequate" and suggested that municipal parking areas might improve the situation.

He also commented that traffic lights should be augmented in the business section.

COMPARES FAVORABLY

Alderman Parker's criticism of the city stopped there. In his coast-to-coast inspection of Canadian cities he finds Victoria compares most favorably.

"I find the store clerks and the people generally are exceptionally friendly and polite to the traveling public," he said.

"It is also a pleasure to find the Victoria police so considerate. This is quite noticeable compared to police in many of the Eastern cities."

Alderman Parker said Ottawa would shortly be copying Victoria's flower baskets. At the present time only the Chateau Laurier Hotel uses them.

QUESTION OF UNION

Asked what he thought about the question of including the municipalities in the city of Victoria, Alderman Parker said Ottawa had recently annexed two outside municipalities thereby increasing the city's area from 5,000 to 27,000 acres.

Alderman Parker said the initial cost was large but had begun leveling out. Many of the outer districts had hed no water, sewage conditions were bad and fire and police protection was inadequate.

He said annexation was gradually remedying this situation and while taxes were higher for the residents, the value of their property had increased considerably.

While in Victoria, Alderman Parker has visited an old friend, Arthur Ash, M.L.A. for Saanich. Mr Ash was formerly an Ottawa alderman and when he left that city ten years ago, was replaced by Alderman Parker.

Watch-Bird Pashley Shuns News, Airs Personal Opinions On Sundays

THIS WEEK'S RADIO

One of the most listened-to, and talked bout, figures in local radio is Ralph Pashley, the man of opinions heard on CJVI at 10 30 p.m. Sundays.

Pashley is the watch-bird who keeps an unblinking eye on the doings of City Council and other municipal agencies. And when Sunday rolls around, he's always ready with an opinion on the week's happenings.

Some things he likes, other things he doesn't like . . . and he says so. You may not like the way he calls the play, but you've got to admit he's frank enough.

EASY WAY

Pashley got into radio and the entertainment business generally the easy way. He was born into it—maybe not in a trunk, but at least of theatrical parents—in Nottingham, England At the age of two he found himself bowing to vaudeville audiences. He was still on the circuits when his family decided to move to Canada.

When he joined the army, Pashley met Marcel Godfrey, distinguished artist and playwright, to whom, Pashley says, he owes much.

One result of his friendship with Godfrey was a meeting with Baron Rothschild the fabulously rich financier. Pashley went to visit Godfrey, who had just moved to a new apartment. He found the Baron was expected to drop in any moment for a snack

CRACKED PLATE

Godfrey suddenly discovered all his chinaware was packed up, and had not yet been brought from his former home Result was Rothschild dined like a lumberjack, using an old, cracked saucer for a plate—and loved it.

Out of the army, Pashley acted and wrote radio plays for C.B.C On a trip to Los Angeles, he met some top N.B.C officials who gave him an audition. Pashley was told his voice was unsuited to newscasting, and that he should become a Walter-Winchell-type commentator.

Back in Victoria, Pashley ignored the advice and started a 'VI newscast. But he remembered the N.B.C.ers' words And when he saw a need for commentary on local affairs, he began to sneak his opinions into the newscast.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

Listeners liked the idea. As response increased, Pashley turned more and more to commenting on the news, until today his show is strictly personal opinion.

Because he was a stranger in town when he started the show, Ralph found he had to spend many tedious hours in research. The effort paid off—today Pashley knows a good deal more about the city than most native Victorians

REVIVES BAND

Result of a bandmaster's 16 months of hard work will be heard today when CKDA airs the first in a series of Sunday concerts by the Royal Canadian Artillery (Reserve) band.

Bandmaster is Warrant Officer Charles South, ex-air force baton-waver who came to Victoria on a vacation and remained to pump new life into a wobbly organization.

When South took over the R.C.A. band it had eight members. Today, after 16 months of work, it has 28 And, W.O. South adds, more will be welcome.

South was bandmaster of the R.C.A.F.'S No. 2 Training Command band in Winnipeg from 1940 to 1942 For two years after that, until his discharge, he was bandmaster at No. 4 I.T.S. in Edmonton

The Sunday band concerts will consists mainly of marches, waltzes and light classics Scheduled for today are "The Teddy-Bears' Picnic," "Old Comrades," and 'Bells Across the Meadow" Airtime is 3.30 p.m.

RAYMENT SPEAKS

What went on at the recent Trades and Labor Congress meetings in Montreal is the subject of a talk to be aired by CJVI at 8:15 p.m today.

Speaker is A. Percy Rayment, delegate from the Victoria Trades

COMEDIANS SIGNED

Frigidaire last week jumped into television with both feet. The corporation signed Bob Hope, Mike Todd and Bobby Clark to do a series of ten hour-long TV extravaganzas

The shoas will be telecast by N.B.C. every fourth Sunday, starting and Labor Council. He will discuss general policies adopted by the Congress and specific points of interest taken from the crowded Montreal proceedings.

October 1. The other three Sundays will be filled out with similar top-notch comedy shows sponsored by Colgate's.

Hope's only two video performances to date were sponsored by Frigidaire. His TV debut, Hooperatings showed, had more viewers per set than any other show in television's short history.

Todd and Clark currently are rated as Broadway's most successful partnership. Funnyman Clark stars in "Michael Todd's Peep Show," now packing them in at the Winter Garden. Todd also has produced "The Would-Be Gentleman," "Mexican Hayride," "Star and Garter," and "As the Girls Go"—all starring Clark.

Bobby has been in demand from radio and TV executives, but until to star in "Michael Todd's Revue" only when he was given a chance now has resisted all offers. It was that he moved his cigar, painted eyeglasses and cane over to Radio City.

The new Todd-Clark and Hope shows complete the cycle of hour-long comedy programs which began with Eddie Cantor's TV bow two weeks ago.

New York reviewers hailed Cantor as "ageless Eddie" . . . "TV's undisputed new hit" . . . "made for television." Following the first show, Cantor was feted at the "biggest party ever held in radio-television circles."

Lieut. J R B. Coulter, R.C.N., and Mrs. Coulter with their young daughter, Mernie, will leave their Lincoln Road Home on September 30 for Halifax where Lieut. Coulter has been posted.

Dorothy Harding Becomes Bride Of Maurice Jorre de St. Jorre

At a Nuptial Mass, Saturday morning at St. Andrew's Cathedral, celebrated by Rev. Father Daniel Johnston, Dorothy Ida, daughter of Mrs. Christy Harding, 1031 Craigdarroch Road, and the late Mr Harding, plighted her troth with Maurice Armel Jorre de St. Jorre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre, 1630 Pinewood Avenue

Standard baskets of assorted Autumn flowers stood in the sanctuary and the altar was decorated with white chrysanthemums and lighted tapers. Miss Marguerite McKay presided at the organ, and during the service Miss Madelyn Collis sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr Charles Dobson of Alameda, Cal., the bride was radiant in a white wedding gown styled with long torso bodice of figured satin with Manderin neckline, short sleeves worn with long lace mitts, and bouffant floor-length skirt of nylon over taffeta. Her shoulder-length veil was caught at the temples with sprays of orange blossoms. For "something old" the bride wore a diamond and sapphire bracelet belonging to her mother, and carried an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums to complete her ensemble.

Bridal attendants provided a charming color note: Miss Ariel-Marie Jorre de St Jorre, sister of the groom, maid of honor, chose pale turquoise. bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Harding and Miss Jacqueline Jorre de St. Jorre, sisters of bride and groom, were gowned in lilac and primrose yellow respectively; their dresses were styled identically with Bertha collars and a band of ruching at the waist, long full skirts in nylon net over taffeta. Their off-the-face hats matched their frocks, they had long white gloves, and carried round bouquets of chrysanthemums in rose for the maid of honor, ruby and rust tones, respectively, for the bridesmaids. All also carried prayer books covered to match their dresses.

The best man was Mr. Gerald Sullivan, and ushers were Mr Ross Sinclare and Mr Philip Delesalle, both of Vancouver

The reception was held at the Windermere Hotel Mrs. Harding wearing wine crepe with black accessories, Mrs. Jorre de St Jorre gowned in black Spanish lace over rose taffeta with black accessories, and Miss Dorothy Dobson, aunt of the bride attired in navy blue crepe with matching hat and pink accessories, welcomed guests with the newlyweds. The three-tiered square cake, topped with rosebuds and bedded in tulle centred the table. The toast was given by Mr J Stade-stevens

TO LIVE IN NANAIMO

For a honeymoon trip to Seattle and Vancouver, the bride wore a stone-beige knitted suit with maroon suede accessories, brown-toned feather hat, mink shortie coat, and corsage of gardenias and heather The couple will make their home at 730 Oakley Street, Nanaimo.

Shirley Campbell Bride Of Alexander Davidson

Vancouver Island and Mainland families were linked Saturday evening when Shirley Wray, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Lorne W Campbell, 1980 Beach Drive, became the bride of Mr Alexander Murray Davidson, son of Mr and Mrs George Davidson, 3668 Ontario Street, Vancouver Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunns officiated at St Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Decorations in the church followed the harvest Thanksgiving theme and nuptial music was provided by Mr. James Gerry who accompanied Mrs Stanley Moore. Selection rendered was "O Perfect Love "

White nylon tulle posed over satin with a Chantilly lace bertha and tulle inset yoke created the bride's gown which had a full, hooped skirt gathered in tightly at the waistline and falling slightly en train. Her poke bonnet headdress of Chantilly lace secured her finger tip veil of illusion net and she carried a round bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis

Identical gowns of seafoam velvet with bertha collars and skirts slim in front with fullness drawn to the back were worn by the three senior attendants. Mrs Helen Hall, matron of honor for her brother's bride, wore a brimmed hat trimmed with flowers and carried bronze and gold chrysanthemums The bridesmaids, Miss Gloria Davies and Miss June Rawlinson also carried 'mums in bronze and gold harmonizing with the bronze veiling of their headdresses. Flower girl Susan Whittington wore a dainty frock of point d'esprit over seafoam satin, with a bertha collar and hemline caught up with tiny flowers She carried sweetheart roses matching the wreath in her hair

Mr Gordon McConnachie supported the groom and ushers were Mr Ken Ross and Mr Robert McKay of Vancouver Mr. R B. Crombie proposed the bridal toast at the reception held at the home of Mr and Mrs Campbell.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Alaska on the Ss Prince George, the bride changed into an ice blue dressmaker suit with brown accessories Her corsage was of orchids The couple will live at Avon Court in Victoria.

Cameo Is "Something Old" For Bride Sylvia Anderson

St John's Anglican Church was the setting last evening for the ceremony, conducted by Rev G. Biddle, uniting Sylvia Lillian, daughter of Mrs. John McGee, 1530 Cook Street, and A.B James Campbell Browne, R.C.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Browne, Winnipeg Mr F. Chubb played the wedding music

The bride wore her mother's cameo pendant and earrings, which had been worn by the latter on her wedding day, with her gown of white nylon styled with a square neckline, long sleeves and full skirt. A spray of lily of the valley on either side secured the bride's chapel veil and she carried a Colonial bouquet of pink roses

Miss Madeleine Thomson, as maid of honor, wore pale blue net with sweetheart neckline, cap sleeves and fitted bodice. She wore a band of velvet ribbon in her hair and carried a Colonial bouquet of blue gladioli. Flower girl Susan Newman wore pink net and carried baby gladioli.

Mr. Jack Carlson was best man.

A dainty blue cloth covered the bride's table at the reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McGee, where Mr. Chris Anderson proposed the toast.

For the honeymoon to be spent on the Mainland, Mrs. Browne donned a navy blue suit with harmonizing accessories and a light blue topcoat

Mr. and Mrs Browne will live at 860 Queens Avenue

TO SAVE BUSHMEN

WINDHOEK, Southwest Africa (CP)—Col P. I Hoogenhout, administrator of Southwest Africa, has appointed a two-man commission to seek a way of saving South Africa's most primitive race—the bushmen—from extinction. A reserve may be established.

Ball-Smith Wedding Held At Sacred Heart Church

Golden rod and Michaelmas daisies decorated Sacred Heart Church, Palmer Road, Saturday evening when Rev. Father J. Penfold united in marriage Elizabeth Maria, third daughter of Mr and Mrs Herbert Smith, Claremont Road, Royal Oak, and William Ronald Ball, eldest son of Mr and Mrs. William Ball, 1639 Hillside Avenue Miss Theodore Gubbles played the wedding music

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a heavy white brocaded satin with lace yoke and Peter Pan collar, long sleeves pointed over her wrist and full skirt gathered from a fitted bodice She wore a chapel veil and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, lily of the valley and fern Her only jewelry was a cameo pendant, the gift of the groom.

Miss Joan Callan, maid of honor, wore mauve and Miss Barbara Ann Smith, bridesmaid for her sister, wore yellow Their frocks were of organdie, fashioned with plain bodices and full skirts worn with contrasting velvet sashes over white satin. Their matching organdie hats were trimmed with velvet and they carried colonial bouquets. Mr. Ronald Smith supported the groom and Mr Gordon Johnstone and Mr. William Court ushered.

The reception was held at the Old England Inn, Lampson Street, where Mrs. Smith, wearing grey, and Mrs. Ball, in a black gown, both with corsages of rose buds assisted the newlyweds in receiving the guests. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a rose in a silver vase Mr L. Heather proposed the toast to the bride

Leaving for a honeymoon Up-Island the bride wore a blue gabardine suit, pink shortie coat and cocoa brown accessories and a gardenia corsage The couple will make their home at 928 Westing Street on their return.

Plan Dress Balls For Younger Set

In addition to the usual exciting round at the Christmas season Victoria's younger set will have the annual Sub-Deb Ball and Children's Fancy Dress Ball to look forward to on December 27. Sponsored by the Major John Hebden Gillespie Chapter, I.O.D.E., both affairs will be held on the same night in the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel; the Children's Ball from 6 to 8 p.m. and the Sub-Deb Ball from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Mrs J B Speck and Mrs G F Clarke will arrange the latter affair while Mrs Peter W Bell is Children's Ball convener

Plans were made at the regular meeting of the chapter presided over by Regent Mrs. H A Richmond, who was appointed representative to the provincial semi-annual meeting to be held next month in North Vancouver

Mrs. H G Robinson postwar service convener reported sending three monthly food parcels to Britain and the receipt of several nursery bags for the Queen Elizabeth Children's Hospital in London She requested that each member bring a child's bib to the next meeting

Mrs. D. Patterson, ex-service personnel convener, stated that flowers had been arranged at the Veterans' Hospital in June and volunteers are ready to arrange flowers for the Chapter's next day in October

On Flight To Moscow

LONDON, Sept 22 (Reuters) A London cleaning woman who has never been outside Britain will fly to Moscow tomorrow to study social conditions for three weeks.

Rose Wasmer, 42, charwoman in the Ministry of Works offices, is one of 14 British women invited to Russia by the Soviet Women's Anti-Fascist Committee.

They were chosen by three Anglo-Soviet friendship societies. But Mrs Wasmer, a busy trade unionist, declares she is not a Communist.

"I want to see if I can learn anything new from the methods of Russian women cleaners

"I want to look at the churches and find out the truth about religious worship. I want to see how the people really live and what their housing is like.

"When I get back I shall report the truth—exactly what I saw"

To Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr and Mrs S B Watt, 1717 Blanshard Street, who were married 50 years ago in Newart Hill, Scotland, will mark their golden anniversary on September 28. Mr Watt was born in Coalburn, Scotland, and Mrs Watt in Newart Hill. Leaving the Old Country in 1906 for the United States Mr. and Mrs Watt went to Nova Scotia in 1910 In 1912 they moved to Nanaimo, V.I., and later came to Victoria where they have made their home since. Mr. Watt was in the army for 20 years, from 1916 to 1936. They have one daughter, Mrs. Katherine Gray, 1022 Park Street and three sons, Joseph, 698 Grenville Street, John, 987 Foster, and Jim in Calgary They also have three granddaughters and four grandsons.

Mother, Daughter Win Highland Dancing Honors

If in the current trend for mother-and-daughter fads, Dame Fashion ever calls for a mother-and-daughter Highland dancing team, Mrs Adeline Grant Duncan and 12-year-old Heather, 439 Durban Street, will be right at the top of the parade. The pair will return home next week-end after a triumphant 9,000-mile tour to five Highland gatherings in Eastern Canada and the United States.

Mrs. Duncan, who instructs at the Western School of Dancing in Victoria, executed a neat choregraphic coup over her Eastern competitors by winning the Lewis Graham Memorial Trophy, symbolizing the Atlantic Coast championships, and $100 prize money at Boston Although she lost the grand aggregate at Buffalo by one point, it developed into a victory, as she bowed to her pupil, Mavie Manser of New Westminster. Mrs. Duncan was prevented from participating in further competitions because of an injured leg

However, her daughter carried on in the best family tradition and won three championship trophies and 14 medals as a result. There was no aggregate prize at the Toronto National Exhibition, but with three firsts and one second Heather would have qualified had it been offered

Continuing her series of top performances, Heather won the Boston Junior Championship Trophy with five firsts; the Syracuse junior championship with four firsts and one second, and the Currier Express Championship Trophy at Buffalo with four firsts.

The dancers made such a hit that the Nova Scotia Clans Association has invited Mrs. Duncan back for next year's meets with all expenses paid.

While back East, Mrs. Duncan visited her sister, Mrs Lillian Grant Davis, Fort Erie, Ont.

W.I. Bazaar October 18

PARKSVILLE, Sept. 23—October 18 is the date chosen by the Parksville Women's Institute for a bazaar and tea to be held in the Parish Hall. A china dog show will be one of the main features of the event and other novelties will include a "touch and buy stall" Plans were discussed at the first meeting of the Fall season at which Mrs. F. Braybrook presided.

Reports on the W.I. convention in Vancouver were given by delegates Mrs F. McGibbon and Miss Margaret Young and an interesting letter was read which had come from a branch of the institute in England, reporting on a visit they had received from Mrs C. R Tryon, former Parksville W.I. president, who is now visiting in the Old Country.

Tea hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. J. Rodger, Mrs F. McGibbon and Miss M. Young

Comitas Club Hears Exchange Teacher

The Comitas Club began Autumn activities with a dinner at the Chez Marcel. Mrs. R. H. Heywood then entertained the members at her home on Kipling Street where Miss Joyce Applegate spoke of her year as an exchange teacher in Miami, Florida.

Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held in the Hard of Hearing Hall on Saturday October 14

Guests present were: Mrs. Evelyn Lanning, Miami, Florida; Mrs Evelyn Molyneaux, Duncan, and Mrs. Robert Butler, Victoria

BABY'S

UPSET STOMACH

QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote restful comfort."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and her stomach became quite upset. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying — and quieted down."

Equally effective for teething troubles, constipation, simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easily crushed to a powder, if desired—prompt in action. No "sleepy" stuff — no dulling effect. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 29 cents.

Eagles Form Guard of Honor At Butler-Fraser Marriage

Chrysanthemums and gladioli in Autumn shades decorated St John's Church Saturday afternoon, when Rev Canon George Biddle solemnized the marriage of Majorie Jean, only daughter of Mrs. A V Fraser, 1661 Hollywood Crescent, formerly of Ottawa, to Neil Broughton Butler, youngest son of Mr and Mrs. Geoffrey Butler, 803 Bank Street

Given in marriage by Mr Jack Askham, the bride was a picture in a gown of gleaming white satin fashioned with nylon yoke and lily point sleeves, the skirt with long train edged with lace, was picked up at the hemline to reveal rows of ruffled lace A pearl coronet held her three-quarter length veil and she wore a pearl necklace for "something borrowed" A shower bouquet of red roses, lily of the valley and white heather, completed her costume

Mrs Jack Askham, matron of honor wore a period gown of pale yellow net over taffeta with poke bonnet of matching net tied under the chin, and carried an arm bouquet of pale mauve gladioli and white asters. Miss Margaret Mauger and Miss Lesly Snelgrove wore bridesmaids' gowns of blue net over taffeta fashioned with strapless bodices worn with filmy blue stoles. Coronets of blue flowers were arranged in their hair and they carried arm bouquets of pale pink gladioli and white asters All wore mitts to match their gowns

The bridegroom was attended by his two brothers, Mr. George Butler, was best man and Mr Harold Butler ushered with Mr. Jack Martin.

Mr. F Chubb presided at the organ and while the register was being signed Mrs. T. Turnbull sang "The Lord's Prayer"

HONOR GROOM

As the bridal party left the church the bandsmen of Fraternal Order of Eagles formed a guard of honor in compliment to the groom, a fellow member.

The reception was held in Terry's Roseroom, where Mrs. Fraser, wearing turquoise blue crepe with black accessories and mink cape, and Mrs. Butler, gowned in steel grey crepe with blue hat and accessories, both having roses en corsage, welcomed guests with the young couple. The toast was given by Mr. Jack Askham. The tables was decorated with pastel sweet peas and centred with the three-tiered wedding cake. Cables were read from relatives in England and messages from friends in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa

Leaving for a honeymoon motor trip to California, the bride wore a three-piece ensemble of British tan and off-white gabardine, close-feather hat in the same tones with osprey and veil, cinnamon accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses. The smart luggage exchanged as wedding gifts, was used.

Mr and Mrs. Butler will reside at 1759 Rockland Avenue on their return.

GREEK TRAGEDIAN Thespis introduced the individual actor to the Greek Dionysian festivals for the first time in the sixth century B.C., to give the chorus a rest.

Wedgwood Blue French Lace Creates Mavis Guy's Gown

Mr and Mrs Stanley F. J. Wiseman are driving to California for their honeymoon following their marriage Saturday evening Rev W. W. McPherson, of Oak Bay United Church, officiated at the ceremony uniting Mavis, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs. T H Guy, 897 Oliver Street, and Stanley Frederick John Wiseman, son of Mr and Mrs. S Wiseman, 1900 Newton Road The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents in a setting of flowers in Autumn tones with ivy and foliage Mrs S. Bartlett, who played the wedding music, also sang Grieg's "I Love Thee" while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the pretty bride wore a becoming gown of Wedgwood blue French lace over blue satin with sweetheart neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves edged with scalloped lace and trimmed with rosettes. She wore a headdress of blue lace with pink flowers, pink lace gloves and carried a Colonial bouquet of carnations and pastel sweet peas For "something old" the bride wore her mother's gold bracelet.

COUSIN IS BRIDESMAID

Miss Eileen Mulcahy, bridesmaid for her cousin, chose an afternoon dress of navy blue crepe with wing collar, three-quarter-length sleeves, and full skirt. Her navy blue hat was trimmed with pink and she had pink gloves. A Colonial bouquet of gladioli and Shasta daisies completed her costume. The best man was Mr. Ted Bradley.

The brides' mother was gowned in aqua crepe and lace, with black hat and accessories and a corsage of pink roses and heather. Mrs. Wiseman chose a marine blue afternoon dress with black hat and accessories and tea roses en corsage.

The lace-covered table with garlands of flowers at the edge, was centred with the three-tiered cake topped with rosebuds and ferns, and flanked by two crystal swans filled with roses. The toast was given by Mr J Waselenchuk

Going away the bride wore a grey wool tailored suit with squirrel neckpiece, grey straw hat, cherry red shoes and purse, and a corsage of red roses and lily of the valley.

The couple will take up residence at Lee Oaks Apartments on their return.

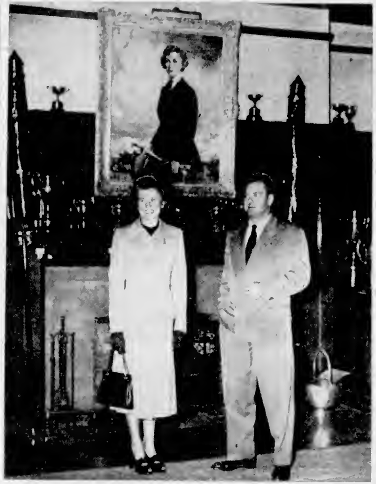
Personality of the Week



Col. and Mrs. W. J. Mosedale pictured in the Scottish Mess

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Mrs. Walter J. Mosedale, wife of the commanding officer of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), fills with individual charm her position as one of the leading hostesses of the local military circle.

Pretty, youthful Mrs. Mosedale has been identified with the Canadian Scottish for some time. Her husband first joined the regiment at the age of 14 Later he served overseas with the Scottish (with a one-year interval when he was a member of the directing staff of Royal Military College, Kingston) and when the unit was reorganized in 1946 as part of the reserve army he was appointed to command of a company. In 1948 Colonel Mosedale, E.D., was appointed second-in-command of the First Battalion and this year succeeded Lt.-Col R. D. Travis, M.B.E., E.D., as OC of the regiment.

It is no wonder then that Mrs Mosedal often feels that she too is a member of "Victoria's own regiment."

During the war Mrs Mosedale's existence was closely patterned after the life of other army wives who found the years of separation punctuated by hurried "hellos" and "farewells"

Fortunately when Colonel Mosedale was posted to Kingston she was able to be with him In Kingston, Mrs. Mosedale kept herself occupied with a job in town and also put in long hours in local service canteens

With the end of the war the Mosedales bought their present Cumberland Road home

Mrs. Mosedale finds her two children, Donald, 5½, and Cecily 16 months, great time-absorbers but even so she takes a keen interest in the unofficial social club made up of wives of the officers of the regiment At the moment they merely hold informal meetings, but Mrs. Mosedale states that if the unit should have to go active again they are ready to form a W.A as was done in the last war.

The former Mary Gray, she was born just 20 miles out of Victoria at William Head and was the only daughter in a family of four children. She remembers a particularly happy childhood as she and her brothers grew up in a home by the sea and became adept at fishing and swimming. Blue-eyed Mary Gray was only 21 when she and Colonel Mosedale were married at St. Mary's Church, Metchosin.

Her favorite sports are swimming tennis and fishing As fishing is one of her husband's enthusiasms too, they look forward together to the coho season. They are ardent gardeners and raise both vegetables and flowers.

In fact, Mrs. Mosedale finds her husband's interests are hers too and that is probably why the regiment feels it is particularly fortunate in "The Colonel's Lady"

HER RECIPE

This potato cheese souffle is a dish recommended by Mrs. Mosedale:

2 cups hot mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons melted butter
3 eggs
⅓ lb grated cheese
½ cup hot milk
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Dash paprika

Add milk, butter, seasoning and beaten egg yolks to mashed potatoes, and beat. Fold in grated cheese and stiffly beaten egg whites. Place mixture in well-greased baking dish and bake in oven 375 degrees for 30 minutes Place small amount of water in pan under baking dish

Beauty Classes Open October 2

GANGES, B.C., Sept. 22 — The second season of the classes run by the Salt Spring branch of the Women's League of Health and Beauty will re-open in the Mahon Hall, Ganges, on Monday, October 2. This season tap dancing, square dancing and Scottish reels will be included amongst other activities.

Alberta Oil News

By C. O. NICKLE

More oil production, more revenue, more footage drilled, more new drilling permits issued, than in any previous month in Canadian history. That's the score for Alberta's bustling oil and gas industry for July, according to a 'Daily Oil Bulletin' survey of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board's latest records. On all key points, former records tumbled. They will tumble again in the current month, and still further new highs will be set in months ahead.

During July, Alberta oil wells put out 2,470,041 barrels of crude oil and natural gasoline, an average of 79,679 barrels daily, some 10,000 barrels daily more than the previous record, and about 25,000 barrels daily more than a year ago. July raised the 1950 output for seven months to 14,252,911 barrels, and boosted the cumulative output to 142,607,634 barrels.

REVENUE RISES

Revenue from oil sales during July grossed $7,353,339, or $237,204 daily, a $33,000 daily boost over the previous month and an $80,000 daily boost over July 1949. Revenue for first seven months of 1950 stands at $48,029,622, while cumulative revenue stands at $306,934,701.

During July, 466,442 feet of new hole was drilled for oil and gas, about 70,000 feet more than in June and about 171,000 feet more than in July last year. Cumulative footage in Alberta was raised to 14,423,448 feet, with 2,256,978 feet in seven months this year.

July saw 126 new drilling permits issued, raising 1950 total to 580. 78 new oil wells completed, raising seven months total to 401; one gas-well completed for seven months' total of 18; 18 wells abandoned for 1950 total of 114.

OIL PRODUCERS

By July 31 Alberta had 1,650 wells capable of producing oil, a 644 increase over the 1,006 wells capable of producing a year previous. In July 1,398 wells actually produced oil, compared with 869 in July, 1949. By July 31 Alberta had 381 wells listed as gas wells, with 136 of these actually producing during the month.

Alberta's oil—which by year's end will be moving by pipeline to the Great Lakes—is currently moving entirely to Prairie Province refineries. During next year, with expansion of refinery capacity in all Prairie provinces, volume going to them will increase considerably. Next year will also see first deliveries of Alberta crude to Ontario.

Deliveries to Prairie refineries in July included 1,337,666 barrels to Alberta plants, 857,174 barrels to Saskatchewan, and 162,492 barrels to Manitoba. During first seven months of 1950 Alberta refineries absorbed 8,007,956 barrels, compared with 8,414,218 barrels in seven months of 1949. Saskatchewan refineries drew 5,139,341 barrels compared with 3,739,581 barrels, and Manitoba plants drew 928,004 barrels compared with 404,949 barrels.

WELLS COMPLETED

There were 26 more wells completed in Alberta during the past week, including 22 oil wells and four failures. Since the beginning of this year, Canadian and American oil firms and groups have drilled and completed 668 wells, of which 502 resulted in oil producers, 27 in gas wells, and 139 in failures.

Nine more oil wells, one-third of this week's completions, were placed on production at Redwater during the week. Imperial accounted for four of those new producers; the Royalite-Quadra team for two; while the Mammoth-Capital, Dome-Western Leaseholds, and Pacific Petroleums groups each placed another Redwater oil well on production.

Six Leduc wells were placed on production this week, including three Imperial producers, one by the team of Leduc Consolidated-Royal Canadian-Mercury-Mill City, and another each by Pan Western and Security Freehold.

On the Alberta side of the Lloydminster oil field Husky Oil & Refining and partners started three additional oil wells on pump. At Excelsior, Imperial successfully completed another field oil well.

NEW SUCCESS

National Petroleum Corporation and its partners commenced producing two Spring Coulee oil wells and a Del Bonita area success.

In Northwest Alberta, Pacific Petroleums abandoned its exploratory venture at St. Germain, while in East Central Alberta Pacific Western failed to find production at its Oyen wildcat. Two more central plains tests also reached the end of their trail this week, with their outcome unsuccessful. In the Whitemud area, Pay Petroleums completed its initial driller; and in the Ranfurly area, the joint Alberta Exploration Syndicate & Texaco Exploration gas extension effort was abandoned.

DISCOVERIES

The week was highlighted by discovery of D3 reef oil at Canadian Gulf's Big Valley venture, a well which discovered D2 Devonian oil the previous week. The Anglo-Home-C & E-Imperial team also showed commercial oil production in the Lower Cretaceous at North Woodbend Nos. 4 and 5 wells which are now heading for Devonian objectives. The Socony-Vacuum Camrose discovery opened up D3 zone this week, showed an initial potential of 1,110 barrels daily, and is now opening up D2 pay preliminary to completing as a dual zone producer.

Concern Over Inflation Seen in Public Reactions

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INS)—With the stock market bobbing around just under its highs for the year, inflation again is getting the play.

The question no longer is whether the United States is going to have inflation, but how much and how long in time.

In ten years, the dollar has lost 48 per cent of its purchasing power—partly from war.

For the first time the public is awakening to what has happened and is happening to the dollar. That it isn't how many dollars you receive that count but what those dollars buy. When a very mediocre ham and cheese sandwich costs 40 cents at a corner greasy spoon, that tells the story better than any written or spoken words.

* * *

BONDS CASHED IN

The best index to the public's concern is what is happening to savings bonds. These are being cashed in at a greater rate than new ones are being bought by investors.

This is not good and it calls for strong action in Washington:

1. To reassure the public as to the dollar's future.

2. Payment of somewhat higher interest rates on savings bonds.

On the interest rates on savings bonds, this is now 2.9 per cent, but only if the investor holds on for the full ten years in the case of the Series "E." The interest is paid at the time the bonds are cashed. If cashed before the ten years, the interest is less than 2.9 per cent. The interest should be at least 3 per cent and maybe as high as 3½.

The stock market, after midweek selling on the A. T. & T. financing, came back sharply to make a new high for the recovery from the Korean war break. The general price level is now only a couple of points from the year's high, which also was the top for the war and postwar bull market. The rail stocks are at their best level since 1946, on the higher earnings and with October the normally best month of the year yet to be accounted for.

TELEPHONE STOCK

Telephone stock broke on the plans to add 10,000,000 shares to present authorized and possibly sell $435,000,000 in debenture bonds convertible into stock. If A. T. & T. finances through stock, it will cost between 6 and 7 per cent, depending on the market. The cost in financing with bonds will be less than 3 per cent, reduced by taxes to between 1½ and 1¾ per cent.

The peace stocks, which experienced a flurry on the upside a week ago, have continued firmer. This reflects the successes in Korea and a belief that some kind of an appeasement deal is in the works with Red China.

The following table shows the range on the Stock Exchange and the net change from last Friday of the Dow Jones stock, bond and commodity futures indices.

Delayed Harvest in Full Swing on Prairies

—Central Press Canadian

Harvesting operations in the West, stalled for many days by wet weather, are in full swing again. This mechanical fork is piling straw at Osborne, Man., to be used for the Winter bedding of cattle. Prairie crops are estimated to have suffered a 30 per cent loss in value during the unseasonably wet weather.

Canadian Stock Market Prices Move Into Fresh High Ground at Fast Rate

By FRANK KAPLAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock markets broke into fresh ground this week. Steady buying boosted prices higher and pulled the average price level of industrial stocks to their highest peaks in about 20 years.

This was the fourth successive week of advance for the markets. The trend has been upwards for the last three months despite minor interruptions.

Inflationary ideas have been influencing much of the recent buying, according to observers. Generally, investors are optimistic. Prospects of excellent earnings and higher dividend payments and the extra fillip added by possible rearmament orders encourage the bullish view.

OTHER SIDE

On the other side of the fence are possible changes in taxes—especially an excess profits tax—Government controls, a touchy international situation and what some observers believe to be a technically weak market position following a rapid, uninterrupted advance.

New York bucked its way into fresh high ground yesterday. For four days the market labored upwards until an extra burst of buying early Friday pushed The Associated Press 60-stock average to 82.8, the highest point in 19 years, and a gain of .8 from the previous Friday.

Canadian markets advanced at a more rapid rate than Wall Street. Paper stocks were the favorites. Reports of heavy United States buying in Canadian stocks and bonds in recent weeks have attracted investors to the market. Observers say that Americans are buying Canadian issues in expectation of the Canadian dollar going back to parity. There is considerable discussion in United States financial circles of a resumption of parity but Prime Minister St. Laurent said some time ago that the Government was not considering such a move.

INDEX CLIMBS

In Toronto, the exchange's industrial index continued climbing into fresh territory with a gain of 3.80 over the five days. The index has been at the highest point recorded since it was first compiled in 1934 for several weeks.

Western oil stocks attracted mild demand for a gain of 2.89, while base metals bucked heavy profit-taking in adding .40. Gold stocks attracted attention early in the week only to lose the advantage in two days of selling for a loss of .12.

Papers showed a gain of 40.06 to highlight advances on the Montreal averages. Other gainers were: Banks, .06; textiles, 2; industrials, 9.0; combined, 8.1; golds, .38. Industrial volume was 568,993, as against 540,244, and mines 1,252,578, as against 3,072,133.

Grain markets weakened over the five days. In Chicago, September wheat, corn, rye and soybeans showed losses ranging to about five cents. In Winnipeg, October oats, barley and rye sagged.

Malaya Frowns on Sale Of Rubber to Russians

SINGAPORE, Sept. 24 (AP)—Resistance to the export of Malayan rubber to Russia is stiffening in this rubber-rich country since the Korean War started.

Rubber men are beginning to realize the potential damage being done by supplying a vital war material to a possible enemy.

In Penang some rubber exporters have instituted a self-imposed ban on sale of rubber to Russia, for patriotic reasons.

STOP FARCE

The Penang merchants, some of whom have also stopped accepting orders from Communist China through Hongkong, think it is time the Malayan and British Governments acted to "stop this farce."

Malaya produces about 75 per cent of the world's rubber.

Malayan rubber exports to Russia for the first seven months of this year were 46,747 tons. Last year they totaled 63,414 tons, in 1948 103,393 tons, and in 1947, 36,790 tons.

Both Britain and the United States believe Russia is stockpiling all natural rubber purchased from Southeast Asia. She has a sizable synthetic industry on which to depend.

Trade sources in Singapore think there will be little opposition generally to legislation restricting rubber sales to the Soviet Union.

However, doubts are expressed whether Indonesia, now independent and with an annual production of about 600,000 tons, will fall in line.

A ban on rubber exports to Russia or any of its satellites would release about 10,000 tons monthly for non-Communist countries, trade sources estimate.

Portland Prices Of Food Soar

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 23 (INS)—Food prices are still on the upward march in Portland.

United States Department of Labor's bureau statistics showed today that Portland prices are going up faster than in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and three other coastal cities surveyed in mid-August.

Portland food prices, despite a national decline, moved upward steadily since last January. They gained .5 per cent between mid-July and mid-August.

The latest price index, 236.1, is 8.5 per cent higher than that of a year ago August and nearly 10 per cent above that of last December in Portland.

Saskatchewan To Drill Holes In New Region

REGINA, Sept. 23 (CP)—The Saskatchewan Government intends to explore the sedimentary area bordering the Pre-Cambrian region of Northern Saskatchewan by drilling informational test holes, according to reliable sources.

Three test holes were drilled during the Summer in the Big River district, approximately 1,000 miles northwest of Prince Albert, one test reaching a depth of 2,348 feet.

In all, the Government intended drilling six holes during 1950. The incompleted work will likely be completed and may be extended next year.

The holes are being drilled to obtain sub-surface geological information which can be tied in with the program carried out by privately-owned oil companies in the south, Government officials said. Information already obtained now is being compiled and will be made available to those taking part in the southern operations.

Plans call for at least one of the Government holes to be drilled in the Montreal Lake district.

The Government's Northern drilling will be carried out where no private oil companies are operating, these sources said.

Shipping Experts See Big Cargoes

SPOKANE, Sept. 22 (AP)—Shipping experts predict that Pacific Northwest lumber will require 10 per cent more freight cars this Autumn than a year ago.

They also foresee a doubling of scrap iron shipments and an eight per cent drop in wheat cargoes.

The forecasts were made at the concluding session of the Pacific Northwest Advisory Board. The board, composed of shippers, makes forecasts for each quarter.

The board predicted the drop in wheat shipments because of a decrease in domestic and export demand.

The board said the new pipeline from Utah to Boise, Idaho, would cut sharply the number of cars needed for gasoline and oil. The line is being continued from Boise to Pasco, Wash. The board predicted petroleum car demands would be down 17½ per cent.

It forecast a drop of 35 per cent in wool and 30 per cent for hay and straw.

Winnipeg Grains Generally Easier

WINNIPEG, Sept. 23 (CP)—Prices were generally easier today on Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Hedging sales increased and demand was limited for the most part to scattered shipping orders.

Rye closed at the low levels of the day. Some export interest was reported but this was more than offset by selling which came into the market late in the session.

No export business was reported. Class two wheat, for export to countries outside the international wheat agreement, was unchanged at $2.00.

Skim or Skimmed Milk

By DR. J. B. WARREN

SURE! I USE SKIM MILK

Because farmers feed their pigs skimmed milk, we may think it is not fit for humans. As a matter of fact, all that goes out of milk when it is skimmed is fat. This means that all the other foodstuffs—proteins, starches, vitamins and minerals—are still left in the milk. Thus, a child or adult who is getting skimmed milk gets proteins which repair tissue which has been worn, lime to supply and strengthen the bone and strengthen the teeth, and sugar to give the body energy and heat.

Korea News Still Provides Cue For Booming Economy in U.S.

By THEODORE KOSLOW
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INS)—The major news affecting the booming American economy this past week continued to come in from far off Korea, where United Nations forces scored further important gains.

The groundwork was thus being laid for a successful cessation of hostilities in the not distant future, assuming of course, that Russia and Communist China adopted a hands-off attitude in the fighting.

EARLY PEACE

Just what an early peace in the Far East would mean to the United States economic picture was subject to conflicting interpretations. Most economists were generally agreed that the probable first development would be a retracing of some of the sharp price rises in commodities which followed the outbreak of fighting in Korea.

To what extent such price unsettlement would affect other phases of the American economy remained a moot point.

The stock market refused to be thrown too much off stride by the possibility of an early end of hostilities. There was considerable switching about of trading positions from so-called "war babies" to issues likely to fare best in a peacetime economy. From point of view of the general averages, however, little important price change was affected in the market as a whole in the week just past.

STEEL PRODUCTION

On the industrial front, steel production this past week was the second highest on record. The United States steel mills operated at 100 and 4-10 per cent of capacity, a gain of 3-10 of a point over the preceding week.

This was the first time since July 1 when the industry's capacity figures were revised upward, that production exceeded theoretical capacity. Scheduled output of 1,936,400 tons of steel was only 4,200 tons below the historic high attained in the week of May 22.

Automobile production this past week expanded further despite an increasingly tight materials situation. Automotive News estimated output in United States plants at 177,179 vehicles, made up of 150,835 passenger cars and 26,344 trucks. This represented a gain of 1,630 units over revised figures for the preceding week when 148,161 cars and 26,388 trucks rolled off the assembly lines for a total of 175,549 vehicles.

STORE SALES RISE

Department store sales around the United States picked up sharply in the week ended September 16, topping the same week of a year ago by 17 per cent. This compared with a rise of 8 per cent over last year the week before. Store officials attributed a major part of the sales gain in the latest reported week to a rush by shoppers for furniture and appliances before the new credit curbs took effect.

Electric power production in the week ended September 16 just fell short of reaching the record output level of a fortnight before. However, production exceeded the same week last year by 15 and 8/10ths per cent, as against a comparative gain of 14 and 7/10ths per cent the week before.

Freight car loadings in the week ended September 16 surpassed the preceding holiday week by 18 and 3/10ths per cent, and were 18 and 8/10ths per cent above the same week last year. This contrasted with a gain of 20 and 4/10ths per cent above a year ago, in the preceding week.

FAILURES

Business failures throughout the United States in the week ended September 14 expanded moderately to 165, as compared with 145 in the preceding holiday week, and with 188 in the same week a year ago.

While the stock market appears to be acting in a manner usually indicative of further price advances, many financial experts continue to counsel caution on the part of investors and traders at this time.

One prominent Wall Street analyst pointed out that the two principal motivating forces behind the stock market's advance since July have been first, higher earnings and dividends; and second, the inflationary potential of greatly increased Government spending.

Although adhering to the belief that both of these factors will eventually result in much higher stock prices, this authority argued that this was not the time for such a move.

HOLD DOWN

He stressed that since inflation and higher commodity prices would be directly against the interests of the defence program, the Government will probably do everything in its power to hold them down.

At the same time, this observer pointed out that there is a time lag between appropriations for purchase, and the actual spending. In the meantime, credit controls and higher taxes, in addition to further restraining moves by the Federal Reserve Board can be expected, all of which can adversely affect stock prices for the short term.

It is his conclusion therefore, that the factors pushing up prices will be temporarily balanced by factors holding them back, with the probable result that stocks will fluctuate within a rather narrow trading range for an extended period of time.

Elevators Said Empty in East

MONTREAL, Sept. 23 (CP)—Grain elevators here are nearly empty but grain men expect to have enough for exports until this year's new crop from Western Canada arrives starting October 15.

Local grain men successfully weathered a late harbor opening and the nine-day rail strike. But they feel that although they may have enough grain to last until the closing of the shipping season down the St. Lawrence River, next year's opening may find them without any grain at all.

Scouts have been sent to Western Canada in the last few weeks to find out the state of the crops. They report that only 50 per cent of the crop has been threshed and the remainder is being threatened by heavy rains which have caused flooding and severe frosts in several areas.

Both yield and quality are expected to be cut as a result of this setback.

To compensate, they say there is still plenty of grain coming from Eastern Canada and grain traffic in the harbor has been rather slack in the last few weeks. Elevators are well stocked with 10,658,153 bushels on hand.

PROPERTY:

Approximately 68,560 acres in the Cypress Hills, Saskatchewan.

DEVELOPMENT—TO DATE:

1. Inter-Provincial No. 1 Well drilled to 4,112 feet. Well standing. Approximately 500 feet to drill.
2. Gravity Meter Survey indicates favorable anticline.
3. Electrolog of the Well indicates possible oil or gas zone at 4,060 feet.

EXCERPTS FROM GEOLOGISTS' REPORTS ON THE PROPERTY:

Professor F. H. Edmunds, University of Saskatchewan, consulting geologist for the company: "With the information already obtained in the area, I consider that drilling at a site selected on the basis of seismic results would have an extremely good chance of proving successful."

Dr. Charles C. Coulter, Ph.D.: "Here you have a field of unusual proportions with all the structural conditions ideal for as certain and as heavy production as may be demanded in any country. Historically considered there can be no scientific doubt of the identity, conformity or succession of these cretaceous deposits. There are no geological or physical condition which are visible that would in any way militate against successful oil production."

OFFICIALS:

Edmonton Eskimos in the West and Toronto Argonauts in the East went right on winning last night in Canadian senior football while the two big guns of last year in their respective zones went right on losing.

Edmonton trampled the lowly Calgary Stampeders, Western champs last year but winners of one game in eight this season so far, 33-6. The win put Eskimos in sole possession of first place in the Western Interprovincial Union. In the east, Toronto fell on Ottawa Roughriders 36-15 and headed the eastern pack.

Saskatchewan missed a chance to take over second by dropping a 19-9 decision to Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Winnipeg.

Montreal Alouettes, Grey Cup champions, lost 18-12 at Hamilton to the second-place Tiger-Cats.

LATE PASS

A 35-yard forward pass from Jack Jacobs to Tommy Ford with only two minutes remaining gave Winnipeg Blue Bombers their victory.

Ford also scored Bombers other major—a 52-yard pass from Jacobs.

Edmonton spotted Calgary an early field goal, but came back on great plunging of former Toronto Argo, Mike King, and the passing of the tossing Texan, quarterback Lindy Berry.

Coach Annis Stukus kicked one field goal and three converts to hand his team another six points. Royal Copeland got Calgary's major.

In the Eastern Big Four headliner, a record crowd of almost 25,000 was on hand at Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

Despite the final thumping, the Roughriders started out to make a game of it. They opened with a field goal by Eric Chipper in the early minutes of play and still led 9-6 at the end of the half on a touchdown by quarterback Andy Gordon and a convert by Chipper.

The two flashy imported backfielders — Billy Bass and Ulysses Curtis—each scored two touchdowns.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats bounced back from last Saturday's trouncing they took from Toronto and cemented second-place position in the loop while giving Montreal its fourth straight loss.

The Alouettes opened the scoring on a boot by Rod Pantages for a single point. Then Virgil Wagner took a Frank Filchock pass and crossed the line for a major.

With the change of ends the Tiger-Cats roared back on two touchdowns by Dick Brown, two converts by Edgar Jones and a single point by Pat Santucci. Jones scored five points in the third quarter on a field goal and two extra points.

Yanks Humble Sox To Stretch Margin

New York Belabors Boston While Tigers Get Bounced by Indians in Explosive Race

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INS).—The New York Yankees treated the Boston Red Sox to an all-expense tour down memory lane today and butchered them 8 to 0 to move a game and a half up on Detroit in the explosive American League pennant race.

Baffled by Eddie Lopat, belabored by Joe DiMaggio and friends, and betrayed by their own strategy, the Red Sox—themselves a hot pennant hope—were thrust three full games off the pace by the Yankee win.

Lopat, the blond Yankee left-hander, gained his 18th triumph, strewing five Red Sox hits in a game that couldn't have been more one-sided if the Yanks were playing the House of David.

Echoing the shades of last September, when they beat back the Sox twice on the final week-end to win the pennant at Yankee Stadium, the Yanks made things delightful for most of the packed 65,039 house today.

EXQUISITE DOUBT

For about two minutes of today's game, the issue stood exquisitely in doubt. Boston's Dom DiMaggio reached Lopat for a leadoff triple, and matters looked bleak. But then Johnny Pesky bounced to the pitcher, Ted Williams fouled out, and Vern Stephens to centre.

Stephens himself was the cause of the Yanks' first two runs in their half of the first. He threw Billy Johnson's lead-off grounder into the dirt for an error. Two force-outs followed, but up came Joe DiMaggio to park a Parnell hook into the right field seats for home run number 32.

Two men were on and two out with Dimag at bat in the Yankee fourth when Red Sox pilot Steve O'Neill chose to be cagey. He walked the big fellow. This so infuriated Johnny Mize and Hank Bauer, the next two men in the Yankee order that they singled and doubled for two runs and one run, respectively.

HUMAN STEPLADDER

The Yanks had bases loaded on Stobbs with none out in the fifth, whereupon Mize lined to Walt Dropo, Boston's human stepladder at first base, for an unassisted double play. O'Neill got cagey again. He decided to walk Bauer.

This infuriated Jerry Coleman, the next man in line. He conked a 450-foot triple to the left field scoreboard for three more runs.

Two sweet running catches by Joe DiMaggio and Bauer's somersaulting piracy of Ted Williams' bid in the ninth added to the Red Sox woes. For Parnell, the loss was his ninth. He had won nine in a row prior to today.

BENGALS BOUNCED

Hopes of Detroit Tigers were dealt a crushing blow as the resurgent Cleveland Indians bounced the Bengals, 10-2, for their second straight victory over Red Rolfe's crew.

The Tribe belted five Detroit hurlers for ten hits, the loudest blow being Larry Doby's grand-slam home run off starter Art Houtteman in the third inning.

Philadelphia catcher Joe Astroth tied a modern major league record for runs batted in during one inning as the Athletics walloped Washington Senators, 16-5.

Astroth drove six runs across the plate in the sixth frame as the A's erupted for 12 tallies.

Brooklyn Dodgers kept the National League race faintly alive by downing the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-2, on Gil Hodges' 30th home run, which came with two on. Don Newcombe recorded his 19th victory and Robin Roberts suffered his tenth loss.

That cut the Phils' lead to six games. The Dodgers also broke a second-place deadlock with Boston when the Braves lost a ten-inning contest to New York Giants, 4-3.

Selling Dodgers Interest

NEW YORK, Sept 23 (AP).—Branch Rickey, bushy-browed baseball genius, is selling his one-fourth interest in the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The 68-year-old Rickey, father of baseball's farm systems, has agreed to sell his stock to William Zeckendorf, president of Webb & Knapp, a huge New York real estate firm.

Zeckendorf said the deal first was proposed to him by John Galbreath, a Columbus, O., real estate operator, who owns the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"This is purely an investment," said Zeckendorf.

Before Rickey can complete the major transaction, believed to involve more than $1,000,000, two of his partners have the right of "first and final refusal" to buy the stock on the same terms.

Rickey, Walter O'Malley and the late John L. Smith agreed some time ago to this arrangement. Since the agreement, Smith died and his 25 per cent now is held by Mrs. Smith. O'Malley also owns 25 per cent. The remaining 25 per cent is owned by Mrs. James Mulvey, daughter of the late Steve McKeever. She has refused repeatedly to sell to anybody.

Zeckendorf, however, said he believed his offer to purchase the stock would be acceptable to the other owners. Although he declined to reveal how much money was involved, Zeckendorf did say if the deal is completed, he will seek a top-flight baseball man to head the club.

Royal City Refused Franchise

TACOMA, Sept 23 (AP).—Directors of the Western International League have turned thumbs down on a move by New Westminster B.C., to get a W.I.L. baseball franchise.

League president Robert B. Abel announced the action today, after a directors' meeting in Seattle Friday. All he said was that the Western International League head man "unanimously decided against approval of a franchise for the Canadian city."

Baseball sources said, however the New Westminster move could have been blocked by one of two obstacles, or both.

The Vancouver Capilanos could refuse to waive "territorial rights" under rules of organized baseball. Such action would automatically veto the New Westminster move.

Reports from Salem indicate virtual success of a move by a local group to buy the Salem franchise—the only berth known to be for sale in the eight-club circuit.

Cougars Await Decision On Players From East

It looks as if it will be Wednesday now before Victoria hockey fans get some idea of what the 1950-51 Cougars are going to be like. That was the word last night from Owner Lester Patrick, who is in Montreal at the Canadiens' training camp to help select the players to be sent to Victoria by the Montreal N.H.L. club.

Patrick spoke to General-Manager Fred Hutchinson by telephone and said it had not been decided what players Montreal would send to Victoria. It is believed some of the players in mind are unwilling to play so far from home, but no trouble is expected in this regard. In any event, Patrick has the assurance of Canadien officials that they will send seven or eight "new faces" to the Cougars.

To help in the selection of the Montreal farmhands and perhaps to convince some of the French-Canadian rookies that Victoria is not such a bad spot after all, Coach Roger Leger will remain at the Montreal training camp for at least three more days. He is expected to reach the Island by plane on Wednesday.

AS SCHEDULED

Meanwhile, the Cougars will open their training as scheduled at Nanaimo tomorrow morning with seven players expected to be on hand. Captain Bernie Strongman and Hutchinson will take over until Leger arrives.

Leaving for Nanaimo today are Joe Evans and Strongman from Victoria and Hec Highton and Fred Hildebrand from Vancouver. Also expected in today are Roy McKay, Flori Goegan and Jack McIntyre, believed en route from the homes in the East. Nothing has been heard from Maurice Duffy, who has not yet signed his contract or notified the Cougars of his intentions. Trainer George Wilkinson leaves this morning with the equipment to get everything ready. Cougar headquarters for the Nanaimo stay will be at the Malaspina Hotel.

HOLDOUT TROUBLE

While the Cougars were unable to make much news, New Westminster Royals and Vancouver Canucks at least had holdout troubles to report. Larry Reardon, ace Canuck defenceman, stayed at home when his club left for Nanaimo Friday to start training. Reardon and Owner Coley Hall fail to agree on what constitutes a fair salary. Reardon claiming a $500 raise is only what he received last season, including a $500 bonus.

Ken MacKenzie, owner of the Royals, had two holdouts on his hands. Balking at MacKenzie's terms are Centre Ken Ullyot and Winger Ollie Dorohoy. MacKenzie denies that he offered them a salary lower than that which they received last season and has given his two high-scoring forwards until Wednesday to sign on penalty of being "sold, traded or suspended."

Since both players maintained their firmness in holding out for more money, the New Westminster situation has increased speculation that one or both Royal stars may wind up with the Cougars. Both have been mentioned in pre-season rumors as possible future Cougars.

WIN EXHIBITION

Minus Doroboy and Ullyot, the Royals played through their first exhibition game at Kamloops last night, defeating the Elks, 10-7, although players from both clubs were playing for the other side.

Dutch Evers, who announced his retirement at the end of last season, scored one of the goals and is a cinch—as everyone thought—to be pestering opposing teams again. Hermie Gruhn potted three goals as did Clayton Lavell, who was playing for the Elks. Among other goal-getters were Bob Paul, Bob Love, Normie Kirk and Terry Talentino.

Seattle Ironmen also figured in the news, with the report that they had purchased Ollies St. Pierre, shifty little centreman, who played with Louisville in the U.S.H.L. last season. St. Pierre turned pro the season before with San Diego and led his club with 30 goals and 37 assists.

United Drops First Of League Matches

Victorians Give Promise of Improving But Lose 4-0 to Visiting North Shore

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
Royals	2	0	0	6	0	4
Vancouver City	1	0	0	5	0	2
North Shore	1	1	0	7	0	2
Victoria United	0	1	0	0	4	0
St. Andrews	0	2	0	0	5	0

Still not ready for Coast Soccer League competition but giving considerable indication of better things to come, Victoria United took a 4-0 blanking at the hands of North Shore yesterday in its first league match of the season. Almost 1,000 fans turned out at Royal Athletic Park to watch a match that produced better-than-average football for an opener.

VICTORIANS TIRE

Showing their usual weakness at the important inside positions and tiring badly in the second half, the Victorians held the edge in the first half and were unfortunate in not scoring at least two goals. Bad breaks and lack of finish kept them off the score sheet while the Reds took a 1-0 lead against the run of the play. After their good first half the losers were definitely outplayed in the final 45 minutes and seldom threatened although more accurate shooting might have at least averted the shutout.

But in defeat there were some compensations. United gave promise of being a tougher aggregation with more conditioning and if the management can come up with inside forwards who can make plays. The return of Tom Druce, Red McMillan and Len Scott will go a long way towards the needed bolstering if the club can retain the services of Wallace Milligan who would be invaluable in helping the younger players and who probably would fill one of the inside spots when Druce takes over at centre forward.

TRAVIS SPRAINS ANKLE

Ab Travis, until he left the field early in the second half with a sprained ankle, Milligan, Jack Robbins, Murray Speller and Bill Hope all did well for United. Hope made several good openings from his new spot at right wing and his performance was doubly welcome as the right side of the forward line was considered a problem.

Shores, also using a number of youngsters up from juvenile and V and D ranks, played a sound game. Their positional play was superior and they were faster on the ball than United. Halves Alex Reid and Bill Smith were the pick of the winners with 18-year-old Goalie Doug Cairns acquitting himself well.

Hope had three good chances in the early going on plays from the left wing but couldn't find the nets. He missed the first chance, hit a goalpost on the second and shot wide on the third. The Reds went ahead at the 15-minute mark when a defensive lapse allowed Elmer Buchanan to get in to take a close-in pass.

KEEP UP PRESSURE

There was no further scoring in the first half but United kept up continuous pressure in the last 20 minutes and just missed several great opportunities. Milligan had the best chance but saw Cairns barely get his foot to a ground shot and deflect it over the crossbar.

Manager Bob Harrison switched his line-up for the second half and the changes seemed to give his club more punch. George Beckett returned to left back, Jim Spencer moved up to inside left, Dave Kent shifted from inside left to inside right and Mike McManus from inside right to Buchanan's position on the left wing.

For United, youngster Click Clarke took over from Jock Dunbar at right half and Tim Walker replaced Travis when the speedy winger was hurt.

The last half was only five minutes old when Bill Smith made it 2-0 with a hard ground shot from directly in front. The goal and the loss of Travis seemed to upset the Victorians, who never regained the initiative.

BEST GOAL

After 25 minutes, George Smith scored the game's best goal when he banged in a cross from McManus, who had taken the ball from Kent. Spencer, in his 18th season of senior soccer still a dangerous player, completed the scoring a few minutes later from a corner kick.

The Whip Snaps Back as Mound Star

The tall, skinny guy with arms that hang gracefully at his sides pushed back a shock of brown hair that kept dropping over his forehead, grinned and said:

"Sure. ... But let's go down in the runway where I can have a cigarette. We can talk there in quieter fashion."

Ewell Blackwell, brilliant righthanded pitcher of the Reds, is just that kind of a guy—natural, easy to talk to, friendly. When we asked for an interview, that was his answer.

He had won 16, lost 15 for a sixth-place team which was 26 games behind the leaders and was 20 games under the .500 mark. He had pitched 243 innings, allowed only 192 hits, fanned 176 and issued only 107 bases on balls. Two years ago Blackwell was being counted out with a sore arm and a serious kidney operation. This season he made a sensational comeback, and many rate him more baffling than ever. "He is a 16 per cent better pitcher than in 1947, when he came within a whisker of pitching successive no-hitters," said Grady Hatton, veteran third baseman of the Reds.

"Look at his record that season. He pitched 273 innings and allowed [illegible] hits, a higher [illegible] average than he has this season. It is not only his record. He has something else today that makes him a great pitcher. He has poise, he [illegible] and looks like a man completely sure of himself. He isn't a 'thrower' as he was in 1947. He's a master now, not a young fellow trying to throw everything by the hitter. When he gets through a game, he isn't worn out."

Blackwell [illegible] when told what Hatton said. "He might be biased, you know," said Ewell. "He roomed with me, and he and I are among the few of the 1947 Reds left."

But the Ph[illegible] know that Hatton isn't biased. The big fellow, known as 'Mr. Pretzel,' 'The Whip,' "Blackie" and various other names given him by frustrated hitters (not exactly fit for print), let them down that afternoon with three hits and shut them out, 2 to 0.

Gran Hamner, unofficial captain of the Phillies, said: "That guy's illegal. They ought to have a rule against a fellow who sweeps his arms into your [illegible] and then whips the ball over the plate. Every time I go to the plate I make up my mind to keep my feet on the ground. And when [illegible] starts his windup via third base I want to put my foot in my mouth and walk into the dugout. I repeat, it ain't legal."

Several [illegible] Blackwell's defeats have come by a margin of one run. In [illegible] the Reds were shut out. His record could easily have been 23 and seven.

* * *

Adversity Taught Him How to Pitch

"I think I have learned to pitch [illegible] just throw," Blackie admitted modestly. "I started to learn to pitch when I hurt my arm in 1948. It was a blessing in disguise. I couldn't see it then, and thought I was the most abused guy in the world. But it sure taught me something about pitching [illegible] that I would never have learned if I had not had a sore arm. Fortunately, it is as good as ever"—and he reached over to tap wood.

What about his operation (he had a kidney removed in January, 1949). Did it ever bother him?

"Never bothers me," he said. "If I didn't see the scar in the mirror occasionally, I would forget I had it. I never feel a hitch or a stitch or a pain.

"It came like that—blam!" and Blackie snapped his fingers. "I was sitting at the table reading the paper—I remember the date well, January 9—when I felt as if someone had stepped up behind me and stabbed me with a knife. The pain didn't leave when I lay down, so I called the doctor. He gave me some medicine. It didn't work. He said I ought to have X-rays taken. They showed a strangled kidney. An artery had wrapped itself around my kidney since birth and had cut off circulation.

"I was on the operating table in a jiffy. The docs pushed apart the big muscle in my back and got the kidney. And I have felt great ever since. Of course, I didn't regain my full strength until this Spring. And I have put on 25 pounds that hasn't hurt me. I used to weigh 190. Now I weigh 215. This has given me strength. I eat anything, do anything I want."

Blackie was asked which batters give him the most trouble at the plate?

"Eddie Waitkus and Gene Hermanski," he said.

What about Stan Musial, Ralph Kiner, Hank Sauer, Jackie Robinson, Duke Snider, Del Ennis?

"Free swingers ordinarily don't give me too much trouble," said Blackie. "Musial, Kiner and those fellows don't bother me. It's the guys who stand at the plate and merely poke at the ball. Waitkus, for instance. He waits until the last minute, then gives the bat a snap and wham—a hit sails to left field or over my head into centre field."

Blackwell is a natural victim of scratch hits. His delivery breaks in sharply on righthanded hitters. They swing and hit the ball on the handle. It dribbles down the third base line or goes slowly between short and third, and a batter who can break away fast from the plate gets a hit. He needs a third baseman equipped with springs to help him out.

How does Blackie feel about night ball?

"It doesn't make any particular difference to me," he said. "They tell me my record is better at night than it is in the daytime. That surprises me, for I believe you can follow the ball better at night than you can in daytime. I have to watch my arm more carefully at night. Night games in Boston, New York and Brooklyn are tough. About the seventh inning, dampness creeps off the ground or the fog comes in from the ocean and unless your arm is warm or you have it rubbed with oil, it will get chilled."

Steve Rynoski to Take Popham's Place in Line

Victoria Shamrocks will go into the fifth game of their final Inter-City Lacrosse League play-off against New Westminster Adanacs tomorrow once again minus the services of Edwin Popham.

The "rookie of the year" played in Friday's contest at Memorial Arena, but found his injured shoulder still too much of a handicap to handle his share of defensive duties.

Steve Rynoski, who missed the last game due to a bout with influenza, will return to action and take over Popham's position with the first-string forward line. Andy Ovcharick will handle the utility role with the club.

With the Adanacs holding a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series Arnie Ferguson's Rocks are faced with the rugged task of having to win three straight contests against the powerful Yellowjackets to continue in their Mann Cup quest.

Joe Coleman, secretary of the Shamrocks Sideliners' Club, stated last night that the club was unable to charter an aircraft for Monday evening. However, an attempt will be made to secure special steamship rates for boxla fans. The special fare is contingent on the number of persons expressing a desire to make the trip tomorrow afternoon. Fans wishing to avail themselves of the special fare to the Mainland are asked to see Coleman at the C.P.R. docks between 12 and 1 tomorrow.

Schools See Big Year For Soccer

By WALT YOUNG

Inter-high school soccer is slated to start Wednesday, October 4, with a bumper entry of seven teams from high schools in the Victoria district. Games will be played every Wednesday.

The league will be run on a round-robin series. Each team will meet each of the others once, the top team at the end of the series to be declared league champion.

KNOCKOUT SERIES

At the end of league play a knockout series for The Colonist Cup will be played. The matches will be drawn, with one team getting a bye into the semi-finals as each of the five schools will enter only one team in the play-offs. The two finalists will play for the coveted Colonist Cup and a crack at the British Columbia title.

Victoria High will enter three teams in the league, with single entries coming from Esquimalt, Mount View, Mount Douglas and Oak Bay High. The league schedule will be released at a later date.

Holdout?

MAURICE RICHARD

All-star right-winger of Montreal Canadiens, Richard has failed to come to agreement with club officials over 1950-51 salary. He refused to play in exhibition game against Cincinnati yesterday. He said he did not feel he should risk injury when not signed to contract.

A practice for all players in the Victoria Rugby League Union will be held at Windsor Park tomorrow at 7 p.m. All players are asked to attend.

Crowd Carried Hartnett Between Third and Home

By HOWARD SIGMAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INB)—Every pitch that day 12 years ago had significance. The National League pennant hinged on each delivery.

Then, in the darkness-enshrouded confines of Wrigley Field, Chicago, Player-Manager Gabby Hartnett won the 1938 flag for his Cubs.

The brawny catcher, his uniform covered with sweat and a fair share of home field real estate, came to the plate with two out in the ninth inning. The score was Chicago 5, Pittsburgh 5.

Mace Brown, the Pirate fireman ace, had been blazing fast. The darkness made his pitches appear aspirin size.

Hartnett was an unsmiling Irishman as the count went to no balls and two strikes. But Brown made a pennant-costing mistake.

Instead of wasting the next pitch, he came right across the middle of the plate with it.

MASS HYSTERIA

Gabby swung and the ball was gone—homer-bound. There was mass hysteria after that. Before Hartnett could reach first base a mob of well-wishers started to gather around him.

Gabby flashed his famous grin and recalled the incident:

"There were so many fans and players on the field after I rounded second base that I couldn't even see third.

"My feet never touched the ground after I crossed third and until I reached home plate."

The September 28 victory, which had followed a tight 2-1 win the day before by Dizzy Dean and Bill Lee, moved the Cubs a half game ahead of the Pirates and they wrapped it up the next day by walloping the Bucs, 10-1.

What made it all the more dramatic was the fact that genial Gabby had been only a "part-time" manager that year, he took over in July in place of Charlie Grimm when the Cubs were 5½ games off the pace.

TAKEN IN SERIES

What ruined the whole picture so far as Chicago was concerned was the fact that the Bruins were taken four straight by the Yankees in the world series.

Gabby was with the Cubs a total of 19 years. He wound up his active career as a player with the Giants and followed this with some minor league managing.

He holds the National League mark of having caught in 100 or more games for 12 years.

Presently, the 49-year-old Hartnett is operating a bowling alley and sporting goods store in Skokie, Ill.

What does Gabby think about our present flag chases?

"The American League race will go down to the wire," he said. "I think the outcome will be determined by the breaks. Boston has the power, New York the pitching and Detroit the best balance."

His own National League?

Hartnett gave forth with another of his infectious grins.

"For all practical purposes that race is settled," he said.

Badminton Group Opens New Season Next Week

Officials of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club announced yesterday that activities in the badminton section will get under way next Sunday at 2 p.m. Indications are that another bumper membership will be on hand to participate in the second season in the club's new buildings.

Many pre-season inquiries have been received from prospective members, and, as the capacity of the club is limited, players who are now members of the club and wish to play this year are asked to register with the secretary immediately at B 1822 in order to ensure that a place on the club roster will be held for them.

BUSY

Badminton committee members are now busily lining up all the many details necessary to get the club under way. For those interested in competitive badminton, club and city tournaments are being planned, while for those who play the game for recreation, plans are being made for "mixer" nights where players of any and all calibres will play their games by draw, thus enabling members to become well acquainted, quickly.

All in all, things look pretty bright for the coming season out at the Fort Street courts, particularly when such players as the noted Canadian expert Darryl Thompson, are likely to be seen in action a good deal around the club. Thompson now spends part of his time in Victoria on business and will undoubtedly be working out at the local club.

Louis Favorite in Wednesday Bout But Will Have to Win Fight Early

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INS).—Joe Louis throws his one-time iron fists at the face of boxing tradition Wednesday night at the Yankee Stadium, the house he helped to furnish after Ruth built it.

The old champ, 36, and given to sodden suet around the equator of his once panther-like body, takes on jet-black Ezzard Charles, king of the heavyweights in every state except New York.

There's little or no betting but what there is of it indicates that people, out of sheer daring or fond memory of a younger Louis, will make Louis a favorite by perhaps 6-to-5.

And this in face of the fact that the balding, good-natured epigram coiner will be attempting to pull off an achievement which evaded such predecessors as Jim Corbett, Jim Jeffries, Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack Dempsey—recapture of a lost crown.

Louis, who retired almost as often as Madame Patti, is back in competition for nothing that has to do with pour le sport. He owes his Government about $170,000 for items disallowed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue after it went over his whopping 1946 return with a fine-tooth comb.

NOT IN RED NOW

It is not true that he is in the red currently. What with his financial interest in the International Boxing Club—promoters of Wednesday night's battle—and his exhibitions, restaurant, soft drink, taxicab and real estate holdings, Joe cleared $150,000 last year.

Joe's troubles are of the vintage 1946, the year his purses for the second Billy Conn match and the one against Tami Mauriello amounted to $728,527.44.

The old champ will go into the ring weighing 215 or a little more, the second heaviest weight of his interrupted ring career.

PRETTY CONFIDENT

But he seems pretty confident of victory, as he pares off the last possible pounds at Pompton Lakes, N.J. He's pretty sharp, he says, thanks to having boxed close to 70 exhibitions against local bully boys since the days he swore he was through with the ring for life.

By coincidence or not, one of his victims along that exhibition route was Elmer Ray, a big fellow who pinned on Charles, in 1947, the last defeat suffered by the bull-fiddle-playing Ezzard.

The promoters hope they'll get about $500,000 worth of business for this one, with the help of the cheques from the radio and television people. The hookup, as usual, will be enormous. Louis, though he practically comes to the scene as a challenger, will take down 35 per cent of the purse, against Charles' 20.

But Charles was happy to accept the smaller end. His personal lustre is something less than magnetic. On his own, against someone named Fred Beshore, he drew about 6,000 people and $28,000 last month.

Charles is seven years younger; faster and a better boxer. His supporters see in him a kind of carbon copy of Gene Tunney, who was held in lowly favor even after proving once, that he could beat Jack Dempsey. They think he'll stab Louis dizzy, for Louis had trouble catching up with and nailing the cumbersome Joe Walcott as long ago as June, 1948.

In a world of strife and U.N.'s bickerings, it is both refreshing and startling to find the two foremost personal combatants on earth today giving a pretty good impression of Alphonse and Gaston.

POLITEST EVER

Never before in the memory of this writer have two claimants of the heavyweight championship had so many nice things to say about each other. Louis recently wrote a magazine piece, saying what a fine fellow and under-rated fighter is Ezzard.

Charles will be one of the comparatively few colored men Louis has fought. The first one he met as a professional was John Henry Lewis, who had held the lightheavyweight title.

There was a great deal of fine feeling evidenced before that one, too. It was feared by Mike Jacobs, for one, that the boys would get in there and break into a waltz instead of a mayhem.

But Joe turned on John Henry with jungle savagery and belted him lopsided and unconscious in less than a round. Asked later why he had fought with such venom against a man whom he had lauded to the blue skies, and called his best friend, Joe said, very seriously, "I wanted to knock out John Henry in a hurry, so's he wouldn't get cut up."

Maybe we're building up to something like that for next Wednesday, and maybe not.

But one thing seems agreed upon, along Jacobs Beach—Joe, at 36 will have to win early, or he'll be remembered in boxing history not only with the glories of the Fitzs, Jeffreys, Corbetts and Dempseys, but also with their comeback despairs.

Newcastle United Takes Clear Two-Point Lead

LONDON, Sept. 23 (Reuters).—Newcastle United today moved into a clear two-point lead in the English First Division after dumping mighty Arsenal, last year's cup winners.

In a clash of the two glamour clubs of English soccer, 65,000 screaming fans at Tyneside saw Newcastle edge the Gunners, 2-1, with a late second-half goal.

Arsenal, until today joint league leaders with Newcastle, fell back into second spot in a four-way tie with Middlesborough, Manchester United and Huddersfield.

Joe Ceden, signed by Liverpool from Brooklyn, N.Y., when the Merseysiders were touring the United States two years ago, made his debut to First Division soccer today, stepping into the centre-half spot vacated by England star Laurie Hughes because of injury. But Liverpool bowed to Fulham, 2-1.

SETS PACE

Manchester City continued to set the pace in the Second Division. The City drew, 1-1, with Luton to retain their one-point lead.

Blackburn and Coventry were tied for second spot. Blackburn were held to a 2-2 draw with Hull City today allowing Coventry, who downed Leicester, 2-1, to draw level.

Millwall moved into a tie with Nottingham Forest for leadership of the Southern Section of the Third Division. The Forest, who had been setting the pace, were upset, 3-2, by Torquay, while Millwall managed to force a scoreless draw at Watford.

In the Northern Section, Tranmere Rovers and Gateshead continued to battle for supremacy. At the end of today's games both were tied at 16 points each with the same number of games played.

In Scotland, the power-house Glasgow Rangers, last year's league champions, took a 3-2 beating from Celtic, their bitter inter-city rivals.

Crackling Brush Betrays Hunters on Opening Day

Dry, noisy brush hampered riflemen who yesterday took to Vancouver Island's game trails for the first day of the 1950 deer-hunting season.

Although deer were reported to be in fair supply throughout most of the Island, yesterday's kill was relatively light, as hunters found difficulty in moving quietly. A larger invasion of the woods is forecast for today as nimrods, attempting to supplement their larders with venison, may be aided by last night's rain.

Most popular areas for the game animals are expected to be on the upper portion of the Island. Campbell River and Chemainus sections will probably play host to the largest numbers of rifles today.

BLUE GROUSE

With the blue grouse season a week old, hunters are finding the sporty blues more difficult to locate with many of the larger coveys scattering to higher ground. The Campbell River-Sayward area has yielded the largest number of birds, according to checks made by game wardens. More than 5,000 birds from that section were examined last week-end. Good bags have also been reported from the Cowichan Lake-Gordon River area.

Forbidden Plateau Lodge reports that gunners from there are taking fine bags of grouse and band-tailed pigeons.

Hunters are reminded that the shooting of deer with a shotgun is prohibited throughout the Province, except in those municipalities which ban the discharge of rifles.

Incogs, Oak Bay Victors In Final League Games

Oak Bay	8	6	2	.500
Alcos	6	8	5	.471
Albion	5	12	0	.316
Beattie	0	2	0	.250

Next game: today, Five C's vs. Alcos, Beacon Hill, 2:15 p.m.

Incogs and Oak Bay chalked up victories yesterday in their final matches of the 1950 Victoria and District Cricket Association League schedule.

Playing at University School, Incogs downed the second-place Cowichan Cricket Club by 29 runs, 45-16, while the Bays bested Albions, 145-133, at Beacon Hill.

Prior to the start of the Incogs-Cowichan contest, a brief period of silence was held in memory of John (Dad) Wenman, one of the original members of the Incogs club, who passed away recently.

J. A. Gibbs knocked out 12 runs to lead the winners' batsmen while Reg Wenman and R. T. Calton added eight each. R. Charter, with six runs, was high bat for the Duncan club.

Wenman paced the bowlers as he captured six wickets while giving up four runs. Incogs' Jim Sherratt took four for four and Jack Thorner recorded the best bowling returns for Cowichan, taking six wickets for 17 runs.

A well-played 92 by Ted Parkins spearheaded Oak Bay to their win over Albions.

Mainly through innings of 66 and 32, respectively, by Jack Shanks and Bob Sherratt, Albions ran up their 133 total while batting first.

With O.C. Grant adding 29 to Parkins' score and Rookie Wright contributing 17, the Bays passed their opponents' total with the loss of only five wickets.

In the lone league contest scheduled today, the league-winning Five C's will meet Alcos at Beacon Hill starting at 2.15.

Esquimalt, Britannias Win, Keep Tie for Lead

HOW THEY STAND

Esquimalt	2	2	0	5	5	4
Britannias	2	2	0	6	2	4
Victoria West	0	2	1	0	0	1
Heaneys	0	0	1	0	2	1
Oak Bay	0	1	2	3	2	0
Alcos	0	1	2	2	3	3
Duncan	0	0	2	0	2	0

Next game, today, Heaneys vs. Duncan at Duncan.

Esquimalt and Britannias scored victories in yesterday's Victoria and District Football Association matches to remain in a deadlock for first place. The Dockyarders downed Oak Bay, 4-2, at Windsor Park, while the Vets were edging Alcos, 3-2, at Beacon Hill.

Duncan Native Sons make their season's debut in league competition today when they tackle Heaneys at Duncan.

Two goals each by Roy Speller and Gordie Hayward produced a well-merited victory for Esquimalt over the Bays in a contest which had each club playing one man short.

Two tallies by Speller and one by Hayward gave the winners a 3-1 bulge at half-time. Bobby Rowe's counter midway through the half had temporarily knotted the count at 1-1.

Al Denoni scored for Oak Bay shortly after the interval to make it 3-2 before the ever-dangerous Hayward restored the two-goal margin with a long, low drive that Goalie Ken Wright was unable to hold.

Better positional play and a fine performance by George Forbes at centre half gave the Dockyarders an edge throughout most of the contest, which was marked by some neat touches despite the slippery turf and greasy ball.

Both Alcos and Britannias scored once in the opening half of their encounter. Cliff Ross put Alcos ahead with a goal from Jim Ackinclose's pass. Jim Davidson picked up a loose ball and drove it into the Alcos net to equalize the count after 30 minutes of play.

George Pickup boosted the winners into the lead in the opening minutes of the second half and Fuzz Slate made it 3-1 with the neatest goal of the game. Doug Day converted a penalty shot for the Alcos' final marker.

Line-ups follow:

Alcos—Sadler, Dovermaster, McKay, Ross, Day, Bishop, Ackinclose, Underwood, [illegible], Shandley, Ross.

Britannias—[illegible], Moss, Main, [illegible], Blair, Davidson, McDowell, [illegible], Pickup.

Oak Bay—Wright, [illegible], Walker, [illegible], Denoni, [illegible], Brown, Thompson, Rowe, [illegible], Ingram.

Louise Suggs Loses Out To Patty Berg

CARROLLTON, Ga., Sept. 23 (INS)—Veteran professional Patty Berg walked away with top money today in the $3,000 Sunset Hills invitational golf tournament at Carrollton.

The pert Minneapolis golfer took $750 as her share of the three-medal tournament payoff. She copped a 54-hole total of 217, five below par on the Carrollton Golf Course.

Tagging at her heels by one stroke was Carrollton's own professional Louise Suggs, who led the field throughout the tournament, only to lose on the last two holes.

Miss Suggs received $550.

In the amateur bracket Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., tied with Mary Ann Downey, of Baltimore. Each had 229 for the 54 holes. Miss Faulk was given first place at the flip of a coin.

Other scores follow: Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Texas, 226, $350; Helen Dettweiler, Indio, Calif., 228, $300; Mildred (Babe) Zaharias, Chicago, 231, $300; *Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., 231; Alice and Marlena Bauer, Midland, Texas, 237; Marilyn Smith, Wichita, Kans., 238; Sally Sessions, Detroit, 241.

*Amateur.

Davis Cup Champions Please Fans

VANCOUVER, Sept. 23 (CP)—Australia's Davis Cup champions closed out a two-day stay tonight with seven sets of sparkling tennis before 1,800 persons at Kerrisdale Arena.

Frank Sedgeman, the world's top amateur performer, took revenge on 21-year-old Ken McGregor by downing the big-serving player 6-3, 6-2 in the top singles event while George Worthington trimmed Mervyn Rose 6-3 in their one set.

Sedgman appeared steadier tonight with his court know-how and recovery shots more than enough to meet McGregor's slants. The latter netted more than last night, apparently still troubled by the white ball against the light playing surface.

Highlight of the night was the doubles event between Worthington and Sedgman and the combination of McGregor and Rose.

The former pair took the first set 9-7 after Rose's service was broken in the 16th, then dropped the next two 4-6, 4-6. The last evened the count when Sedgman and partner won 6-3. A fifth was called off as time ran out. Sedgman served four aces at one point in the first set.

The foursome, accompanied by team captain Harry Hopman, leave for Honolulu tomorrow for an exhibition, then home.

Mrs. W. H. Lawson captured Silver Division honors in the women's par competition held at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club last Thursday. She was three down.

Mrs. H. Damaske won the Bronze Division, 1 up.

★ All Frames Liquid-Brazed for Strength and Longer Life

★ Each Raleigh frame is dipped into a crucible of molten brass — ensuring free flow of metal at correct temperature into every joint. This makes the frame an almost unbreakable unit — giving years' longer life on rough roads.

This is ONE of Raleigh's technical achievements. Here are others: Bottom Bracket forged from single piece of steel for maximum strength at vital point. Dynohub lighting to floodlight road — works off front wheel hub, needs no attention—available at small extra cost. Light-as-a-feather steering, costly enamel finish, highest-quality plating.

Strength of Phils, Series Opponents, Put in Balance, Position by Position

[How do the Philadelphia Phillies, heirs-apparent to the National League championship, shape up against the American League representatives they will be called upon to face in the world series next month? The following article presents a pre-battle appraisal of the Phils and the three clubs fighting for the right to oppose them—the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INS)—When the Philadelphia Athletics won the American League pennant back in 1929, scouting their World Series opponents was a simple matter.

Connie Mack simply sent his secret opening pitching choice, Howard Ehmke, out to watch the Chicago Cubs romp through the last month of the National League campaign.

THREE SCOUTS

But times have changed. Open-and-shut pennant races have become obsolete, and now the A's Quaker City brethren, the Phillies, have had to deploy not one but three scouts to size up the possible series foes—the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers.

What those scouts report back is strictly between themselves and the Philly board of strategy headed by Manager Eddie Sawyer. But baseball being the sort of game it is, there's nothing to prevent every devotee from making his own appraisal of the situation.

Even Connie Mack, baseball's oldest settler, is getting into the act. Connie has said he would pick the Phils over Detroit and Boston but not over the Yankees.

The Phillies are distinguished chiefly by their youth and their balance. Over the long haul of the season, their youthful verve has been a distinct asset. In a short climax series, it could turn into a liability against an experienced bunch of opportunists such as the Yankees.

FOUR-CLUB COMPARISON

Here's the way a position-by-position rundown compares the four clubs:

Pitching—Yankees and possibly the Tigers are stronger than the Phils, the Red Sox weaker. While the Phils have lost Curt Simmons the Yankees acquired Rookie Ed Ford, Vic Raschi, Ed. Lopat, Tommy Byrne and Allie Reynolds.

Whatever Philadelphia's Robin Roberts, Ken Heintzelman, Russ Meyer, Bob Miller and—if available—Bubba Church lack by comparison is made up by Reliefer Jim Konstanty. He is to the Phils what the 1950 Joe Page has not been to the Yankees.

The Tigers could bank on Art Houtteman, Hal Newhouser, Dizzy Trout and Fred Hutchinson, with ailing Ted Gray and veteran Hank Borowy possible aces in the hole. The Red Sox have a rather motley crew with Mel Parnell, Willard Nixon, Chuck Stobbs, Walt Masterson and Ellis Kinder.

Catching—Phils' Andy Seminick is as good as any of the American Leaguers—Birdie Tebbetts of Boston, Yogi Berra of the Yanks or Aaron Robinson of Detroit.

First Base: For a brief money series, the Yankees are best equipped with Johnny Mize and Tommy Henrich. The Red Sox have power in Walt Dropo. But the Phils' Eddie Waitkus is no slouch at bat and the best glove man of the lot. A problem all year for the Tigers, the sack now is guarded by ex-third baseman Don Kolloway.

HARD TO CHOOSE

Second base and shortstop: It is hard to choose among the Yanks' Gerry Coleman-Phil Rizzuto and Phils' Mike Goliat-Gran Hamner. Boston's Bobby Doerr and Vern Stephens have hitting authority if not the fielding finesse of the others. Detroit's Gerry Priddy and Eddie Lipon are fourth best.

Third base: Tigers' George Kell shines here. Willie Jones of Phils has the edge over either Boston's John Pesky or Yanks' Bill Johnson.

Outfield—All four are strong in this department. Yanks have Hank Sauer, Gene Woodling, Cliff Mapes, Johnny Hopp and, of course, Joe DiMaggio for numerical superiority at least. But who can quarrel with Detroit's Vic Wertz, Hoot Evers, Johnny Groth and Pat Mullin; Boston's Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and Al Zarilla, or Philadelphia's Dick Sisler, Richie Ashburn and Del Ennis.

The Red Sox, of course, have a potent secret weapon in Billy Goodman, the league's leading hitter, who may turn up anywhere.

That leaves the managers. Casey Stengel and Steve O'Neill have managed in World Series before. Red Rolfe has not, but has played in his share. Only the Phils' Sawyer is a complete neophyte.

Yet all such generalizations are misleading. Nor can cold statistics tell the story. The Phils are leading their own league by a country mile, yet percentage-wise they would be in fourth place in the American League.

POISON PLANT MENACE

CAPETOWN (CP)—About 300 of the 20,000 different plants in South Africa are poisonous. The menace to livestock is so great that the Government is asking farmer's organizations, botanists and others to co-operate in a campaign to reduce sickness and deaths.

The history of the famous Koh-I-Noor diamond goes back to the 13th century.

HOUSE No. 625

Here is an attractive, practical design for the family looking for a three-bedroom, one-story house. Its plan is as orderly as its exterior. Not one square inch of floor space has been wasted. The walls are of cedar shakes, finished white, against a blue roof. The owner has the living and dining-rooms finished in grey and green, and the master bedroom in gunmetal. The bathroom is peach tiles. The living-room fireplace has a full-width mirror, low mantel and glass shelves up each side.

Floor Care

PREVENTING CRACKS IN NEW WOOD FLOORS

Should cracks develop in a new, well-laid floor within a few weeks or months after installation, the cause can almost invariably be traced to a change in the moisture content within the wood itself. This change in moisture content as a result of absorption of moisture from the air is unfortunately not always fully appreciated and too often little or no effort is made to guard against it.

Reliable established manufacturers of hardwood flooring make every effort to properly dry their flooring stock before manufacture and to keep the flooring in proper condition as long as it is in their warehouse before shipment. They are concerned, too, with the method by which it is stored in the freight car for delivery to the retail dealer. As long as it is in their hands both manufacturer and dealer take every possible care to see that it is not subjected to conditions that would allow it to absorb moisture.

Usually, most of the trim will be installed, plastering finished and windows and exterior doors fitted and in place by the time flooring is delivered to the job. If it is delivered on a damp day or during rain under conditions allowing moisture to enter exposed boards, such flooring is quite likely to produce irregularities in a short time. Very bad results may also be expected if the flooring is laid or even stored inside the house before plaster or masonry of the walls has had time to become thoroughly dry.

Even without this type of more or less obvious exposure of the wood to moisture, there is another type of exposure, less obvious, but no less important. During the time of laying the floor, scraping it, and completing the other items up to the time of occupancy, the general temperatures within the house both day and night are likely to be lower and the humidities higher than they would be in the same house if it were occupied. At this stage humidity can have a considerable bearing on the success of a flooring job.

Where a succession of damp days follows immediately after the floor is laid, and before the finish can be placed upon it, a very important pickup to moisture content is likely to occur. The pickup, of course, is very much slower after a floor has received even the first coat of its final finish.

Even a moderate absorption of moisture from the air is sufficient to cause a perceptible bulging of certain boards where they resist one another in the natural tendency to swell. Some crushing of wood fibre found to result from moisture increase in a tightly laid floor—resulting in the most common cause of nearly all cracking called compression set. If you were able to examine some well-laid flooring and see just how the edges go together, you would find that there is a relatively narrow edge that has to take the results of this compression, though the whole board takes up some of it. After a board has once been in this compressed condition it never again completely recovers.

13 WANTED—MALE HELP

GOING SOMEWHERE?

PERHAPS YOU ARE PERFECTLY SATisfied with your present job. On the other hand, if you feel that before long you must reach a decision to leave your job because it seems to lead nowhere, we'd like to talk with you.

This 105-year-old company has openings for young men between 25 and 45 who are interested in a selling career of professional stature.

Our Company's three-year on-the-job training program supplemented by Agency forums, sales clinics, and close personal counsel will enable you to build a profitable business of your own, with a special income until you become established. After that, the Lifetime Compensation Plan offers income possibilities limited only by your own efforts and talents, plus a comfortable income at retirement. We invite you to write for an appointment, stating education, business experience, marital status, minimum salary needed and length of residence in Victoria.

78 HOUSES FOR SALE

TORQUAY, ENGLAND, IS SIMILAR

We have a different kind of conservative home that has one of the finest sea views and is situated near the riverside observatory facing south and sheltered from the north winds. Heated with oil and on a lot that consists only of gravel walks, rock garden, flowers, roses and shrubs, with very little effort to keep up and no lawns to mow. The fine Tudor English atmosphere is incorporated with its beamed ceiling and different chiselled plaster stone effect. And from almost every one of the six rooms a view you cannot tire of is obtained. The price of this home should be between $16,000 to $18,000. However, as the owner wishes to Winter abroad we are commissioned to accept offers on the price and on the terms. This one will complement period antique furniture. Last-minute reduction price $14,500

CEDAR HILL CROSSROAD AREA

Two nice homes priced to sell, one at $10,000 (cells has some space to live in). Only about five years built, there are five rooms on main floor and three partly finished, up, with plumbing roughed in and a separate two-car garage on a good big lot studded with oaks. The other, a very modern ranch house of five rooms plus an (extra) small room, can be bought with one acre of land for $9,800 on terms of $3,000 cash, balance about $60 monthly.

TATTERSALL—HIGH QUADRA

A stucco two years of age that has five rooms, plus a lot of extra nice features, such as tile sink, utility room on main floor. There is a big high basement. All this on a corner lot, and it's priced to sell at $9,850

COMPACT, PRETTY GARDEN HOT WATER HEAT

Four rooms and through hall, nice basement about ten years built, out High Quadra in a nice district, on a paved street. Just about as pretty a lot as you'd find anywhere and nobody expects you. Also has that permanent stucco that saves painting. Let's get settled in a warm home for Winter. This is it.

DEAN HEIGHTS AREA

Modern ranch-house with electric stove and Bendix included, plus wall-to-wall carpets, all rooms. This home has hot-water floor-level heating and is just about as pretty as you think possible, with its nice colors and big windows set off with a long concrete driveway and Roman brick flower-boxes. With the included items this home that was placed the first time on the market for over $14,000 has been reduced to $13,500 and is a gift.

Exclusive Listing
Modern Tudor Type
On a Landscaped Lot
And an Address to Be Proud Of.

There are five rooms down and three rooms up by way of concealed stairs and a full basement. Cash talks or we can finance this with about $5,000 cash and $75 to $80 monthly. We want an offer of some kind on the price of $10,950. Your investment will always be secure in this fine residential area, sheltered from the winds, but near the beach in that popular Mount Joy and Central Avenue area, just below the intersection of Beach and Marine Drives, behind Gonzales Hill. The land value and improvements such as shrubs, fish pool, etc., should be about $1,500 making a very inexpensive home at the price or offer $10,950

OAK BAY—DUFFERIN AND THOMPSON AREA

BEAUTY—COMFORT—SOLIDNESS

Are the factors which this gracious and spacious home are built on from the beautiful gardens to the big high and bright basement. Over a curving walk, through a green lawn and up a wide set of concrete steps, you gain entry to a wide impressive through L-shaped hall and planned into a living-room, 22 ft. x 18 ft. approx. size, that opens into a full guest-size dining-room that will take the maximum of sizeable furniture and there on into a long kitchen that isn't too wide making few steps and grouping the preparation of meals. Then using the "L" part of the hall we cross the home, reaching linen closets, bathroom, den with patio and 2 commodious bedrooms. Also there is a utility room and a small room in the basement. This home and it is a home is a modern manor and a low bungalow that is conservative, having about 1,650 sq. ft. of 7-year-built solid construction, is insulated, wired for range, all floors oak, and automatic heat. Not least in importance is a lane that puts the garage at the rear of the home and a fenced rear garden. This home may be shown to genuine home seekers by appointment at the listed price of $14,900

FAIRFIELD—NEAR PARK

ALL HARDWOOD FLOORS

Not a new home but one of mature age with 6 rooms and a through hall, all of which are spacious. Throughout the home reflects the fact that people who regard cleanliness as next to godliness live in it. It has a full basement, piped furnace, is well built and extremely warm. Has a neat garden and there is a lane at rear and the price is $6250

WATERFRONT HOME VERY SPECIAL! VERY DIFFERENT!

This delightful waterfront home is different from any home now on Vancouver Island, yet it offers the utmost in convenient living and is so constructed that the beauty and charm of the waterfront location may be enjoyed whether you are working in the electrical kitchen, resting in the living-room or retiring to the bedroom. The home is constructed of logs which are peeled and varnished. It is built around a cemented patio court which has a large stone barbecue. The accommodation consists of living-room finished in knotty pine with a ten-foot stone fireplace, dining-room, two bedrooms, two bathrooms, one toilet and wash basin, electric kitchen complete with electric stove, Frigidaire, etc. The house is offered for sale completely furnished. This de luxe Spanish villa is offered for sale with the house and approximately three acres, or the house and approximately 1½ acres, or with the house and land and a new Chris Craft cruiser with accommodation to sleep four people. At great expense the present owner has constructed a cement pier as a landing dock for the cruiser. There is also a delightfully sandy beach. If you are looking for waterfront do not overlook this one.

Club "B" Title Captured By Mrs. Hunt

Mrs A. W. Hunt won the women's "B" championship at the Victoria Golf Club Friday, defeating Mrs. G. H. Simons, 3 up, in the 18-hole final.

Mrs Ruth Jones took first flight honors with a 5 and 4 triumph over Mrs A. B. Gonnason and Mrs R. O. Alexander was second flight winner with a 4 and 3 decision over Mrs. R. R. Wilde.

Other results were: Mrs. A. S. Blakney defeated Miss Barbara Hunt, 7 and 5, in the third flight final. Miss J. Wärter defeated Mrs. G. H. Roffey, 7 and 6, for fourth flight laurels, and Mrs. W. C. Mearns won fifth flight with 5 and 4 triumph over Mrs. A. S. G. Musgrave.

Oliver Keeps Slight Edge In Open Golf

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 23 (AP).—Ed (Porky) Oliver, jovial Seattle golfer, was still in front at the 54-hole mark of the Kansas City $15,000 Open golf tournament after a par-cracking battle today with his slim rival, Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago.

Oliver, who set a course record of 62 yesterday, dropped today's feud to Mangrum by one shot, posting a 67, five under par, to Mangrum's 66 but still held a one-shot edge as the tournament moved to the final round.

Porky's total was 201 to Mangrum's 202.

It took two strokes better than par 216 to stay in the ranks of the 20 leaders as the touring pro contingent had a good day over the 6,645-yard Milburn Country Club course.

Ted Neist of Walla Walla, Wash., shot a 72 today for a 215 total and a share in a four-way tie for 14th place. Sam Snead was among those bracketed with Neist.

Squire Wins Medal Honors In Club Meet

Jim Squire, provincial amateur golf champion, yesterday captured medal honors in the qualifying round of the annual Victoria Golf Club championship tournament.

With all contestants bothered somewhat by rain during the afternoon's play, Squire fired a three-over-par 73 to edge out George Bigelow by a single stroke.

Gordon Varley and Walter Newcombe were tied for third place at 74 while A.S.G. Musgrave, with 75, was in fifth place and Phil Redford finished sixth with a 77.

Defending Champion Alan Taylor, although he has been playing very little golf recently, qualified for the championship flight with an 81. George Straith Jr. gained the 16th, and last, position with 83.

First-round matches in the tourney will be played at the Oak Bay links next week-end.

Firemen's Plan Will Draw Good Players

Decision of the Vancouver Firemen to enter a team in the second division of the Vancouver and District Soccer League will cost Mainland Coast Soccer League clubs the services of some of their better players according to a Vancouver report yesterday.

The report stated that players almost certain to join the Firemen include Dave Brown, Dave Sullivan and Frank Ambler of New Westminster Royals, Dick Kenning and Doug Greig of St. Andrews, Alec Mackay of Vancouver City and Pete Proctor of North Shore United.

Should the above players all join the new club, the Firemen will have to be reckoned as a team to consider when Province and Connaught Cup playdowns are held next Summer. It will also cause a corresponding drop in the calibre of C.S.L. play. At the same time, it will probably force Mainland clubs to include more junior players in their line-ups and perhaps prove a boon to the sport. It won't hurt Victoria United chances of a good showing, either.

"Y" Registration Set for Monday

Persons wishing to enter one of the many classes the Y.M.C.A. is offering this year may register Monday night at the "Y."

The registration is for all classes of hobby crafts, physical activity and public speaking. Added to hobby crafts are leather carving and metallic plastics. Registration time is between 7:30 and 9 p.m.

On Wednesday the Women's Choral Club will meet at 8 p.m. to enroll new members.

FRANCE EXPORTS WHEAT

France, short of wheat a few years ago, recently shipped 30,000 tons of wheat to Brazil.

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

Seventeen years ago we sat in the press box at Fort Worth, Texas, and had our first look at a pretty fair country passer. He took the ball on his own 12-yard line and passed his way to a touchdown against Southern Methodist, without using the running game.

This tall, slender, rawhide kid was Sammy Baugh. Last Sunday, the same Sammy Baugh, now in his seventeenth football season—three with T.C.U. and 14 with the Washington Redskins, threw three touchdown passes against Baltimore in his opening shot for 1950.

Sammy is one of the most amazing football players that ever stepped onto a field. Back in 1933 he weighed 183 pounds. I saw Sam last year and asked what he weighed. "Just the same," he said, "183. I haven't changed an ounce since the first time I saw you."

Baugh took a heavy physical beating that day against S.M.U., 17 years ago. He has taken similar beatings year after year since then, especially during those years when it was legal to murder a passer. Baugh can't even guess how many times the back of his head has bounced off the turf after having thrown to an end or a back down the field.

"Plenty," says Sammy. He never wastes words. The brilliant Mel Hein, another indestructible, lasted longer than Baugh, but Mel wasn't a forward passer—an open target for assault.

Baugh is a trifle over six feet in height—lean, hard, tough. His bony frame might as well have been covered with rhino hide. He has a pair of big hands and, in addition to his passing ability, he is one of the best kickers in football. He's better than good at quick-kicking. In one game I saw Sammy stand on his own five-yard line, facing a half-hurricane wind, and quick-kick 85 yards!

Baugh is a hard man to rush. He is still elusive on his feet, with a quick eye and a quick hand, and few can spot a receiver with such swift sureness.

His throwing arm has lasted through nearly two decades where he has shown no sign of the old elasticity wearing out. It might amaze you to know how many good football judges rate Baugh, plus his stamina, as the greatest football player of all time.

BAUGH'S PASSING RIVALS

It would be different if Sammy Baugh happened to be caught in a group of ordinary passers.

But look at his rivals. Sid Luckman, one of the all-time greats; Otto Graham, the National League wrecker; Johnny Lujack, George Ratterman, Frankie Albert, Bob Waterfield, Y. A. Tittle, Bobby Layne and many others, including Chuck Conerly and Tommy Thompson.

It remained for the Cleveland Browns, plus Otto Graham, to prove through all these costly years of football rivalry, that Paul Brown's outfit was the outstanding team.

The Browns are not at the top peak and yet, so far this season, they have beaten each National League team they've met, including the Chicago Bears and the Philadelphia Eagles. They have been without question the best team in the league, with something to spare.

In behalf of Greasy Neale it might be said he has suffered the penalty of victory. This means he has been unable to get any first-class help through the draft, or otherwise. His selections have been the 13th choice. His club is wearing out. There's certainly no fairness in penalizing success to such an extent.

The openings last Sunday averaged around 22,000 per game, just a fair general attendance. We thought it would be better, but judging from the attendance we have seen lately at big-league ball parks, from 1,200 to 3,500 for most teams out of the race, it seems the same thing could happen to pro football this Fall.

The winners will do well. The losers won't do well at all. Teams around the bottom after three or four games might be lucky to draw 8,000 per game, or a good bit less.

The two races can be quite close. In the American Conference the Browns look to be the best, closely pressed by the Eagles, when they get in better physical shape. The Giants and Redskins can threaten and make trouble. In the National group, there should be a close race among the Detroit Lions, Chicago Bears and New York Yankees. The Far West clubs, Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49'ers, aren't far away. This looks to be a better race than the American grouping will show.

The Lions with big Leon Hart and Doak Walker can be tough. Chuck Conerly must show improvement to lift the Giants up, unless Tidwell can help. The Yankees can be a distinct threat with Ratterman around.

Whatever happens, pro football will feed on much greener pastures than it knew before, even before the war.

Royals Edge St. Andrews

VANCOUVER, Sept. 23 (CP)—New Westminster Royals defeated St. Andrews 2-1 in a Pacific Coast Soccer League fixture at Callister Park today.

Ken Routley scored both goals for the Royal City squad. His first came after 12 minutes of play.

Doug Greig tied the count seven minutes later, but Routley put Royals ahead again two minutes before the end of the first half, and there was no further scoring after the interval.

Last-Half Rallies Save Six U.S. Football Games

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Last-half uprisings won football games for North Carolina, Texas Christian, Villanova, Fordham, Georgia and Iowa State today as the Autumn college sport made a hesitant appearance on the athletic stage.

Most of the named schools still were in the process of building their teams and do not open their season until next week or later.

But the teams that started their marches today at least six learned that football is a game that must be played until the judge fires the game-ending pistol.

For three quarters, a driving North Carolina State outfit outplayed the North Carolina Tar Heels, who meet Notre Dame next week. Then Bud Carson lugged a punt back 33 yards and seven plays later Bud Wallace banged over for the touchdown that gave North Carolina a 13-7 decision.

Texas Christian waited until four minutes before the end of the game in polishing off Kansas of the Big Seven 14-7.

Iowa State waited until the final period for all its points in its 14-7 margin over Colorado in a Big Seven encounter.

But the big bounce of the day was the 27-7 lambasting suffered by Maryland at the hands of Georgia. The Marylanders, ballyhooed as all-everything, got off slowly but still were even with Georgia at the half, 7-7. Then John Duke, an end, scooted 43 yards to set up the touchdown that put Georgia ahead 14-7. In the final canto Georgia piled up 13 more points to insure its victory.

Villanova, overlooked by Bowl pickers last New Year's Day despite only one defeat in 1949, gained another victory. Trailing 21-13 at the half, the Wildcats slipped into high gear and knocked off the young Duquesne team, 39-28.

Remember When . . .

Whitlow Wyatt's five-hit shutout against Boston Braves gave Brooklyn Dodgers their first National League pennant in 21 years nine years ago today. Wyatt went on to pitch Brooklyn's only win of the world series over the New York Yankees.

Seattle Rainiers have bolstered their sagging mound staff by signing 35-year-old Kirby Higbe, former Brooklyn star.

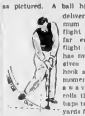
Golf—Here's How

By SAM SNEAD
Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher



Swing your club down to the ball inside-out across the direction line as pictured. A ball hit this way delivers the maximum of straight flight. And at the far end of the flight such a ball has overspin that gives it a faint hook as the ball's momentum dies away. Overspin rolls the ball perhaps ten or fifteen yards farther than if it did not have overspin. To get an inside-out swing, you think of starting your hands down s-l-o-w-l-y from the top. And by down, I mean almost straight down. Your hip and shoulder pivot will carry the clubhead out and around so that your clubhead will retrace the path it made when you swung it back, around and up. Again notice in this picture that with the head held in the fixed address position, our player's left shoulder is rotating upward, the left arm and club-shaft are virtually straight and the right shoulder is rotating under the chin, while the uncocking hands are delivering the full power of the wrist-lash to ball.

SCIENTIFIC SWISS DISCOVERY

F "99"

BOILS
LEG ULCERS

Eminent scientists have discovered that the lack of certain fatty acids in the diet causes severe disturbance to health. If the highly unsaturated fatty acids are withdrawn from a normal diet, severe injury to the skin results. The modern type of diet, and especially the use of refined fats and oils in which unsaturated fatty acids are almost completely lacking, have brought about a deficiency in many individuals. A Swiss scientist, Dr Schmitz, succeeded after ten years of work in preparing from pure vegetable oils an unsaturated fatty acid with a 99% purity, and therefore named "F '99'."

F "99" TWO-WAY TREATMENT

This new Swiss discovery is a two-way treatment (working internally with F "99" capsules, and externally with F "99" ointment) and has proved remarkably effective in cases of unsaturated fatty acid deficiency—eczema, boils, leg ulcers and infantile eczema. The F "99" preparations have already brought about the most amazing results in Switzerland, and in large cities such as London, Paris, Rome and Vienna. Canadian sufferers are already benefiting from the F "99" preparations, which are still in short supply. A duplicate of the Swiss laboratory has already been constructed and will be equipped under the personal supervision of Dr Wyler, who has come over specially from Switzerland. F "99" has already proved in thousands of cases its tremendous value as a natural remedy, and it will soon be available throughout Canada for the treatment of chronic eczema, boils, psoriasis, leg ulcers and infantile eczema.

Weiler-Regan Trophy Taken By Sergeant Albert E. Ashe

Sergeant Albert E. Ashe won the Weiler-Regan Trophy for the second successive year at Heals Range yesterday when he completed the third stage of the three-leg shoot with a total score of 278 out of a possible 305 points. Tied with P. Morse with a total of 195 points for the first two stages, the veteran Canadian Scottish marksman gained a total of 83 points at the 900 and 1,000-yard ranges against a 71 carded by Morse.

Officer Cadet Fred E. Richardson of the 75th Regiment Rifle Association placed second with 274 points, but his prize went to Teammate Maj. A. M. Taylor Spittall, who placed third with 271 points. The reversion took place as a result of Richardson's win in the first stage.

C. Hobson placed fourth in the aggregate and captured the trophy for the high tyro with a score of 269 points. The 75th Regiment marksman has completed his first year of target shooting.

RAIN, HAZE

Capt. W. B. McKay of the Garrison Rifle Association won the silver ash tray for the third stage by reversion from other prize winners with a score of 80 points registered on targets that at times were all but obscured by squalls of rain and banks of haze.

Cadet Sergeant Tara Sangha of the Air Cadets won the trophy for the high cadet with a score of 253 points.

At the conclusion of the shoot, Capt. Jean Dunbar presented the prizes to the winners, including Moore, who received a silver ash tray for his fine win in the second stage.

The final shoot of the season will be staged next Saturday.

Scores were:

Ashe, 278; Richardson, 274; Spittall, 271; Hobson, 269; Morse, 266; McKay, 263; Lieut. Arthur Sherwin, 259; Capt. Jean Dunbar, 256; C.P.O. E. A. Moore, 254; Bdsman. Frank Drysdale, 254; Sangha, 253; Sid Rabey, 253; H. Cresine, 253; C. E. Sherwin, 251; Cdt. T. L. Wylie, 241; Lt.-Col. T. Moore, 236; D. D. Thorburn, 226; P.O. H. C. Botten, 225; M. F. Vogler, 221; C.P.O. E. Michaux, 218; G. Brewer, 215.

Veterans Call Attention To Subversive Elements

ALBERNI, Sept. 23—Disappointment that resolutions dealing with Communism and Communists had not reached the floor of the Canadian Legion Convention at Winnipeg was expressed by E. W. Tilot and Alex Lockwood, delegates from Somass Branch No. 60, who spoke at a regular meeting.

Delegates said they had expected some action on Canadian Communists in view of Gen H. D. G. Crerar's recent assertion that they were collaborationists, and should be treated as such.

The meeting held at Alberni Legion Hall was the occasion for the installation of officers. A. W. Neill, honorary president of the branch, was present. Ralph Gibson of Cumberland, second vice-president of the Provincial Command, installed the officers.

Officers were: Alex Lockwood, president, H. Williamson, first vice-president; Ald. K. Paterson, second vice-president; R. Ehret, treasurer; R. Lee, secretary, M. Crossland, corresponding secretary; and J. Young, sergeant-at-arms.

Executive members were G. Cosens, R. Redallack, C. Paxton, R. West, L. James, W. Dean and G. Dunn.

Convention delegates felt children of war widows living in Alberni Valley should not be compelled to leave school to support their mothers. They suggested branch members could become "foster fathers."

Hope to Alter Small Church

COURTENAY, Sept. 23—Residents of Merville have been invited to attend a meeting in St. Mary's Anglican Church on the afternoon of October 1. Discussion will be held on plans to move the building farther away from the Island Highway, improve heating arrangements, and increase seating space.

Folk Festival For Glenwood

PORT ALBERNI, Sept. 23—Alberni District Rotary Club will hold a folk festival at Glenwood Sports Centre next Thursday and Friday. There will be music, singing, dancing and colorful costumes of many nations on display.

Police Search Nanaimo Area For Car Thief

NANAIMO, Sept. 23.—Second similar accident within a few days sent police in search of the driver of an overturned automobile.

Speeding through Wellington, an automobile went out of control near the railway station, crossed a ditch, climbed a bank, and rolled over on its top.

Two occupants disappeared. The owner of the machine had reported it missing from Port Alberni.

Officer Loses Shirt at Jail From Scuffle

NANAIMO, Sept. 23.—Before a city man was subdued when brought to the Nanaimo police station on a charge of being intoxicated, he had torn the shirt off a policeman and smashed a cell window.

He was remanded for a week by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts, and granted bail of $500, on a charge of assault causing actual bodily harm to his sister-in-law. He was fined $10 for the police station affair, and ordered to pay $25 damages.

Throw Switch For Districts

NANAIMO, Sept. 23—The B.C. Power Commission announced that power would be cut off from 8 a.m. to 9.30 a.m. Sunday at Nanaimo, Wellington, Lantzville, Nanoose Bay and other communities as far north as Bowser, while work is carried out at the Pine Street sub-station, Nanaimo.

Service will be suspended in Chase River and North Cedar districts from 8.30 a.m. to 11.30 a.m. the same day.

Power will be cut off from Nanaimo to Bowser again from 8 a.m. to 6 a.m. on October 1.

Suffers Burns In Boat Blast

ZEBALLOS, Sept. 23—Samuel Telosky suffered first degree burns to his hands and face when his 36-foot vessel Ty caught fire and exploded at the Standard Oil Company's dock. The blast occurred after Mr. Telosky had taken gasoline aboard and started the engine.

Fishermen immediately towed the craft away from the dock and made attempts to extinguish the flames, but the Ty burned to the water line and sank. Nothing was saved. No insurance was carried on the vessel.

MORNING COUGHS and Asthma

Do you cough and cough, especially mornings and at night? Do you choke, gasp for breath, wheeze and often can't sleep? The cause of these devitalizing symptoms may be recurring attacks of Asthma or Bronchitis. In such cases, the very first dose of MENDACO usually starts right now, working through the blood and thus reaching lungs and bronchial tubes, to help relax that clogged up stuffy feeling in the chest, then helps Nature loosen and clean out thick, strangling phlegm. This helps you get good fresh air into your lungs and promotes restful sleep. Ask your druggist for MENDACO. Satisfaction or money back.

Gale Brings Rain at Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER, Sept. 23.—Autumn was ushered in here by a southeast gale and some welcome rain. Forest officials were relieved at the change in the weather, after nearly six weeks without rain. Extra men had been employed by logging camps in the vicinity to guard slash fires which were set earlier in the week in anticipation of the rain. Reports indicated they were under control.

A camp fire which spread and burned about five acres of old slash at Beavertail Lake near Camp Eight, Elk River Timber Company, was brought under control and extinguished Saturday morning by foresters. It brought to four the number of fires started this week by careless hunters in the Sayward area. Fortunately no damage has been done.

The gale reached a velocity of 42 miles per hour in some parts of the district. On Friday night the wind was clocked at 65 miles per hour at the Forest Lookout on Menzies Mountain.

A power failure due to the storm kept linemen out most of Friday night. Service was restored shortly after daybreak Saturday.

Purchase Business

PORT ALBERNI, Sept. 23—Edward Myers and Ralph Holland, both of Victoria, have purchased the garage business of Frank Wauthier on Argyle Street. Mr Wauthier will remain with the company as sales manager.

Apply for Leases

COURTENAY, Sept. 23—Samuel D. McLeod has applied for a foreshore lease at the mouth of Courtenay River where he intends to establish a log booming ground. Percy T. Hyatt, Mrs. Joyce Hyatt and Charles C. Lacon have applied for a lease at Denman Island with the intention of cultivating oysters.

Arranges Visit To Port Area

PORT ALBERNI, Sept 23—J. H Van Slyke, representative of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, will visit Port Alberni next Tuesday. Veterans who have problems they wish to discuss with Mr. Van Slyke have been requested to get in touch with C. P. Leslie, local veterans' officer.

Weather Forecasts

East Coast of Vancouver Island—Cloudy and cooler with a few showers. Winds southeast 20 in the straits, otherwise light.

West Coast of Vancouver Island—Cloudy, little change in temperature. Winds southwest 15. Outlook for Monday, rain.

Film Council at Nanaimo Requires New Equipment

NANAIMO, Sept. 23.—Constable N. J. Stephen, R.C.M.P., was named president of the Nanaimo and District Film Council at the annual meeting. He succeeds Alan Burdock.

Mrs. J. Wilson, who had been film custodian, was chosen secretary-treasurer, succeeding George F. Wilson, who became an executive member.

Capt. Leslie Titcomb of the Salvation Army was elected film custodian. Members of the executive are Miss Dorothy Raye of Nanoose Community Club; Neil Darough, Brechin P.-T.A.; Edward Barshy, Nanaimo Fish and Game Association; H. Pidherney, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and George F. Wilson.

Objective of the council will be the raising of funds to purchase a second projector. Adequate equipment is required to meet the ever-increasing demand in this district for film showings. During the past year, more than 13,000 persons attended Film Council shows.

"Factory Ship" Leaves England On Maiden Voyage After Fish

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

By RAY WORMALD

The 810-ton Princess Elizabeth—claimed to be the world's most up-to-date steam trawler—has left Hull, England, on her maiden voyage, according to a report received here from the United Kingdom Information Service.

Half factory and half fishing vessel, the ship will be able to convert ten tons of fish offal into fish meal at the rate of 2½ tons per day. She is the only trawler in the world fitted with a factory plant of this capacity.

The 180-foot vessel is equipped with radar, wireless telegraphy, direction-finding units, echo finders, inter-communication and loud-hailer equipment. Her fuel tank capacity of 300 tons will allow her to make exceptionally long voyages without interruptions for refueling. Food for crew members is stored under refrigeration.

A cod liver oil extraction plant in the aft portion of the ship is to be operated by the crew during the voyage, the processed cod livers being sent aft in a steam pressure delivery pipe instead of being carried over heaving decks in baskets.

The ship can be quickly reconverted to an ordinary vessel in which case she will store her catch as quick-frozen fillets.

Builders of the Princess Elizabeth—Cook, Welton & Gemmell—have just delivered to Belgium a similar vessel of 600 tons, also fitted with a cod liver oil extraction plant.

EMPRESS PASSENGERS

Mrs. George Drew, wife of the leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, and her father, Edward Johnson of Guelph, Ont., former director of the Metropolitan Opera, are among the 633 passengers aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, which is due to dock at Montreal early Tuesday night from Liverpool.

FOUR LOST

A fishing boat, bucking a strong ebb tide, capsized in the surf of Siletz Bay Friday, causing the apparent deaths of four persons, according to a report from Taft, Ore.

Another fisherman rescued two other occupants of the 14-foot skiff.

The victims were Mrs. Eileen Hicinbothom, 33, of Depoe Bay; her two sons, Freddy, 8, and Mike, 1, and Don Hicinbothom, 27, her brother-in-law.

W. A. Ferguson, Portland fisherman, rescued the husband and father, Walter Hicinbothom, 36, and Alfred Stuber, 38, Salem, a family friend.

Mrs. Hicinbothom's body was recovered by a Taft constable, who waded into the breakers with a line around his waist.

OCTOPUS THREAT

Octopuses are strangling the fishing industry along Britain's south coast, a report from London says. An invasion of the multi-armed creatures has halted lobster and crab fishing at several points.

Octopuses are fond of crabs and lobsters, and not only eat them but leave the lobster-pots contaminated. Lobsters will not enter a pot touched by an octopus.

Fishermen fear a repetition of a 1900 "plague" when swarms of octopuses visited English Channel sea fronts, but experts say this is not likely.

HIGHER PRICE

B.C. fishermen will get higher prices for Fall chum salmon if the American market holds up until October 1.

William Rigby, spokesman for the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said in Vancouver yesterday the fishing companies agreed Friday night to the increase after a conference with the union and the vessel owners association.

Amount of the price increase is not known, but Rigby said it would be "substantial."

Price to the fishermen since July 5 has been nine cents a pound.

SEEK YOUTH

An R.C.M.P. launch was searching Howe Sound yesterday for some trace of a 19-year-old Vancouver youth whose 12-foot speedboat was found capsized and half-submerged off Point Atkinson late Friday.

Ronald Skipton left Vancouver at 8 p.m. Friday, bound for Twin Islands, near Gambier Island in Howe Sound, about 15 miles north of Vancouver.

Capt. William Hargreaves of the fishing boat Northland found the capsized speedboat just after sunset. The craft was towed into Fisherman's Cove where West Vancouver municipal police found the throttle open and gasoline in the tank.

It was believed that the craft might have been flipped over by choppy waves.

OFFICIAL VISITS

Capt. R. W. MacMurray, managing director of Canadian Pacific Steamships, Montreal, was in the city throughout yesterday to meet with local C.P.R. officials and look over various facilities of the company in the area.

Until 1945, when he assumed his present position, Capt. MacMurray was manager of the C.P.R.'s B.C. Coast Steamship Service — now headed by Capt. O. J. Williams — with headquarters in this city. During his brief visit here, Capt. MacMurray stayed at the Empress Hotel.

UNUSUAL CONVERSION

An unusual conversion job was recently completed on the motor vessel African Queen at the British shipyard of J. S. Doig Ltd. Originally a three-masted sailing ship, she is now a shark factory ship. The conversion job was handled for the Colonial Development Board.

The African Queen is to be used as a parent ship for shark and tunny fishing off the African coast, and has on board ten half-decked launches which will be used for actual fishing operations.

There is a complete canning plant, oil processing plant, and also apparatus for processing shark skins aboard the vessel. Cans required for the canning process will be made on board.

DEADLINE NEARS

All wartime Merchant Navy veterans have been advised that September 30 is the deadline for applications for the vocational training benefits obtained for them by the Canadian Merchant Navy Veterans' Association, according to A. J. Heide, national secretary, Vancouver.

All wartime seamen who have not yet applied for this training are urged to write or wire immediately to the Department of Veterans' Affairs at Vancouver, or get in touch with the Canadian Merchant Navy Veterans' Association at Room 103, 603 West Hastings Street, Vancouver.

The training includes practically any vocation desired, and carries with it a living allowance.

"In view of the fact the Government has not sufficiently advertised the deadline date for the vocational training applications, we ask that readers pass this information along to all known wartime merchant seamen," Mr. Heide stated. "Few days are left for the veterans to apply for these benefits."

AIR FLEET

Pan American World Airways has announced the purchase of a fleet of 18 four-engined, 325-mile-an-hour Douglas DC-6B's at a cost of approximately $21,000,000. Delivery of the fleet is to start early in the Fall of next year.

The new type Douglas DC-6B will take its place in the Pan American fleet."

LIGHT DAMAGED

Mariners are advised that the superstructure and light have been knocked off the top of the Esperanza Inlet gas and whistle buoy. This will be attended to as soon as possible, reports Tom Morrison, local Transport Department agent.

It is also reported that the spar buoy marking the rock in Deep Cove, Saanich Inlet, has been replaced.

NOTTINGHAM, England, Sept. 23 (Reuters).—Egg-short Britons wept today when they read of the exploits of three young boys in an egg warehouse—but the boys just laughed and said they enjoyed every minute of it.

What they had done, a juvenile court here was told, was break into the egg storage rooms and stage a battle, with eggs as ammunition. They worked their way through 11,000 eggs.

The two youngest boys, age nine and eight, were fined £2 each. The oldest boy, 11, who laughed throughout the court hearing, was ordered to a detention home for three weeks.

British housewives are rationed one egg a week.

McCully Gets New Post

Lieut.-Cmdr. R. Phillips To Command Antigonish

Appointment of Lieut.-Cmdr. (P.) Raymond Phillips, R.C.N., 28, of Ottawa, as commanding officer of the Esquimalt-based training frigate H.M.C.S. Antigonish was announced yesterday at naval headquarters, Ottawa.

He succeeds Lieut.-Cmdr. William S. T. McCully, R.C.N., 31, of Kingston and Vancouver, who has been appointed officer-in-charge of the Torpedo Anti-Submarine School at H.M.C.S. Stadacona, Halifax.

Born in Ottawa, Lieut.-Cmdr. Phillips attended schools in the capital and in Victoria, where his father, the late Engineer Captain T. C. Phillips, R.C.N. (retired) was manager of the Dockyard from 1933 to 1936.

For two years he has held appointments on the staff of the chief of naval personnel at naval headquarters. He takes command of the Antigonish September 28.

AUDACIOUS THIEF

CAPETOWN (CP). — While sentries paced below and officers went about their duties, 38-year-old Solomon de Kock climbed to the roof of Cape Command headquarters and stripped it of lead weighing one and a half tons. He was sent to jail for 18 months.

Grandsons Of Rebel In Brigade

Included in the ranks of the Canadian Army Special Force for Korea are two grandsons of a famous rebel.

They are Ignace Riel, and Alex Riel, both of Winnipeg, grandsons of Louis Riel, leader of the insurgents during the Riel Rebellion in Western Canada in 1885.

Ignace in the World War was twice wounded while serving in Northwest Europe with the Royal Winnipeg Rifles. Alex is a veteran of five years' service with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders.

The two men were the first to enlist in the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and now are training at Currie Barracks, Calgary.

View Royal Aims To Finish First

VIEW Royal residents are determined their district will be the first "over the top" in the Community Chest's "Lights On" fund drive, October 2.

Sixty-six View Royalites have volunteered to canvass the district's 360 homes. Mrs. R. L. Ritchie, 289 Kerwood, divisional captain for the area, expects to complete the canvass 20 minutes after the 7 p.m. "Lights On" signal.

Man Hangs Self With Tie In City Jail After Arrest

A 32-year-old man, arrested at 12 40 a.m. yesterday on a charge of being drunk in a public place, hanged himself with a necktie about two hours later in a city jail cell.

Dead is Frank Douglas Smith, formerly of Vancouver and Winnipeg.

An inquest will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Sands Mortuary. An autopsy also will be performed.

Deputy Police Chief Henry Mercer said Smith was arrested on Fisgard Street and booked on the drunk charge. At 1:15 a.m.—35 minutes after his arrest—Smith started to create a disturbance in his cell by shouting, the deputy chief related. He was quietened down by a policeman.

HEARD NOISE

At 2 a.m., Constable Keith Hollett, making a check of the jail, saw Smith apparently sleeping. At 2:20 a.m., hearing a noise inside the jail block, the constable returned and found Smith hanging from his cell door by his necktie.

Constable Hollett and Sgt. Alex Nichol applied artificial respiration until the arrival of a fire department inhalator. At 3 a.m., Smith was pronounced dead by Dr. E. L. McNiven.

Smith was arrested by Constable John Surdyny.

He came to Victoria from Vancouver with his wife only Friday. Smith was born in Winnipeg. Next of kin have been notified.

More than 20 years ago a Chinese committed suicide in the city jail by using his belt to hang himself.

"Wanted: Farmer, age 38, wishes to meet woman around 30 who owns a tractor. Please enclose picture of tractor. Write Box 10, care of this paper."

'MUMS

IN THE GARDEN

These columns I've written in the thousand sums, a few bring hoorays, the rest ho-hums. So here's one more that won't go places, or hold U spellbound with egg on your faces. But it is today, the best I can do . . . I'll go on, if it's alright with you? Well,—as I've said before in this spot, as a gardener I'm not so hot. Nothing I do is ever proper, I cover the waterfront like a grasshopper. A spot of weeding I start to do, then I reach for an apple & start to chew. And speaking of apples, well good cuffin' gosh, if we just had some pork, we'd sure have some sauce. More apples out here, than I've ever seen, with my choice the dribbly Gravenstein. As I molar the juice, I recline on the barrow, then I get the hose and water the marrow. And so find myself across the lot, where of course I get another thot. That if the blackberries I don't pluck, for Winter jelly, we'll be outa luck. So up to the kit-to-chin a pot, but on the way a thistle I swat. Then to stoop down to extract the root, while all the while I chew on the fruit. So . . . in stopping these flying seeds, I never get back, to those other weeds. And so our place I gotta confess, is usually in one heluva mess. The meat of this story is quite nice, but first a "commercial" I gotta slice. I'll just squeeze in a tiny dab, 'tho I really should cut quite a slab. 'Cause with Quaker heaters, real heat you'll gain, & ride thru Winter on the gravy train. But back to our story 'cause order has come, to each snapdragon & chrysanthemum. A gardener I simply marvel on, has started digging up our lawn. Not slap-happy, the way I do, & as I watched the first preview: I could see, as the stones deleted, no other job till this one completed. It's a wonderful feeling when I come home, to see this topsy-turvy loam. That I haven't sweated I can't realise, I stand right still & rub my eyes. But the best part of all, & why my eyes shine, this gardener doesn't cost a dime. Just room & board, that is all, so in the sunroom we found a stall. This isn't a joke, it's Utopia, this visit of my gardening mother-in-law. I hope her visit goes right on, it couldn't happen to a nicer lawn.

"Panelec" RADIANT ELECTRIC HEAT
FOR ONE ROOM OR EVERY ROOM
A Simple Decorative Panel
LOW OPERATING COST
For the average home of 1,000 sq. ft. the cost would be about $100 to $160 per year which is comparable to cost of any other fuel. The savings in construction depreciation and servicing costs mean that Panelec often costs less than other systems.
Such as illustrated in the under-window installation is all that is seen of this most modern of all heating systems. For one "Hard-to-Heat" room it is ideal. In new construction it is placed behind walls or ceilings. Clean, silent, carefree, out-of-sight heating that does away with every objection and inconvenience of all other systems. Ask for illustrated folder, but you must ACT NOW for service this Winter.

WOULD Amm-i-dent HAVE HELPED?

HERE'S NEW HOPE AGAINST TOOTH DECAY
Millions have changed to Ammoniated toothpaste since clinical tests started

Will Amm-i-dent save your children pain and grief?
Surely you want to do everything in your power to help your children have healthier teeth.
You can help. Scientific clinical tests show really promising results from the use of Amm-i-dent Toothpaste. The proof is piling up month after month, that Amm-i-dent may be reducing the number of new tooth cavities with its action in the mouth.
Children love the clean, pleasant flavor of Amm-i-dent—so will you! And you, too, can look forward to fewer new cavities when you use Amm-i-dent regularly.

Here is Amm-i-dent Proof!
1. *Sworn dental records of cavity reduction! In rigid, scientific 3-year test with hundreds of men, women and children, sworn dental records show definite reduction in number of new cavities.
2. Dental journals publish proof! Only the Amm-i-dent formula can show proof, published in leading dental journals, that people using Amm-i-dent in the test had a reduction in the number of new cavities.
3. 1949 users report beneficial results! Letters on file from 1949 Amm-i-dent users, after last dental check-up, add to the record of proof that Amm-i-dent continues to be responsible for reducing the number of new cavities.
*NOTARY PUBLIC'S STATEMENT: "I have seen the actual dentist's records and the dentist's sworn statement of the cavity reduction in each case."
Notary Public, State of New York Evelyn A. Rowan

4 out of 5 Users in Three-Year Test Shown Definitely to Have Fewer New Cavities Yearly
If you are using a cosmetic type of toothpaste—shouldn't you try an ammoniated dentifrice? . . . give yourself the chance of having fewer new cavities . . . as well as brighter teeth . . . use Amm-i-dent.
Here it is — Amm-i-dent Toothpaste, the first genuine ammoniated toothpaste, made from the famous Amm-i-dent Tooth Powder formula. Now clinical tests show that it is probable that you and your children can help prevent tooth cavities every time you brush your teeth — with this delightful toothpaste.
How Amm-i-dent Works
Carbamide and Dibasic Ammonium Phosphate are the two active ingredients in the Amm-i-dent formula used in the clinical tests. They have been found to change those mouth conditions which are present in cases of tooth decay.
Amm-i-dent has more experience with anti-decay research than any other toothpaste manufacturer. Remember—this fine toothpaste is backed by the makers of Amm-i-dent Tooth Powder, one of the world's largest-selling tooth powders. That's why Amm-i-dent was able to bring you the first ammoniated tooth powder, and now, the first genuine ammoniated toothpaste from that formula.
You Should Try It
Maybe you're among those who want this protection for your family, but have been waiting for an ammoniated tooth*paste*. Maybe you're now using ammoniated tooth powder, but prefer paste. Either way, there's no reason to delay. Get genuine Amm-i-dent ammoniated toothpaste, today, for the whole family!
Amm-i-dent statements are based on 3 year clinical tests. Amm-i-dent research is continuing on an even broader basis.
Many Amm-i-dent Benefits
You'll be delighted with the sparkling smile Amm-i-dent gives you. It cuts through film and food deposits — leaves your teeth bright and clean! Your mouth will feel cleaner — look cleaner.
Kiss with confidence, when you've brushed your teeth with Amm-i-dent. Amm-i-dent's powerful cleansing action strikes at important causes of bad breath — keeps you "nice-to-be-near".
People who have tried it say, "My mouth never felt so clean!" It's a grand "wake-up" toothpaste; refreshing, invigorating, delightful to taste — and you can rinse after using without destroying the ammoniated effect.
Amm-i-dent and your dentist
Although Amm-i-dent's ammoniated formula gives promise of reducing tooth decay, no dentifrice can take the place of the professional help of your dentist.
Regular visits to your dentist are necessary for complete dental health. Make sure that you have these essential check-ups.

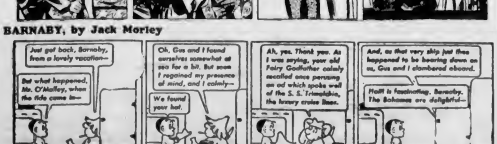
BARNABY, by Jack Morley



Just got back, Barnaby, from a lovely vacation—
But what happened, Mr. O'Malley, when the tide came in—
Oh, Gus and I found ourselves somewhat at sea for a bit. But soon I regained my presence of mind, and I calmly—
We found your hat.
Ah, yes. Thank you. As I was saying, your old Fairy Godfather calmly recalled once perusing an ad which spoke well of the S. S. Trimalchio, the luxury cruise lines.
And, as that very ship just then happened to be bearing down on us, Gus and I clambered aboard.
Haiti is fascinating, Barnaby. The Bahamas are delightful—

DO YOU HATE
GOING THROUGH
'CHANGE of LIFE'?

So many women between the ages of 38 and 52 have good reason to hate 'change of life'—the time when fertility ebbs away—when embarrassing symptoms of this nature may betray your age!

If this functional period makes you suffer from hot flushes or makes you feel so weak, nervous, restless, hard to live and work with—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Women by the thousands have reported gratifying benefits. No other medicine of this type for women has such a long record of success.

Discarded Loot Found by Child

Loot discarded by Victoria's long-armed burglar has been found by a youngster in a vacant lot at the intersection of Linden and Rockland Avenues.

Contents of two purses, minus money, were found and turned over to the owners, Mrs. M. S. Cooper, 152 Wellington Street, and Mrs. H. A. Kepner, 2532 Belmont Avenue. These were two of three purses stolen from the home of Bernie Nicholl, 1186 View Street, September 9. The thief used a grass rake to reach into a bedroom window and hook the purses.

The thief is believed to make use of a long pole in order to hook purses lying on beds while the owners are in another part of the house.

TOO LATE

B.C. Telephone Company called police early yesterday morning to say a call had been received for an ambulance from a Shakespeare Street address. On attending policemen found they were too late—the baby was born.

The mother and child were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital accompanied by a doctor.

REPORT THEFTS

Two motorists reported thefts from their cars while parked in the vicinity of the Memorial Arena Friday night J. Woolcock, Jr., 880 St. Patrick Street, said an aerial was stolen from his car, and Frank Webb, 890 Woolaston Street, reported the theft of four hub caps.

The OLD MASTER PAINTER says...

FALL'S THE TIME FOR OUTSIDE PAINTING!

The weather's settled in Fall, that's why. The wood has had all Summer to dry out and the stage is set for a first-class paint job. You see, it's moisture in the wood that causes so many paint failures—especially in new houses where the wood is not properly seasoned or the inside plaster dry. Let your new house stand a month or two before painting. If you paint before all moisture has dried, the moisture pushes its way out behind the paint, pushing the paint off with it.

A good first coater is most important. You can't do a good paint job over a poor foundation. Remove all old damaged paint, repair leaks and cracks before you start.

It's your house. Paint it right!

For larger jobs, call a paint contractor!

Two Talented Young Instrumentalists Join Symphony for Biggest Season

THE ENTERTAINMENT WORLD

Victoria's young symphony orchestra is getting younger all the time.

Hans Gruber, its youthful conductor, last week announced the appointment of 29-year-old Clifford Evens as concertmaster.

Evens is one of two top instrumentalists who have left the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra to come to Victoria. The other is Smythe Humphreys, new first violist.

NATIVE OF VANCOUVER

Evens, a native of Vancouver, is rated as one of Canada's leading violin soloists. He joined the Vancouver Symphony when he was 15, and has done considerable solo work under Jacques Singer.

He studied the specific duties of a concertmaster under the direction of Joseph Gingold, concertmaster of the Cleveland Symphony, considered by Mr Gruber to be one of the four best orchestras in America.

Humphreys was born in England and studied stringed instruments at the Royal Academy. He has held the solo viola chair with the Vancouver orchestra.

SET FOR BIGGEST SEASON

With the two string positions filled, the Victoria Symphony is set for its biggest season. This year the group will present eight concerts, instead of its usual six, and has scheduled some outstanding guest performances.

The program for the season is as follows:

October 4—Victoria Symphony Orchestra and Gertrude Huntly-Green playing Mozart's Concerto in E-Flat Major (K-482), for piano and orchestra, and Cesar Franck's Symphonic Variations.

October 30—Victoria Symphony.

November 20—Vancouver Symphony.

December 4—Victoria Symphony and Gerhard Kander, brilliant young violinist who has appeared as soloist with the Toronto and San Francisco orchestras and in New York recitals.

January 15—Victoria Symphony and Marian Grudeff, 22-year-old pianist (called "the greatest pianist in Canada") playing Rachmaninoff's Second Concerto in C-Minor.

February 5—Victoria Symphony.

February 26—Victoria Symphony and massed mixed chorus with four vocal soloists in a special performence of Mozart's "Requiem Mass" in commemmoration of the 160th anniversary of the composer's death.

March 12—Victoria Symphony.

Tickets for the season go on sale tomorrow, the beginning of Symphony Week. And this year concert-goers will get a bargain—in spite of the increase in the number of concerts, ticket prices have been held almost to last year's level.

TO FINISH OFF "IRENE"

With the expressed intention of "making Huddy Leadbetter sorry he ever wrote it," a group of Victoria teen-agers this week will tear apart that masterpiece of monotony "Good-night Irene."

After 12 weeks on the Hit Parade, the kids are beginning to tire of "Irene." They'll do their best to kill her off Friday and Saturday, when they appear in the Victoria Teen Productions show at the Lions Club Carnival.

FIVE TIMES NIGHTLY

The 25-minute show will be presented five times each night, and it promises to be quite a production, complete with elaborate costumes, sound effects and props that range from candles to a sarcophagus.

Producer and star of the show is 17-year-old Hugh Curtis. The review has a cast of 15, all teen-agers.

Program includes a "Little Albert" piece by English mimic Tony Gambrill, a tap routine by Marilyn Wilson and Marlene Cummins, a blackface skit, "Li'l Liza Jane," by Bob Toews and Curtis, a tumbling act by Jean Elliot and Nancy Anders, backed by drummer Bill Stirrock, and piano numbers by Ray Petch and Jackie Sawyer.

Diane Clifford and Diana Ricardo will appear in comedy skits with Curtis.

A Gay Nineties dance group includes Clarrisse Knott, Joyce Rooms, Donna Ludlow, Bob Toews and Jim Mooney.

INGENIOUS SETS

Hollywood has come up with a new time-and-money-saving device—"waltzing sets."

For the first time in movie history, the Stanley Kramer studio has made extensive use of sets built on wheels in its current production, "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Designed by Rudolph Sternard, the ingenious sets give moviemakers new mobility, compactness, controlled shooting conditions and near-elimination of distant "locations."

In "Bergerac," a substantial chunk of 17th-century Paris—complete with winding streets, alleys, courtyards and buildings—was shot entirely indoors with an uninterupted rhythm of production.

Director Michael Curtis operated on eight major sets which broke down into 36 separate units.

MASS DUEL SEQUENCE

The movable sets were used to best advantage in a mass duel sequence between Jose Ferrer and 30 swordsmen. The fight started in a city square, continued through narrow streets, over bridges, walls and hills.

After the shot on the square was filmed, one of the narrow streets was formed by pushing some of the mobile buildings from the square into two facing lines. Crew and equipment stayed where they were, but the scene was entirely different.

Incidentally, "Bergerac" used the largest number of stunt men ever to work in a single scene.

The entire roster of 72 Hollywood stunters, along with 206 brawny extras, was thrown into a battle scene between French and Spanish troops in the siege of Arras.

LEAVES FOR TORONTO

Last year the 22-year-old-son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Webster, 257 Superior Street, conducted choir concerts in Massey Hall every fortnight during the concert season.

This year he hopes to have a 35-piece orchestra working with the choir.

He will also be teaching music, theory and practise, and at the end of the season will go to Boston to take a course in conducting at the New England Conservatory.

The Canadian post office delivers an estimated 2,400,000,000 pieces of mail annually.

Retired Police Commissioner Receives Silver Tray

At a special dinner in his honor, Roger Peachey, M.C. (left), recently retired commissioner of the now dissolved B.C. Police, receives a silver tray from Cecil Clark, ex-deputy commissioner. Tray was given by former members of B.C. Police who served under Mr. Peachey. Many of the guests are now members of the R.C.M.P. Both Mr. Peachey and Mr. Clark were retired upon dissolution of the 92-year-old B.C. Police. The banquet was held Friday night at the Pacific Club.

Tooth of Ancient Beast Unearthed in Gravel Pit

The tooth of a prehistoric mammoth was discovered in the Cordova Bay gravel pit yesterday.

It is believed to be the molar of the hairy elephant which existed on this continent several thousand years ago.

The tooth weighing several pounds and measuring about ten inches long and five inches thick, was turned over to the Provincial Museum.

Discoveries of this kind are considered rare on Vancouver Island.

"We have found remains of mastodons but have discovered few bones of mammoths," said Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the museum, yesterday.

The mammoth was the only elephant that adapted itself to the cold climate.

Dr. Carl said that in his opinion, the bones were carried in the ice-field during the glacial period and deposited at Cordova Bay when the ice melted.

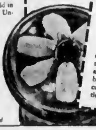
Pear and Cherry Mould

- 1 package Cherry Jell-O
- 2 cups hot water (or water and syrup from fruit)
- 1 cup drained canned pitted red cherries
- 1 cup balls of canned pear, or fresh cantaloupe in season

Dissolve Jell-O in hot liquid. Chill until slightly thickened, then fold in fruits. Chill in fancy mould. Unmould and garnish with pear or cantaloupe, which has been cut in balls with a ball cutter. Makes 6 to 8 servings.



Simple—But So Effective

Lime Gaiety

A really showy way to end a meal on a high note! Prepare Lime Jell-O as directed on package—but increase water to 2¼ cups, to make it set a little more softly than usual.

Chill in dessert glasses. At serving time centre each dessert with a maraschino cherry and surround the cherry with marshmallows cut into eighths.

To Cover New Tax

New Liquor Price List To Be Submitted Soon

Liquor Commissioner W. F. Kennedy is expected to submit a new price list on hard liquor to the Provincial Cabinet for approval next week.

The increase will be made to take care of the new defence budget excise tax.

The price of beer is expected to take a jump following the announcement of price hikes in the cost of hard liquor.

Mr. Kennedy said yesterday that he hasn't considered the beer question yet and won't until the hard liquor increase is settled.

NO INDICATION

"I can't give any indication of what the new prices will be because we haven't got them worked out yet," he said.

He would not confirm reports that the price increase would go into effect October 5.

He said that, in addition to the $1 per proof gallon excise tax recently announced, there was another eight cents on the dollar for Federal sales tax which had to be considered in assessing the new prices.

Some distillers were increasing the price of their brands of liquor, he said.

This does not include the additional 5 per cent B.C. sales tax.

Mr. Kennedy indicated that brewers might raise their price on beer because they are now paying twice as much for malt as in previous years.

"I haven't had any discussions with them yet, though," he said.

IT'S A BUSY TIME in the Village of Lillooet when the tomatoes start coming [illegible] the ton Here [illegible] sorting tomatoes for the cannery

The Village of Lillooet

By LES RIMES

AT the end of the main street in progressive little Lillooet a cairn marks "Mile 0" of the famed Cariboo Road which was built by Her Majesty's Royal Engineers and civilian laborers nearly a hundred years ago. The job was done by pick and shovel and black powder a far cry from the modern mechanical methods. But part of the road is still in use today

In those days Lillooet crowded in a population of 15,000. Gold was the catalyst Only one other town on the Pacific Coast was of more importance That was the city of San Francisco

MODERN VILLAGE

Today the population is less than 1,000 But the village which hugs the banks of the Fraser River is modern, progressive, and is growing in fact. Board of Trade President Jim McKinney is plenty worried over the plight of nearly a hundred householders who are without piped water The town is outgrowing its bounds—and its water system

While mining in the Bridge River area still helps the prosperity of the town, today's bonanza comes from the earth in the form of tomatoes and other vegetables and fruits

The vast, fertile valley surrounding Lillooet has the longest frost-free period in the interior of the province and the warm Summers and the long dry spells make for a bountiful harvest Pat Keen, who manages a cannery down by the P G E station, told me that the Lillooet tomatoes are the best in the province, and other crops rank high in the prize lists.

Arthur Phair who has been in Lillooet since the pioneer days, has a little garden behind his shack where he experiments with out-of-the-ordinary crops like castor oil plants, peanuts, miniature yellow tomatoes, various types of melons and the like All show a prolific growth.

I came in over the Pavilion Mountain Road which cuts off from the main Cariboo Highway at Hat Creek As far as Pavilion Lake the road winds through pine forests Beyond Pavilion Lake the countryside becomes open rolling country grazing cattle, growing corn, tomatoes and fruit

, Pavilion Lake, like Kalamalka Lake near Vernon, is a vivid blue color, and a vacation hotel which skirts the road advertises the area as "The Land of the Sky Blue Waters"

Across the river from the town Marten Chenault has a farm He was digging into a bank on his property to make himself a root house where he could store his Winter vegetables.

He got in about 20 feet and it became so cold that he had to hunt up his woolen mittens and ear muffs Digging a little farther he felt so cold he had to give up A few days later he looked in his root house and found it thick with ice

The hotter the weather becomes the more ice forms in his root house For a time he was selling his ice to his neighbors Now he keeps the cave as a tourist attraction

I heard several explanations about condensation and air vents, but nobody seems to know for sure what has made Marten Chenault's root house a deep-freeze unit

TYPICAL PIONEER

Mr Phair who has the little experimental garden, knows most of the history of the early days. It's a pretty colorful history But he is a colorful character himself He used to own a store on the main street before a fire wiped out that section of the town

Arthur is one of those inveterate collectors. One of his collections consists of butterflies I'm told that he thought nothing of running out on a store full of eager customers whenever he saw a colorful butterfly flit past his windows

Now he spends a lot of his time dabbling in photography and has some mighty good shots of fish caught in the nearby fishing spots, bears, mountain goat and mountain sheep, as well as scenic pictures he has made up into post cards His darkroom occupies most of the shack he has been occupying since he was burnt out Sometimes the photography equipment has to share quarters with a corpse for he is also coroner

Despite the romance of the past, Lillooet keeps abreast the times with clean, new stores and modern homes The new high school is small, but one of the most modern in the province The new department stores and an up-to-the-minute coffee shop have built up on the site of the fire The old hotel has been refurbished

LOG THEATRE

About the oldest building in town is the Log Cabin Theatre a hewn log affair lined inside with building paper The building is about 30 feet wide and 80 feet long benches occupying the auditorium But the shows are first rate, and the acoustics better than the acoustics in many modern city theatres

The show is owned and operated by the Canadian Legion They're making money for other civic betterment and at the same time are filling a need for entertainment, especially during the Winter evenings when there's little else to do but sit by the pot-bellied heater and listen to the radio

I spent less than a full day in Lillooet But in that short time I had fallen in love with the little village There's an air of friendliness about it, and although somewhat somnolent in outlook there's still a paradoxical progressiveness

One of the reasons that so little is heard about the town along the tourist front is that the roads into the village leave plenty of room for improvement But when the town gets its long-sought-for road it'll be a good spot for visitors to the Mainland to visit.

For you haven't seen British Columbia until you've seen Lillooet.

ROME.—Seven years after Italian and British naval guns fired their last salvoes at each other in combat, the two fleets have been united in defence of the Mediterranean.

The Italian Navy, pride of the country's armed forces, is stripped of its one-time glory as a ranking sea power. Nevertheless, Italy's highly-trained men have taken to working with British sailors as if it were a habit of years.

It was on September 8 1943, that the Italian fleet sailed to Malta to surrender to the British. In August of this year, the commander of the British Mediterranean Fleet, Admiral Sir John Edelstain, put into an Italian harbor.

A few days later the Italian naval chief of staff, Admiral Romeo Oliva, sailed into Malta aboard his flagship Andrea Doria. British and Italian guns boomed again This time it was in friendly salute as joint Italo-British naval manoeuvres began to test Mediterranean Sea defences and train Italy in the role she will play as a full partner in the Atlantic Pact

EXERCISES CONTINUE

The joint naval-air manoeuvers ended but special British and Italian fleet units are continuing exercises aimed at protecting convoys and keeping the Italian coastline free from amphibious attacks

Italy is limited to a navy of 67,500 tons. She cannot possess aircraft carriers, submarines, new torpedo boats or landing craft under the terms of the peace treaty She has only two 25-year-old battleships, the Andrea Doria and Caio Duilio, five cruisers, four destroyers, 16 old torpedo boats and 19 corvettes in her fighting forces, plus 36 minesweepers eight patrol boats and 73 auxiliaries fuel ships, tugs, etc.

Canada's "Main John"

AMONG the strongest, bravest and most picturesque people in Canada are the lumberjacks who spend their Winters in the forests chopping down trees and in the Spring "drive" the logs down the streams to the lumber mills and the paper mills

During long Winter evenings when the lumberjacks sit around the hot stove in their log cabins they often talk of the great lumberjacks of long ago Sometimes they mention the chief man in their crew and refer to him as the "Main John" They may not know it but when they call their leader by that name they are paying tribute to a New Brunswick lumber king who first earned the title more than a hundred years ago

In the early logging days in New Brunswick a bald-headed man with a bushy wig a stovepipe hat and a long hooked nose, was Canada's best known logger His name was John Glasier, and his men all called him the "Main John"

When he was 16 John Glasier had typhoid fever When he recovered he was bald He bought a bushy black wig which he never removed and to hold it in place he wore a stovepipe hat, even when he was tramping through the woods or driving logs on the river

"Main John's" adventures in the woods were many and hundreds of stories are told about him today Here is just one of the tales for which he is famous. One year when "Main John" and his woodsmen were logging near Grand Falls on the St John River lumbermen down in Maine in the United States stopped the water from flowing in Canada by building a dam This made it impossible for the Canadian woodsmen to drive their logs

Glasier called his men together and asked them how they would like to be soldiers for a change They said they would like it, so he lined them up, a regiment in hob-nailed boots and mackinaw shirts, armed with axes and pevees which are the long hooks lumbermen use to pull logs in the water

Then with a general in a stovepipe hat at their head, the lumberjacks army began to march

Wherever they met American lumberjacks "Main John's" army fought them, and wherever they fought they won John Glasier himself was always in the midst of the fight, picking the biggest opponent he could find and never even having his hat knocked from his head At last the lumberjack army reached the Allagash River where the dam had been built There they met a great many more lumbermen but they defeated them too and then used their axes and peevees to pull down the dam The water rushed across the border into Canada and John Glasier was able to return and drive out his logs

"STAMP PACKET" by R. M. ANGUS

APART from the Dominions, it is safe to say that the most popular group of Colonial stamps is that of the West Indies It embraces a large number of the islands, some of which like Bermuda, have issued stamps for a very limited period, and which were surcharged on the stamps of the Leeward Islands Turks Island also issued its own stamps for some years but was eventually designated "Turks and Caicos Islands"

Jamaica is one of the most popular of the Indies and it therefore came as a surprise to the writer (and probably other philatelists) to see that Ripley in "Believe It or Not" gives mention to the statement (since verified) that the coat of arms design used on Jamaican stamps for several years prior to the issue of pictorials is the coat of arms of Oliver Cromwell It has remained the official crest of Jamaica for 295 years by reason of the fact that he made the Island part of the British Empire

Although we have seen many fine specialized and well-annotated collections of this popular Colony we have never seen this explanation before, nor is it mentioned in any of the standard catalogues. The coat of arms bears the motto "Indus Uterque Serviet uni" and provides one interesting error or, more properly minor variety which most catalogues recognize Possibly a tool fell on the plate but in some way, in one stamp in the same position on each sheet of the first issue of this set, the word "Serviet" reads "Serliet" the letter V having become mutilated

Up to the time of issue of this coat of arms set, all Jamaican stamps had borne the head of Queen Victoria. There was only one Edwardian stamp issued the 2-pence grey The Victoria issue had three different watermarks in succession The first had a pineapple second single Crown C A and the third the multiple Crown C A., and of these three sets the 1-shilling value presents us with another rare and interesting variety Again in one position of the sheet a single stamp has the word "Shilling" spelled "$hilling" This is so distinctly a dollar sign that it is hard to imagine it to have been caused by any plate scratch from a falling tool Moreover this error was never recut and may be found in all three watermarks of the one-shilling value Scott catalogue only mentions these in a footnote Gibbons, Lowe, and others give this error a place in the sun, cataloguing it at from £10 to £15 accordingly to which watermark it bears Jamaica is also popular for its cancellation both numerals (allocated to each town) in the early issues, and for quaint town names in the latter issues.

Checking Up on Accidents

Keeping Records On Roads of B.C.

By FRED McNEIL

Day by day in British Columbia a complicated mechanism is at work to thwart the greatest killer of modern times—the motor car It's a new type of preventive medicine and statistics show it pays off handsomely.

This province takes second place to no other area in the fight against death and dismemberment.

Year by year the number of cars on British Columbia roads has increased, but the rate of death and injury has steadily dropped

In 1949, for example, number of cars increased by 13 per cent, while accidents increased by only 5.5 per cent. Accidents involving injury actually dropped 1 12 per cent and those bringing death by 1 80 per cent.

That's been the story year by year during the past few years.

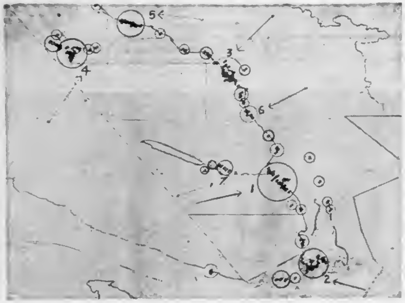
It's the result of co-operation by a number of agencies. Most important is the ceaseless question after the "why" of every accident.

ALL RECORDED

In British Columbia's Motor Vehical Branch and in the Traffic Branch of the R.C.M.P., every accident is carefully recorded and analysed. On a big map covering an entire wall goes a pin for every case of death and injury. Into a file goes a complete summary.

When the black and gold dots begin to accumulate at some particular spot, the Traffic Branch goes into action.

At Cache Creek on the Cariboo Road last year there were 17 accidents—one fatality and one serious injury. A report was sent to the local constable, traffic officers and public works men looked over the road.



THIS PICTURE DEMONSTRATES the R.C.M.P. traffic branch method of plotting accidents which result in death or injury. By this means the branch finds the trouble spots. (1) Duncan area, long a trouble spot with narrow roads as the cause. (2) Entry roads into Victoria—narrow and winding. (3) Nanaimo. (4) Alberni. (5) Qualicum. (6) Ladysmith. (7) Shawnigan.

Action: New warning signs and "cat's eye" marker posts to lead cars around a curve.

ROAD PROBLEMS

Not all traffic problems are so simple. Undeniably, statistics show the better the highway, the more motorists try to kill themselves. The four-lane King George Highway is studded with gold pins indicating deaths. The Hope-Princeton, best engineered and most modern road in the province, has seen nine accidents involving death and injury this year

The answer to this situation lies first of all in speed. Inevitably, it seems, good roads bring excessive speeds and accidents at high speed bring death. Sometimes simple inattention is added to speed to bring disaster Many a motorist who liked his scenic beauty at 60 miles an hour is no longer around to enjoy it.

With appalling frequency "been drinking" shows up. And areas with beer parlors near the highway bring their quota of dots on the map

Bad roads may bring more accidents, but they're usually minor, limited to car damage. On the Fraser Canyon, one of the trickiest roads in the province, there hasn't been a single major accident this year.

In cutting down the toll, the three "E's"—education, engineering, enforcement—provide a basic approach. The first is education. Schools and, strangely enough, churches play an important part.

THE PEDESTRIAN

Take deaths to pedestrians Roughly one of four persons killed is on foot Mainly they're the very young or the very old Education in schools, organization of safety patrols has cut the death toll among children. Among adults most pedestrian deaths occur to those over 60 And most people over 60, it seems, go to church So traffic officers have found a warning in churches saves lives.

Proper engineering of roads, of course, is vital and represents a continuous struggle toward perfection. But it requires time For immediate action, for cutting the toll on well-designed roads, the answer is traffic enforcement. Especially "selective enforcement," which means giving attention where statistics point a deadly finger.

Removing accidents is a complicated business, but the statistical approach adopted in British Columbia is paying off

TAXIS

London taxis are famous the world over for their antique although convenient shape, and even Londoners joke wryly about them. But some efforts have been made now to introduce a modern note without losing the curious high, box shape necessary for sharp turns in narrow streets Wherefore some ardent traditionalist has written The Times of London "I am appalled to see our cabs being replaced by these 'new-look' models

Sitting on the Fence

By Nathaniel Gubbins

A worried girl writes to a woman columnist —

"I am 21 and was quite happy at my work until the manager made advances to me. For some time I evaded them, but now he has changed his lunch hour to be alone in the office with me. He is married and over 40 How can I discourage him?"

If you care to chance your arm on the sack, dear, you could try this method.

ALONE at last Aren't we lucky?

We?

Well, I am then. But you may be lucky too. I don't suppose you'd say no to a fur coat this Autumn?

I always say no to fur coats Not only do I consider them vulgar, but they are also obtained by torturing animals in traps.

Oh, come off it, sweetheart.

And it's no good offering me a diamond ring, either. Jewels are also worn mainly by the rich and vulgar. Gold and diamonds are obtained by slave Negro labor in South Africa.

* * *

Well, well Quite a little Red, aren't you?

Nor will I accept a champagne dinner Alcohol not only befuddles the brain and distorts the mind; it weakens the will to resist evil. Moreover, I consider it immoral to eat more than one requires at a high cost, while millions go hungry in Asia. Shall I sit on your knee?

Why, of course, sweetheart. You don't have to ask.

I asked because most men of your age have rheumatism Are you very old?

Me? No They say the middle forties is the prime of life

* * *

I expect it's your muddy, purplish complexion and large stomach which gives one the impression of senility, though I suppose your appearance is largely due to over-indulgence. Is your wife hideous too?

You can leave my wife out of this.

Little fat men like you always marry hideous women and spend the rest of their lives pestering youth and beauty. Am I hurting your knee?

You couldn't hurt me, beautiful. I say, let's talk about something nice I've got a proposition to make to you.

And I have a proposition to make to you Will you marry me?

You know I can't do that, sweetheart. There's my wife.

You can poison her.

* * *

Really, sweetheart, you're joking

No, I'm not. You want love. I want money Don't let individuals stand in the way of mutual happiness Are you rich?

Oh, cut it out.

When you have disposed of your wife you can make a new will in my favour. Then I will marry you.

Thanks for nothing

But you are too unhealthy to live long. I shall soon be a happy and contented widow. Shall we finish those letters we started this morning?

HOME DOCTOR

Mrs. Maureen A. McGuire, of Seattle, U.S., has been granted a divorce because her husband "made her life unbearable by continually psycho-analysing her."

Know why these beans are underdone?

Because I took 'em out of the water too soon, I guess. What else?

Oh, no That's not the real reason The real reason is because when you were a little girl you were jealous of your baby brother.

For cryin' out loud Are you crazy?

No. I'm not crazy. I'm learning you somp'n about psycho-analysis. Think right back to your childhood. Didn't you want to boil your little brother alive?

No, I didn't want to boil my little brother alive. So there

* * *

You don't think so now because you've forgotten. It's a hateful memory buried way back in the sub-conscious.

What the heck's that got to do with underdone beans, anyways?

Because when you were boiling the beans you were symbolically boiling your little brother

Leave my little brother out of this will ya?

At the last moment you had a fit of remorse. So you took the beans out of the water before they were properly boiled. Just as you would have taken your little brother out of the water before he was properly boiled.

Is that so?

It was the same with the burned bacon for breakfast You burned the bacon because you hated your father

Am I supposed to have fried my father alive now?

* * *

Not at all It's not as simple as that.

I'll say it isn't, seein he weighs all of 250 lbs

What happened in your sub-conscious mind this time is that you transferred your hate fixation from your father to me.

That wouldn't be difficult

You thought you were cooking his breakfast, not mine So, until you let me cure you, I shall always have to eat underdone beans and burned bacon.

You certainly will. And what's more, the pot roast for dinner tonight will be burned up, too. It'll be your dear mother I've roasted alive

MAGNETIC MEN

A Mr A. E Rose, writing to The National Funny Morning Newspaper, says that when he was in the Navy it was noticed that his head always swung to the north as he sat in the barber's chair When the captain heard about it he had Mr. Rose slung horizontally from the deckhead The ship was then turned through 360 degrees, and, as Mr. Rose always swung to the north, "the possibilities of a human compass needle became at once apparent to the captain."

"No doubt you will hear more of this scheme" Mr Rose adds "though when suspended in alcohol the human needle is not too accurate"

POPULAR MUSIC

The major record companies have been switching artists so fast recently that hardly anyone, including the singers and band leaders involved, knows who is working for whom these days.

Columbia has just issued its first record of Sammy Kaye's Orchestra, which it grabbed from RCA Victor The top side, "Sugar Sweet," is in the sweet and catchy mood which has pushed Kaye to the top in his class The reverse is a good Hawaiian-style melody, "Harbor Lights"

One of the latest in the record company shifts was the signing by Victor of the opera, musical and movie star Ezio Pinza, who had been a long-time fixture at Columbia.

Victor also has been reported trying to lure the singer Billy Eckstine from M-G-M- Records and Dinah Shore from Columbia.

The Korean war is beginning to be felt in the record industry. RCA Victor has withdrawn its disc of "Old Man Atom" as too similar to the Communist-inspired brand of propaganda calling for outlawing of the atomic bomb The first war tune has hit the market. "The Red We Want Is the Red We've Got in the Old Red, White and Blue," a number in the George M Cohan style One of the best recordings of the song is by Joe (Fingers) Carr for Capitol

Andre Previn, pianist, has a good album of tunes from the M-G-M musical "Three Little Words" His quick-fingered work is fine on the familiar melodies of Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby, "Three Little Words," "Thinking of You," "All Alone Monday" "Who's Sorry Now" "Where Did You Get That Girl" and "Nevertheless" (Victor).

Old Homes and Families

By Jim Nesbitt

THE three women in the crowd of men that January day of 1875 stayed close together.

They were defying convention, they were going to vote for Mayor. They were taxpayers and they considered they had every right to express their choice for the city's highest post.

They knew they would be criticized, and so they were The men wondered what on earth the world was coming to, what with women taking part in public affairs Women of the place said they wished to goodness those three knew a woman's place was in the home, not with a crowd of men in the town square voting for Mayor

One of the three brave souls was Mrs Philip Smith, a widow She had the spirit of adventure in her veins, had roamed far and wide with her parents, and had lived with her husband in Cariboo If she was to be a real pioneer she would take active part in public affairs, and so she talked her two friends into accompanying her Who they were is not known today.

The Colonist commented "Three votes were cast by lady ratepayers"

VOTING FOR MAYOR

The women weren't the only ones who caused a stir that day. The Chinese were out in full force. The Colonist didn't like the situation and reported. "The voting for Mayor . . was conducted with great spirit on both sides. Their tactics were admirable and notwithstanding the severity of the weather, a very large vote was cast. There were the names of 92 Chinese on the list and it was soon apparent that upon the side on which they might vote, victory would result By some hocus pocus, J S Drummond's committee secured the support of the leading Chinese merchants and their peons or apprentices were brought up like sheep in bands of ten or 15 and voted solidly for 'Lummond.' Drummond won by 87 votes.

THE HASTINGS HOME— Observatory Hill" —there were amateur astronomers."

A REAL PIONEER

Mrs Smith went home to her family that day well pleased with herself and her two companions They had asserted their rights, perhaps, they said, women in future would take more part in public affairs.

She was a pioneer of Victoria even then, this determined Mrs. Smith. She had come here in 1858 in the clipper ship Oriole from San Francisco, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs Robert Laysell and her sisters, Lucy and Eliza She was born in Australia in 1846 and in 1850 when she was four, her parents took her to California

When she was 16 she was married to Philip Smith. The Colonist of June 18, 1863, noted this event "Married at Victoria by the Rev. Matthew Macfie of the Congregational Church, Philip Smith, Esq., of Douglas, B.C., to Silvestria Theodora daughter of Mr Laysell of this city"

INTO THE CARIBOO

Mrs Smith immediately went with her husband to Port Douglas. He had a flourishing business, taking miners over the Port Douglas route into the Cariboo gold mines. He had a pack train, hotel, bakery, blacksmith shop and ferries on Seaton and Pemberton Lakes The blasting out of the Fraser Canyon, however, and navigating of the Fraser River by Capt. William Irving (father of Capt John Irving), brought disaster to the Smith enterprises by diverting all travel into the mines via Yale, thus saving lake transportation and portages, which had been the chief obstacle to the Douglas route into the mines.

A few years later Mr Smith went to California and in 1870 he died in San Francisco, leaving his widow three sons and a daughter.

ANOTHER PIONEER

In the early 80's another pioneer came to Victoria to live—a man with the extraordinary name of Oregon Columbus Hastings He had been here years before—as a small boy of six when he sailed into Victoria harbor in his father's schooner. Hastings was born in Illinois and it is said he was the first white child to cross the old Oregon Trail When he was a year old his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hastings, bundled him into a prairie schooner, hauled by oxen, and they set out for the long journey to Portland. Later, the family moved to Port Townsend and lived on a big farm and the senior Hastings was elected to the Washington State Legislature

Oregon Columbus, when he first came to Victoria, went into the photography business and the firm of Spencer and Hastings became well known and many pictures in the Provincial Archives bear their names.

THE WIDOW WEDS

Soon after coming to Victoria Mr. Hastings met the widow Smith and they were wed, as announced in The Colonist October 9, 1884 "Married—Last evening, Mr O. C Hastings of the firm of Spencer and Hastings, Fort Street, was united in marriage to Mrs. S T. Smith The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr Stevens in the presence of a few intimate friends. With them, we offer the happy couple a long life of happiness."

The first home of Mr and Mrs Hastings was on Elizabeth Street, which ran between Cook and Chambers, above Pandora. There the four Smith children were reared and a Hastings daughter, Juanita, was born.

MRS. OREGON C. HASTINGS
—arrived by clipper ship.

In the late 90's Mr. Hastings gave up his photography business and in the Summer months went north to St. Michael's, Alaska, as United States Collector of Customs. In the Winter he studied science, which was his hobby, paying particular attention to astronomy.

FIRST OBSERVATORY

About 1890 he built a fine new home on St. Charles Street, somewhere in the neighborhood where the old water tower is a landmark today. On the rocks he built Victoria's first observatory and it caused a great stir. Hastings called his small estate "Observatory Hill." The house had a tower, from where Mr. Hastings could view ships rounding Race Rocks from sea. Amateur astronomers often went to the Hastings home to study the stars and planets.

Like most of our pioneers, Mr Hastings evidently had his financial ups and downs. For a period at the turn of the century he returned to Port Townsend and opened a photography business. When he came back to Victoria he sold the "Observatory Hill" property and went to live on Herald Street.

There he died in 1912 and The Colonist commented. "He possessed the first astronomical telescope made in this province, built an observatory at his home here and also made a study of microscopic work He was a member of the British Astronomical Association and one of the original members of the Natural History Society of British Columbia, for which he did a great deal, being largely instrumental in paving the way for its subsequent career of usefulness"

Mrs Hastings lived until she was 80 dying in Victoria in 1926.

West Germany Wants Bigger Forces

By WALTER G. RUNDLE

FRANKFURT—West German officials and the average German would like to see a sizeable increase in United States and Western Allied occupation forces in Germany soon

In the interim, they would like to see more of what western forces are here complete with tanks, guns and planes

West German officials admit privately that the greatest possible physical display of United States and Western Allied military force in Germany is needed to boost sagging West German morale

Currently, West Germans are as much of the frame of mind of the little boy left alone in the house at night for the first time, with instructions to telephone the neighbors if he hears any frightening noises.

The Germans are convinced they have heard the noises. What they want is not the assurance that they can call for help after one intruder breaks in but the comforting assurance that one of the neighbors is sitting at the foot of the bed or at least sleeping in the next room

McCLOY APPEALS

U.S High Commissioner John J McCloy is acting as salesman for the German appeal for a buildup of United States forces in Germany McCloy laid the arguments for increasing United States strength here before President Truman recently. He gave no figures, but sources close to the problem here said McCloy hoped to get a commitment to send two to three additional divisions to Germany, as soon as they can be made available, to bolster the two under-strength United States divisions now on German soil

This is far short of the 30 or more divisions the military planners believe must be based in West Europe to discourage or to retain, east of the Elbe any aggressive Soviet move

However, three additional divisions would be enough to neutralise the danger of any Korean-type invasion of West Germany by the East German "peoples police"

It also would be convincing to the average German, United States and German officials believe, of United States determination to make good on promises to guarantee Germany's external security

ANYTHING WOULD HELP

Recognizing the scarcity of trained, combat-ready divisions, German officials say even a few additional divisions brought to Germany for training would be welcome as evidence of growing western strength.

Meanwhile, Germans in high places have hinted broadly that what United States British and French troops are present should be brought out of their isolated and sparsely populated training areas

They would like to see the coming U.S. Army manoeuvers shifted from the remoteness of Grafenwohr, near the Czech border, to areas near major cities where Germans could get a reassuring look at United States tanks, guns and planes. They would like to see United States and British jeeps manoeuvering, in combination with British-based bombers, in the skies over Germany's big cities.

Garden Plants Grow Indoors

If planning to pot and bring indoors such plants as nicotiana, select only those plants which have a leader, as illustrated.

Lift the plants with a ball of earth if you intend to pot them. Do this any time from now on, so the plants can be taken indoors and allowed to accustom themselves to the house atmosphere before doors and windows are closed and the heat turned on. If the plants are not given an opportunity to adjust themselves in the changed conditions, they will most likely suffer a setback and drop their leaves.

For a week after potting nicotiana plants, place them in a cool, dark place and give them plenty of water. After the week's rest the plants can be placed in a window having a sunny exposure. Use large-size pots. As the plants grow larger it may be necessary to stake them.

After potting plants from the garden they should be sprayed for aphids and other insects before being taken indoors. Use a nicotine sulphate or pyrethrum spray.

Often it is the small, thrifty plants which have not made much show in the garden which prove excellent specimens for potting at this time for indoor blooms.

Revive Sheep Industry By Saving Ewe Lambs

CONSUMER costs for choice meats and for woollen goods of all classes are high enough to justify a special urge on behalf of a definite revival of the sheep industry in Canada. Choice roasts of beef sell at prices bordering on the dollar mark — and discriminating buyers always are willing to pay more for lamb than they will for beef. Good fleeces are bringing prices well in advance of recent years—returns that about pay for the yearly keep of the sheep. And yet there are few suppliers of meats that regularly have lamb on hand—and Canadians produce only about 80 per cent of the wool required by Canadian manufacturers.

THE REMEDY

This situation can be remedied in a very few years with profit to those who co-operate in the working out of a solution to the decline of Canada's sheep population. By saving from slaughter the best of the annual crop of ewe lambs our breeding ewes should be doubled in at least three or four years. Even if this action were to result in a more pronounced scarcity of lamb for the table for a year or two it would be well worth while. Farmers and ranchers south of the line last year used foresight—to the disappointment of many in Canada—and bought up most of our ewe lambs as well as thousands of mature ewes that easily could have been placed at home to advantage.

It is too late to talk of a one-year remedy of the situation that reached an alarming peak in 1949 and early this year. Reliable reports indicate that few, if any, sound breeding ewes of quality will be available this Fall. This leaves the salvage of ewe lambs as about the only source from which to strengthen present flocks and establish new ones.

SAVE THE EWES

Those who are interested in restoring Canada's sheep industry should take immediate steps to see that no ewe lambs of quality from the 1950 crop reach the slaughter house. If present owners do not need them to build up their own flocks they should keep them for sale at market prices to neighbors and friends who have been following the trends of recent years with the result that they want to get into the production of lambs and wool. They can at least save the cost of transportation to market by so doing.

Looking to the future those who purchase ewe lambs for the purpose of establishing a flock will be well advised not to breed them this Fall. They will be more productive mothers and will continue to be strong breeding ewes for more years if not bred before they are yearlings. In the meantime the wool clip goes a long way to meeting the outlay entailed in making the start.

Hints for the Gardener

Small dead spots in the lawns at this time of the year are quite likely to be due to chinch bugs. If these insects can be found in or around the dead spots, treat the spots and adjacent areas with finely ground tobacco dust in dry weather, or spray with nicotine sulphate or a pyrethrum extract preparation.

* * *

Stop feeding roses from now on. Otherwise you will be encouraging the growth of soft wood which is apt to kill back during the Winter. Continue spraying or dusting especially for black spot.

* * *

Keep gladiolus plants well watered when they are coming into bud, particularly the primulinus varieties. This will help to prevent them from wilting on hot days.

Red spiders are apt to damage evergreens at this season, particularly if the weather is dry. Sulphur is a good remedy, but a strong stream of water from a hose used several times a day to wash down the evergreens will often keep the pests under control.

* * *

Tomatoes, sweet corn and cabbage should not be cultivated deeply after the plants have begun to grow well. Merely scraping the soil with a scuffle hoe is all that is necessary to keep the weeds down.

* * *

Spray currant bushes with arsenate of lead to kill the currant worms, but after the fruits have begun to form use only pyrethrum or rotenone compounds, both of which are non-poisonous to human beings.

Experimental Farm Notes

Heavy Yields of Bartlett Pears

DURING the past weeks there has been much activity in the harvesting of Bartlett pears. Local growers are enjoying heavy yields of good-grade pears as a reward for their labors in pruning, spraying and general care. Some of the larger Bartlett plantings are at the Experimental Station; J. J. Woods, Sidney; C. E. Jeffery and F. A. Maxwell, Saanichton, and C. F. Moss, Royal Oak. All of these growers ship to the Canadian Canners, Vancouver, and find this a satisfactory market for Bartletts. Cannery prices f.o.b. Victoria per ton are: Grade 1, $130; Grade 2, $100, and Grade 3, $60 (minimum size 2 ins. in diameter). Pears are picked while still hard and with a pressure test of 17-19 pounds. The cannery provides boxes which reduces the cost of handling to the grower. Pears on arrival at Vancouver are placed in storage for three or four weeks at 32 to 35 degrees F. then taken out and ripened ready for canning. Several of the larger trees at the Experimental Station have yielded this season more than 400 pounds of fine marketable fruit, mostly of Grade 1 and 2 size. Cannery requirements are just as exacting in pear grade and condition as those of the fresh fruit trade.

STORING ONIONS

Difficulty in getting onions to store well is a perennial problem with many home gardeners. Most frequently the cause of the trouble is neck rot, a fungus disease which tends to increase in storage and hence bulbs apparently sound in the Fall may go soft at the neck and develop signs of the grey mold characteristic of the disease, thus making them useless for consumption.

Proper handling of the bulbs in the Fall is highly important in insuring good storing ability. While for best results the bulbs should be fully ripened, the tops and outer skins being dry before harvest, it is poor policy to delay harvesting too long, as the advent of wet weather will mean greater danger of infection by disease. Therefore it is customary to start harvesting when about two-thirds of the tops have broken over. Sometimes the remaining tops are broken down and the onions lifted after a few days. They are then partially cured in the field, allowing them to stay for a few days on the ground where laid, then stirring gently to hasten drying. The curing is completed under cover, the bulbs being stacked on trays or in crates where they can be fully exposed to the air. When dry they are cleaned and placed in a cool, well-ventilated, dry storage room.

DIG EASTER LILIES

Because the foliage of Croft Easter lilies retains its green color well past this season, it is often difficult for many of us to realize that the bulbs should be dug now. Experience has shown, however, that now is the best time to dig. Place the bulbs, tops and all in ventilated crates, immediately, in a cool, shady place until the tops can be cut off and the bulbs graded. Bulbs are sold on the basis of their circumference in inches. Those measuring six inches and larger comprise the saleable sizes. The usual grades sold are 6, 7 and 8. Smaller sizes are planted back to grow another year. Bulblets which grow along the stem are also used for planting. These constitute the chief source of planting stock for nearly all growers. Varieties that fail to produce bulblets are propagated from scales taken from the larger bulbs. These may be sown in shallow rows in early Fall outdoors or else in flats in a mixture of soil, sand and peat in a greenhouse. Croft Easter lilies respond very well to scale propagation in a greenhouse.

Geraniums for the Winter

GERANIUMS from the garden can be Wintered over successfully, with care. There are several methods.

Some gardeners dig geraniums and lay them on a shelf in the coolest section of the fruit cellar. They take the precaution, however, to cover the roots of the plants with a little soil.

Still another method calls for lifting the geraniums with a ball of earth and potting them. Such plants should be cut back severely. For the first month let the cut-back plants stand in a cool, light room. Water once a week.

In November, place the potted cut-back geraniums in a dark place in the cellar. Water just enough to keep them from completely drying out. Keep the geraniums in the cellar until May, when they can be planted outdoors again.

Cuttings can be made from the sturdy top ends of the branches cut from plants "over-Wintered." Make the cutting about four inches in length. Do not plant immediately but leave the cuttings in the shade for a day. Plant by inserting the bottom end of the stem about two inches deep in sharp sand or a mixture of half peat and half sand.

Geraniums will flower all Winter long when potted in the regular soil mixture from the garden, but as rich fare at the roots brings lanky branch growth, manure should be omitted. The plants grow best when the roots are restricted by rather small pots, just large enough to take the roots and allow for about half an inch of space round the inside of the container.

THE RUSTIC CEDAR PERGOLA IN GARDEN DESIGN

This drawing illustrates the application of Canadian cedar in construction of a garden pergola. This is drawn from the completed structure at the northern studio of the author of this series. It will be one of a series of four issues showing details of construction to produce at low cost a garden feature of outstanding beauty.

Ontario abounds in wooded areas where cedars grow in abundance. No wood is more durable and adapts itself so well for rustic work. There will be a series of three drawings following to show details of construction.

Victoria Symphony Commences Tenth Season

* * * * * * *

Love for Best in Music Keynotes Organization

By JIM NESBITT

VICTORIA, Canada's 10th city in population, today has Canada's fourth symphony orchestra in excellence and scope of season.

Only Montreal, Vancouver and Winnipeg are ahead of Victoria.

It is no mean accomplishment the Victoria Symphony can look back upon as it starts its 10th consecutive season early in October.

Not that the Victoria Symphony looks back too much. It is more interested in the present. If it does any looking, it looks forward.

One doesn't quite realize the growth of the Victoria Symphony until one looks at the program of the first concert in the Empress Hotel ballroom in May of 1942 and compares it with the program for the 1950-51 series of concerts.

GOOD PROGRESS

It doesn't seem long ago—1942—but the progress made is truly astonishing and yet somehow quite in keeping with the growth of the city.

Melvin Knudsen was the conductor in those days and there's no one today who denies he made a valuable contribution to music in this city. He did it largely because he loved music; he received no set fee—now and then $50 or $75, depending on the state of finances. The members of the orchestra weren't paid in those days either. Today the orchestra—of 70 pieces—is paid union wages, though they're not high. While it's a semi-professional orchestra (as are all good orchestras) the members are still more interested in making music than in making money. Otherwise they wouldn't be in the Victoria Symphony.

But to look back to the start of the first season. In the Autumn of 1941 a small group of music lovers, with no money, but a lot of ideas, faith and hope, met at the home of Lieut. and Mrs. R. H. Hartie. Present were Miss Helen and Miss Fay Ockenden, Warren Martin and Douglas Kent.

FINANCIAL SIDE

They had to look at the financial picture, of course, for the arts won't function without cold, hard cash. Modestly the little group decided, according to the minutes that "consideration of financial aspects led to the conclusion that such an organization could function on a seasonal budget of $1,000, which sum was thought not to be beyond raising by subscription."

(The writer of this article is well aware of the magnificent contribution made to the Victoria Symphony by many Victorians. It is impossible to mention all their names. The names mentioned are those that appear in the official minutes, provided to the writer for the purpose of this 10th anniversary article.)

By December of 1941 the group had formed itself into the Victoria Symphonic Society and the first officers were elected: President, Lieut. R. H. Hartie, secretary, Miss Helen Ockenden; convener of the financial committee, Warren Martin; house committee, William Hardy; committee—Miss Fay Ockenden and Douglas Kent.

FIRST CONCERT

A lame-dog start had to be made. It was all a matter of money. The minutes show the first officers decided that "because of the inability of other sections to give regular attendance to rehearsals the orchestra, for the present, be composed of the string section only, with the addition of such woodwind and brass as are considered necessary by the conductor."

Then came the first concert in the Empress Ballroom. There were 33 in the orchestra; today there are more than double that number. There are few of the originals left—first violins, Mrs. Ian Campbell (Miss E. Brayshaw), Mrs. E. Davey, Mr. S. Davey, Mrs. Neil Damgaard (Miss Beth Graham), J. Holyoak; cello, R. Cooper; clarinet, Tudor Jones; flutes, S. Darvil and M. Crawford; bassoon, S. Gorse, tympani, F. Holman.

G. MAURO—String Bass.

So successful was the first concert that the society decided to go ahead. In the Autumn of 1942 Miss Sara Spencer was elected president and she is still the symphony's head. Looking back through the minutes it's seen that S. J. D. Clack, Jack Barraclough and his wife, Miss Mary Campbell and the late Mrs. A. C. Burdick were very pillars of the movement in its early days. They were convinced that lots of hard work and a refusal to be discouraged by setbacks would eventually put the symphony on its feet.

EARLIER ATTEMPTS

Long before there was a Victoria Symphony, valiant efforts had been made to establish one, but Victoria was never big enough. The late Alfred Prescott deserves full praise for what he did in this regard and at a meeting of the Symphony Society in 1944 Melvin Knudsen "proposed that in some manner the Symphony might show its appreciation to Mr. Prescott for his splendid work in the Boys' Band."

Victoria, of course, has all its life been conscious of music. In the old days, when Victoria was not much out of the Fort stage, there were musical organizations of all sorts—bands, orchestras, choirs. It is interesting to go back in this time. First newspaper mention of music in Victoria was in The Gazette of February 1, 1859. "The Philharmonic Society—On Saturday evening last there was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the members of the Victoria Philharmonic Society upon the occasion of the first election of officers to serve during the ensuing 12 months—president, Matt B. Begbie; vice-president, Selim Franklin; secretary, Arthy T. Bushby; treasurer, Alex P. Main; directors — Augustus Pemberton, A. C. Anderson, Joseph Porter, James Leigh, B. W. Pearse, Lumley Franklin and James F. Crowdy; conductor—John Bayley."

BACK TO 1859

In May of 1859 came the Philharmonic's first concert and The Gazette noted: "This entertainment was the first public music performance worthy of the name that has has occurred in Victoria."

It's taken a long time—nearly a century—but now Victoria has a full-dress symphony orchestra, planning eight concerts in the 1950-51 season. The orchestra is no pink-tea affair. It's strictly business. Members meet in a ramshackle, dirty old building on Broad Street twice a week for rehearsals. There's little time for chit-chat, because members know the public, paying good money at the box office, wants something in return. The minute one concert is over, rehearsals start for the next—and so it goes from September to May.

Victoria's symphony is now almost big business—a $35,000 a year budget. Symphony orchestras are always looked upon as rich men's toys. Victoria's well-to-do have certainly helped their symphony, but more than in most places it's an orchestra of the people. Less than 10 per cent of the budget goes into the red. In most cities the symphony loss is 20 per cent of the budget.

The opening concert of the 10th season will feature pianist Gertrude Huntly Green (now Mrs. Jay I. Durand of Seattle.) She has long been Victoria's favorite hometown artist. It's always an event when Victoria welcomes back this gracious, friendly, sparkling woman who has been prominently identified with every musical endeavor in this city.

Biggest items of expense, of course, are payments to performers and stagehands and theatre rents. Of last season's $21,341 budget, $12,198 went to performers and $3,000 to theatre rents and stagehands. The public put up nearly $14,000 at the box office. The loss for last season was $2,651. There were six concerts last year. Two made a profit of $650 each; the others went down from $300 to $1,000.

Compare these figures with the budget for the 1942-43 season—a total of $3,000.

The Victoria Symphony's 10th season will be the third for youthful conductor Hans Gruber. He came here to start the 1948-49 season. Already he has won a place in the hearts of Victoria audiences, for his musicianship, his modesty, his sincerity and the quiet yet powerful way he leads his musicians. He will be with us a few years yet and then he must, like all musicians, succumb to the lure of a bigger city and a much greater salary.

W. DAVIDSON—Tuba.

TUDOR JONES—Clarinet

THE OFFICERS

Here's the 1950-51 list of officers: President, Miss Sara Spencer, first vice-president, Walter Stenner, second vice-president, J. H. Wade, hon. treasurer, J. C. Melville, hon. secretary, R. J. Nation; executive member, Mrs. Elsa Mayhew. Board of Directors: Mrs. S. Dudley Markham, Mrs. Hubert A. Wallace, Jack Barraclough, Mrs. J. F. K. English, C. N. Chubb, Harry J. Davis, M. V. Chesnut, Rev. W. Hills, Dr. D. B. Roxburgh, Dr. G. H. E. Green, Dr. W. H. Hickman, Walter Ellers, J. Allan Baker, H. P. Johns, D. M. Armstrong. Women's committee: Mrs. D. B. Roxburgh, chairman; Miss Jo Brown, vice-chairman; Miss Lottie Kaiser, treasurer; Miss Nancy Shaw, secretary. Men's committee: Roy Murdock, chairman; Austin Goward, vice-chairman; D. C. Aitken, secretary; David [illegible], treasurer.

Early Victoria Firemen Were Best in the West

By F. GORDON

VICTORIA'S hard-hitting fire department of today is a far cry from the days of the early '60's when the city first organized its volunteer department.

In those days each of the three companies adopted a motto. One company's motto was "Our Aim the Public Good"; another, "Willing Hearts and Hands," and the third, "We Strive to Save."

Each company comprised 60 volunteers. The "Deluge," "Tiger," and "Union Hook and Ladder" companies, each with a foreman, first assistant foreman, second assistant foreman, treasurer and secretary, and the three companies, under the management of a board of delegates, elected a chief engineer and assistant chief engineer. The last two held office for two years.

PAID TO JOIN

Property owners and all interested in the welfare of the city joined the organization and arrangements were made to purchase apparatus and provide buildings. Fire halls were built. Two hand engines, with a hook and ladder truck and a supply of leather fire hose, also were obtained. Each member paid a monthly fee, while all absentees—from fires and regular meetings—paid a 50-cent fine. Alarm bells were introduced. They sounded for fires and also tolled on the death of a fireman.

Public entertainments were held to obtain funds, while a keen spirit of rivalry existed between each company with regard to gaining credit for reaching fires promptly. It is to the credit of these volunteer fire companies that no serious fires developed in Victoria. On several occasions, especially in Chinatown, a number of fires menaced the business district, but all were handled well and losses were kept comparatively low. The water supply for use in fire-fighting was stored in cisterns at principal street corners, the main supply coming from a spring and small lake at the east end of the city, known as "Spring Ridge."

HOLIDAY SPIRIT

The May Day festivals, with the birthday of Queen Victoria, brought out the volunteers dressed in their red shirts, black trousers, white gloves and caps, with their apparatus decorated. After Confederation, Dominion Day was the annual holiday of the firemen. They held picnics, with tombolas and other entertainment, which netted large sums for the purpose of adding to their equipment. Brick buildings were erected to replace the wooden fire halls, while the volunteers gathered more funds to purchase steam fire engines, rubber hose and more modern equipment.

One of the companies appeared to appreciate the handiwork of the oldest English manufacturer of fire department equipment, Messrs. Merryweather & Sons, of London, England. Another company selected fire engines and equipment made by their neighbors across the line. For many years the volunteers served the city faithfully and well. They protected the property of others, as well as their own, from the ravages of fire, and to them great credit was due for the safety of life and property during the early days of the city.

RIVALRY KEEN

Although a friendly rivalry existed between the companies, the best of feeling always was shown in the efforts to aid their fellows and themselves in the suppression of fire. The election of officers for the higher positions in the fire department appeared to create more interest than any local event. The rivalry between the engine companies was tempered by the hook and ladder company of 60 members which stood neutral in the discussions regarding the superiority of the "Deluge" or "Tiger" companies.

FORMER CHIEFS

Joseph Wrigglesworth and Thomas Deasy, chiefs of volunteer days, were both members of the hook and ladder company. Said the former:

"It was on my arrival in Victoria in 1862 that I began work with the department, but I did not actually join until 1866. The hook and ladder company was then housed on Bastion Street, opposite the present Court House, the Deluge Company on Yates Street and the Tiger Company on Johnson Street.

"I became a member of the Hook and Ladder Company and the apparatus in use at that time was two hand-pumping engines, one hook and ladder truck, four hose carts, one bucket truck and 3,050 feet of hose. In 1873 I held office as assistant engineer for two years, and was elected chief engineer in 1875 for the same period. I think about the warmest fire I ever attended was at midnight on June 7, 1876, when the Colonial Hotel on Government Street burned out."

LANTERN BRIGADE

Thomas Deasy, when a boy of 12, organized the "Lantern Company" of a dozen small boys whose duty was lighting and carrying coal oil lanterns when fires occurred at night. Later on they organized the "Bucket Company," with a two-wheeled piece of apparatus carrying one dozen leather buckets, and a small chemical engine and lanterns. At the age of 16, the "Lantern Boys" were admitted into the company of their seniors—"The Hook and Ladder Company."

The former chiefs of the volunteer department were John Kremlir, Samuel Kelly, T. J. Burns, John Dickson, William Losbe, Joseph Wrigglesworth, Augustis Borde, Frank Saunders and Charles Phillips.

CIVIC CONTROL

It was finally decided that the city should take over control of the fire department. The volunteer firemen turned over their halls, apparatus and other property to the City Council. They asked no remuneration for the property. Under an act of the Provincial Legislature, the property owners of the city selected by ballot the chief and the assistant chief of the new "Call Fire Department" formed to supersede the volunteers.

On being duly elected by the property owners, Thomas Deasey served as chief until 1901, when, failing to gain the support and approval for a "Fully Paid Fire Department" from the council, he resigned after serving in various capacities in the old department since 1870.

Thomas Watson succeeded Thomas Deasy as chief, having served in the "volunteer" and "call" departments since he was a "bucket boy" at 17½. After much agitation and letter writing in the press, he promoted with the assistance of B. S. Oddy a "Fully Paid Department." The inadequate fire protection at this time was brought very forcibly before the citizens when the Driard Hotel was nearly burned out. It was due to the assistance rendered by the old volunteers and ex-call men that this fire did not prove more disastrous.

NEW HALLS BUILT

Chief Watson served until 1909 when he was succeeded by Thomas Davis, who resigned his position as Captain in the Toronto Fire Department to come to Victoria. Chief Davis reorganized the department. Three additional halls were built in outlying areas, making a total of eight halls in operation. New horse-drawn apparatus, including an aerial ladder, was purchased and later succeeded by motor trucks, which were coming into general use during the period. An agreement was entered into with Saanich to cover part of the area for fire protection lying on the north boundary of the city. This was abandoned after a time and an agreement was entered into with Oak Bay, which continued until 1939 when Oak Bay instituted its own department.

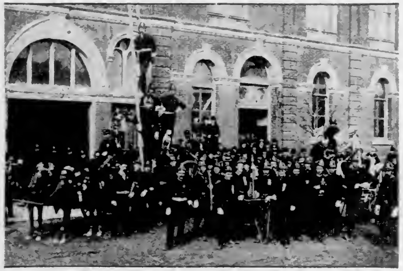
In 1918 the last of the horse-drawn fire apparatus was retired from service and the department became fully motorized. Three halls were subsequently closed. Chief Davis resigned in November 1918, and was succeeded by Vernon W. Stewart, who was deputy chief under Chief Davis. Captain A. Munroe was appointed as deputy chief by Chief Stewart.

FIRST PUMPER

The first motor pumping engine in the service of the department, a triple combination of 800 Imperial gallons capacity, was bought in 1925, thus retiring from service the last of the steam pumping engines drawn by a motor tractor. Chief Stewart consistently advocated, without success, that a fire hall be reopened in the James Bay area.

In May, 1933, Chief Stewart retired on superannuation and Deputy Chief Munroe became chief of the department. Captains J. A. Raymond and R. Taylor were appointed as deputy chiefs. Chief Munroe retired in September, 1945, and Deputy Chief J. A. Raymond was made chief. On retirement of Chief Raymond in October, 1947, Deputy Chief R. T. Brindle was appointed chief with Phillip N. Guy as deputy chief. Captains C. A. Gwyer and F. W. Briers were appointed assistant chiefs. On April 1, 1950, Assistant Chief Briers was appointed deputy chief and Captains Bayliss and Bennett made assistant chiefs to replace Deputy Chief Guy and Assistant Chief Gwyer, who retired.

The total strength of the department consists of 90 officers and men. The department responded to 813 alarms during 1949. The department operates from four halls: No. 1 on Cormorant Street, No. 2 on Yates Street at Camosun Street, No. 3 at Douglas and Burnside, and No. 4 at Superior and Oswego Streets.



THESE WELL-MOUSTACHED FIREMEN were fierce fire fighters even though their equipment by modern day standards left a lot to be desired. Note horse-drawn apparatus.

THIS OLD "LADDER COMBINATION" was the pride of city firemen for many years. In 1918 the last of the horse-drawn fire apparatus was retired from service, and the department became fully motorized.

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

WHAT about girls who wear glasses? Do they have to miss date fun simply because their vision isn't 20-20? Here's a letter from one of them:

"I am 16 and I have a problem. I'm said to be attractive and I try to have a pleasant personality. When I'm with friends, I have an enjoyable time and try to see that they do, too. But I've never had a date. I wear glasses. Without them, I'm not bad looking, but I can't take them off because I can't see without them. Do all boys condemn girls who wear glasses?"

Answer. Dating IS a little harder in one way for girls who wear glasses. You can't count on making a first impression that bowls over the boys. It takes more time because you have to attract them with your personality instead of your looks. Some boys get a wrong first impression . . . think a girl with glasses is more studious or serious than she is or else they just don't notice her attractive features at first.

It will help if you try to get to KNOW some boys and give them a chance to know you, so they'll realize that you can be fun. To get acquainted with the boys and enjoy normal 'teen-time social life, you have to be where they are and be there regularly. Join school clubs that boys belong to; attend school games and other activities such as the orchestra or school paper.

Look up community or church activities for high schoolers. Go to a dancing class if your dancing isn't smooth. How about sports? Learn to play tennis, bowl or skate . . . a good way to meet new friends. Invite girl friends to your home and go to theirs (they may have brothers).

Go to a school dance, even if you have to bribe your brother or cousin, so boys will see you there and realize that you're dateable. Take off your glasses while you dance and put them in your evening bag or your partner's pocket. You don't have to see them! Wear becoming clothes and be sure the frames of your glasses suit the shape of your face. Later in life, you'll find that some young men will be more mature and won't misjudge or overlook you simply because of the glasses.

Park Lane Was the Hunting Ground of the Gentleman Criminal Until Scotland Yard Men Tabbed Him With His Laat of Jewels

By EX-SUPT. BOB FABIAN of Scotland Yard

ROBERT Augustus Delaney will be remembered at Scotland Yard as the man who started a new fashion in crime that was to become known as "cat-burglary."

Two men died trying to imitate Delaney. "Irish Mac" impaled himself on spiked railings. "The Doctor"—who should have known better—fell 40 feet from a portico in St. James. He had £8,000 of jewels in his pocket, and crawled grimly two miles before death froze him.

But Robert Augustus Delaney trod the crags and precipices of Park Lane's roofs with nonchalant skill. He wore faultless evening clothes, could apparently climb the sheer side of a house. I think he imagined himself a kind of acrobatic Raffles.

BETTER CRIMINAL

He certainly made the great criminals of the past—like Charles Peace, who carried a collapsible ladder disguised as a bundle of firewood—look clumsy.

In his pocket was a slender steel tool like a putty-knife for slipping window catches. It would also open jewel boxes.

Around his trimly-tailored waist, Gussie Delaney coiled four yards of black silk rope.

When the rich and noble residents of Park Lane in 1924 were trooping splendidly to dinner, Delaney crouched beneath their windows, unwinding his gossamer rope. The tinkle of polished cutlery . . . or was it the clink of a dulled steel hook catching in balcony drain gutter . . . and Gussie Delaney robbed their bedrooms like a wraith and departed, before coffee wafted fragrant into the victim's drawing-room, and cigar smoke hazed the wine.

The thefts were reported to us in Vine Street, where I was a probationer detective, fresh from training school.

We questioned indignant flunkies, far haughtier than their masters. They knew nothing. Next week, another robbery from a Park Lane bedroom—and so on at weekly intervals.

NETTED £30,000

It was not really my case nor was my probationer pal, Tommy Symes (now chief inspector), assigned to it. We sat stirring police canteen coffee one night, waiting to go out on a routine club raid. But the Park Lane mystery burglaries intrigued us more.

"One each week for the past five weeks," I said. "A total of £30,000. He should be ready to retire soon. And none of us will have caught a whiff of him."

Tommy leaned forward. "Keep it to yourself," he murmured. "I've been making a sort of map . . ."

I had to laugh. "So have I, Tommy!" We compared efforts. Both of us had the same idea. A map of Park Lane district, indicating those houses where residents were known to be outstandingly wealthy, and where the dining-room could be kept under observation.

"And it looks as if he's working in some sort of sequence, too," I said quickly. "See—top end of Park Lane, then the bottom end, then St. James'. Fourth burglary at the bottom end . . ."

"And the next one around here!" Tommy's broad thumb covered Arlington Street at the Ritz Hotel corner. "It might be tonight," he added.

We left the canteen, went into the C.I.D. main room. The duty inspector called: "Oh, you two—that club job—it's off for tonight. We shan't be needing you."

We looked at each other. It was a crisp, starlit October evening, just gone dark. "Care for a bit of fresh air, Tommy?" I asked casually. He grinned. "Green Park it is!"

Concealed in shadow and shrubbery of Green Park, we knew we could keep watch on the backs of all those tempting mansions by the Ritz corner.

Three hours later we were chilled, cramped, disappointed. Nothing had happened.

The next night was cloudy. Once again Tommy took the Green Park bandstand. I waited in the garden behind Wimberne House.

Faintly we heard the austere chimes of dinner gongs from the big mansions. One by one bedroom lights winked out from costly chandeliers.

I fumbled for a peppermint. The night seemed to be growing quiet and tense. I stared into the shadows until my eyes felt aglow like a stoat's . . .

A dark figure was creeping along the nearest garden boundary. Quick, agile as a cat, it vaulted the high railing, disappeared.

QUARRY VANISHED

We next saw the shadowy intruder flit across one of the white balconies. How did he get up there?

Tommy, flattened against the wall beneath the balcony, turned as I crept near him.

"Did you see that!" His voice was hoarse with suppressed excitement. "Like a blooming cat!"

"I'll wait for him here," I whispered. "You give the alarm inside."

The lights began to flash on in each of the spacious upstairs rooms as Tommy Symes raced through the bedrooms and corridors, with alarmed householders behind him. I heard excited voices—then the repeated thud of sturdy shoulders at an equally sturdy thick mahogany door.

The thief had jammed it with a wooden wedge, ready for such an emergency. He reappeared on the balcony, made no attempt to descend into the garden. He ran, light-footed, along the balcony, leapt a nine-foot gap to the next, alighted soundlessly. He threw something up on to the gutter of the neighboring roof and in six seconds was across the slanted tiles, away . . .

For hours we scoured the district. Our quarry had vanished among the chimneys. All I had seen was the glint of a diamond stud in what was obviously a dress shirt front.

THE VITAL CLUE

The inspector was scathing. "You really must forgive me for intruding upon your beautiful partnership," he said. "But I would like to know about all this before it happened, so we could have one or two more men on the scene—"

Upon me he cast a withering glance. "You say you saw him—but you can't describe him—except that he climbed like a cat—he didn't have fur by any chance?"

Afterwards, I said solemnly: "Tommy, we've got to catch that blighter—that cat burglar—and rub butter on his paws!"

That was not all I said.

We went to the scene of the previous night's burglary. Jewels valued at £2,000 missing. It didn't make us feel better.

By daylight, that leap from one balcony to its neighbor seemed no less remarkable. We measured it. Tommy threw the end of a tape-measure across the space to me. And as I leaned to catch it, I noticed something . . .

It was a footprint on the balcony ledge—so small and so exquisitely pointed in the toe that it might have been made by a woman's dancing shoe.

We got a ladder and in the soft mould of the drainage gutter on the roof found another imprint of the wedge-shaped shoe. The smooth tiles showed clearly the porous tread of crepe soles.

"Rubber-soled evening pumps!" said Tommy. "He'd need to get these made specially!"

LOOKING FOR SHOES

I spent the day visiting those exclusive shoe emporiums of Jermyn Street, York Street (as it then was), Dover Street, Shepherd's Market where craftsmen took pride in hand-made shoes to suit clients' whims.

In Albemarle Street I was lucky. "Most remarkable," said the proprietor earnestly, "that any gentleman should require crepe rubber soles however thin on patent-leather evening shoes. I remember strongly advising the gentleman against it—but he was insistent."

The order book showed name and address as "R. Radd, Esq., 52 Half-Moon Street, five guineas—paid."

A good address. I went to Half-Moon Street. The numbers stopped at 42. There never had been a 52. No stranger to the district would have been likely to know that.

It seemed worth investigating the bars and lounges around Half-Moon Street. Those were the days of evening clothes for gentlemen in London's West End. My laundry bill became staggering . . . and the days passed.

More than a week afterwards I walked into the Range Bar.

My dress shoes clacked like sabots on the polished parquet corridor.

A man passed me. He wore good evening clothes. A diamond sparkled in his laundered shirt bosom. And as he walked it occurred to me that his feet were making no noise at all!

SHADOW WORK

I glanced quickly. Tiny pointed toes . . . Outside, he hesitated at the taxi rank, then decided to walk. I jumped into the cab at the tail of the rank.

"I'm a police officer. Follow that man. Don't put your flag down. I'll lie on the floor."

We rolled after the man with the pointed shoes.

Round the corner from Half-Moon Street, up another side avenue, then:

"He's gone into No. 46, Guv'nor," said the taxi driver.

"Right," I said. "Don't stop. Keep going to New Scotland Yard."

I took the lift to the Criminal Record Office. They knew nothing about the address. I searched some picked photo files. There was no record on the man. Still . . .

Back at Vine Street, I made a report.

UNDER A MATTRESS

For two days we trailed our man without success. Then he strolled down to Hatton Garden, met a man in a cafe. They took a taxi to Southgate, went into a comfortable-looking private house.

After about 20 minutes the man with the pointed shoes came out alone. I left a colleague to make inquiries at the house, and followed him back to No. 46.

In a brown van a concealed spark Morse set buzzed and stuttered: "Inquiries at house in Southgate—occupier known—admits receiving jewelry—has just paid £800—jewelry answers description of part proceeds from Park Lane thefts."

That did it. We called at No. 46. A middle-aged woman answered the polished bell. She was dressed pompously in rustling black, a black taffeta ribbon at her throat held a cameo brooch. She regarded us down her nose haughtily.

"Have you a man living here . . . ?" I described my suspect. The woman considered me as though she suspected some fault with the drains.

"That may well be Mr. Delaney, who has the upstairs flat. Is he expecting you?"

I brushed past her. "We'll just find out!" I called cheerfully from the stairway. She gasped, "I think you're very rude!"

THE MAN AT HOME

So did Mr. Augustus Delaney, as his engraved name-plate described him. He looked up coolly as we entered without knocking.

"What the blazes do you want?" His accent was slightly Canadian.

"Quite all right," I said, soothingly. "We're just looking for some money and jewelry. You don't mind, do you?"

He stood up, suddenly pale. Then his mouth twitched into a wistful smile. "I suppose—it's too much to hope that you gentlemen are burglars?"

The £800 was hidden under the mattress. Stolen jewels were concealed in the dressing table, behind the drawer backs.

On his first conviction he received three years' penal servitude at the Old Bailey for those six Park Lane burglaries. That was in 1924.

Would you like to know what this daring, well-educated and quick-witted young man did with the rest of his life, and with that superb acrobat's body that fate had given him?

He died in Parkhurst Prison on December 14, 1946. He had spent 20 years in various gaols. His shoulders had gradually drooped shrunkenly.

In his brief intervals of freedom his polished, pointed, immaculate shoes had scarcely time to become worn down at the heels.

Next week: "The Case of the Impudent Confidence Tricksters."

Planning To Build?

FIRE STOPS ARE A REQUISITE IN GOOD HOUSE CONSTRUCTION

When studs have been cut to provide an opening, the studs on either side of the opening should be doubled. It is good practice to cut the additional stud so that the top comes under the header as shown in Figure 1.

One of the reasons for doubling studs at openings is to provide ample nailing surface for sheathing and finishing materials. As in the case of a doorway, doubling would also offer a more solid support when the door is slammed.

It should be remembered, however, that in all types of construction, cost is a very important factor. The method that produces the best results at a minimum of cost is the one that should be used. Because of the long flue-like spaces between the studs, fire stops are necessary to prevent the rapid spread of flames in case of fire. Fire stops are obstructions placed at and midway between each floor level to prevent the spread of fire from one floor to another. They are also provided over partitions to prevent fire from passing through the floors and across the building.

The obstructions are usually made of two-inch lumber as shown in Figure 2. Although masonry is sometimes used, it is practicable only in certain places.

(This is the fourteenth in a series of articles written in the interest of readers who are contemplating building or buying a house.)

You and Your Car

* * * * * *

By FREDERICK C. RUSSELL

A hot rod is just a new name for what we did when we were 'teenage drivers.

POST-VACATION CARE

WHERE your car went on your vacation may determine whether or not it will elect to take a vacation of its own—a vacation that will mean a series of trips to the repair shop for you.

Most motorists know that vacation trips are usually no picnic for the car. What is only just percolating the automobiles' consciousness is the fact that understanding the type of trip the car has taken is an owner's cue to what the car needs by way of corrective service. It isn't just the actual terra firma the car has covered but the particular kind of performance it has been called upon to deliver when on the road. Typical is the tourist who invested in a carbon and valve job when he returned home. Actually the trip served to loosen up considerable carbon, and the valves were rid of their pretrip tendency to stick. This owner should have invested in a brake job or a rechecking of the front-end alignment.

The post-vacation service should include a general tightening of body and chassis parts. Checking tappets also figures at this period because speed tends to loosen them. Check the lube level in the rear end, because if it is low the chances are that lube is working into the right rear brake.

NO BATHING? PLEASE

I didn't figure that some drivers would be trying to ford streams with their new cars, and so have failed to slip in a little note somewhere along the line to suggest avoiding this sort of thing where a car is equipped with any type of semi-automatic gear shift involving special electrical and vacuum controls. Water may short out the electrical circuits, and it may get into the vents necessary with vacuum operation.

NEW PLASTICS

If you have been getting your fill of static shock from plastic seat covers, don't jump to the conclusion that this sort of annoyance is inevitable with this type of covering. Newest wrinkle is make covering materials with designs that do not rub against clothing when passengers slide across the seat cushion. Herringbone has been found to be especially prone to produce static. Ribs that run from side to side, on the other hand, "go with" the clothing. Meanwhile, owners of static-producing plastic covers can lessen the trouble by using special polishes for the covers.

BOOKS

By W. T. GALT

Bigger and better reading machines are in sight.

According to North American Newspaper Alliance reports from Chicago, the latest word will be a reading machine that could "search the entire Library of Congress and select all the information on a given subject in ten seconds."

It would also be a writing machine.

For having finished its mechanized browsing in the stacks, it could sit down and print all of the selections it found at the rate of ten selections a minute.

This machine has not been built yet, but Dr. Calvin N Mooers, the scientist who describes it, says it would be quite "feasable." He says it would be quite expensive, too.

Actually there is already a reading machine in operation.

But it is a slowpoke It reads in the United States Department of Agriculture Library, where it pours over 5,000 references in a leisurely five minutes.

The new reading machine will be 9,000 times faster.

If this machine is as smart as the scientists say it is, this department has a couple of volumes by Gertrude Stein that it would like a few answers on

We'd also like it to read for us a bushel or so of industrial annual reports, an apple box full of Government publications and a shelf of modern poetry that we never seem to get around to

* * *

The song is ended but the malady lingers on, according to the plaint of some West German newspapers in their reviews of "Knaur's Lexicon," a traditional reference book in Germany for decades.

The German reviewers complain that the compilers of the handy-sized encyclopaedia have given Adolf Hitler far more wordage than any other world figure, past or present.

In addition, according to a Canadian Press report of the adverse criticism, there are two complete pages and many insertions devoted to a detailed history of the Nazi party and its affiliated organizations, including the Gestapo.

"In a special black-rimmed box, closely resembling a Nazi memorial plaque, each gauleiter's fate is related," the reviews point out.

In alloting space in the book Hitler was given a whopping 76 lines. Bismarck did well to get 26.

As for Hitler's foes, Franklin D. Roosevelt got 20 lines; Stalin 17 and Winston Churchill only 15. Pope Pius has six lines.

Hitler's blood-thirsty police chief, Heinrich Himmler, organizer of the concentration camps, is awarded 17 lines with his titles being listed in full Mussolini gets 16 lines.

The lexicon, according to Canadian Press, says Hitler's 25-point prewar political program met with the "national feelings and desires of the German people . . . who resented the Versailles peace treaty and disarmament."

The authors, however, call Hitler a "ruthless dictator who sought compliance with his plans with brutality."

The mass murders of Jews and other enemies of the Nazi regime are described as "crimes against humanity."

WARRIORS of New South Wales

Leisurely Writer Visits Egypt, Australia, Ceylon

"My Travel's History," by Roderick Cameron (Hamish Hamilton, $4.25).

This is the leisurely account of the visit of a cultured traveler principally to Egypt, Australia and Ceylon.

Mr Cameron is not dismayed that Egypt has been a veritable Mecca for travel book writers. In fact, he turns it to his own advantage by quoting sizeable chunks of their works where they will do the most good in supplying atmosphere or providing contrast with his own observations

LIVELY AIR

Thus he takes his readers through the wonders of the pyramids and cities of the dead pharoahs with a lively air of freshness that sometimes brings even the mummies to life, something that almost happens in one of his exerpts.

His section on Australia is made somewhat tedious in parts by frequent passages about the homes and histories of his Australian relatives and their friends.

He is at his best, however, in a most vivid description of the Great Barrier Reef, a phenomena that is only a few feet under the surface, giving the wading observer the sensation of walking on the ocean with no land visible for miles

ABORIGINES

One of the more memorable passages in his section on Daisy Bates, the Englishwoman who devoted a long life to becoming "mother" and probably the world's greatest authority on the aborigines.

The author falls very much in love with Ceylon as his vivid observations and descriptions bear out.

Apart from a few somewhat snobbish asides and condescending attitudes, this book makes generally pleasant reading, well suited for the bedside table of the casual reader

Celtic Myths, Airy Grace

"Collected Poems of W B Yeats" (MacMillan, $3.25).

Among the poets produced by the Celtic revival, honorable mention must be given to George William Russell ("A E"), but William Butler Yeats holds an unchallenged preeminence.

Yeats was born in Dublin of a Sligo Protestant family and spent much of his childhood in Ireland hearing stories of Celtic folklore which colored his thinking and animated his writings.

MOVING FORCE

He was still under 30 when his first poems began to appear in Irish newspapers. After five years abroad he was the moving force behind several powerful societies aimed at restoring the old myths and folklore and with the help of Lady Gregory founded the world-famous Abbey Theatre for which he wrote many dramas

During his lengthy career his literary reputation mounted steadily In 1923 he was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature. He was awarded several honorary degrees and Ireland gave him national recognition by honoring him at a State dinner attended by 300 prominent men from all parts of the world, on his 70th birthday.

This volume is a complete collection from the half-century during which Yeats continued to produce lyrical poems, often with an Irish legendary background but always with an imaginative power and beauty of form that were entirely of his own creation

AIRY GRACE

These early poems have an airy grace. Perhaps one of the most perfect of them is "The Rose of the World," which shows Yeats' unimpeachable mastery of language and control, although that poem is not so well known as his "Lake Isle of Innisfree," which he wrote in the same year.

Later in life his poetry becomes more austere He gradually discards the "embroideries out of old mythologies" that have by then become so widely imitated Yeats becomes more intellectual, his poetry is more masculine, but a little of its first charm has vanished

STRANGE MYTHS

By the time he is about 70, Yeats applies all the force of his developed metaphysical style in "The Tower," in which he constructs elaborate symbols and strange myths to summarize his poetic life. It begins

"What shall I do with this absurdity—
O heart, O troubled heart this caricature,
Decrepit age that has been tied to me
As to a dog's tail?"

Could Thrill

"Sawdust and Six Guns," by Evan Evans (Musson, $2.50).

This book offers a fair plot and characterization, in stodgy prose that makes reading difficult and fails to keep up interest.

Briefly, it is the story of a young man reared in a circus and then thrown into Dodge City in the days of the roaring West. Anthony Castracane, due to his varied training as an equestrian, knife thrower, boxer and strongman, has a better chance of survival than most tenderfeet at this end of the cattle trail.

A writer with a better sense of pace and a racier style of prose could have turned this into a real thriller —P C B

"Victorian Picture Show" Full of Pleasant Flashes

"Royal Academy," by D. L. Murray (Hodder & Stoughton, $3).

This is a fine novel, with the added attraction, as the subtitle says, of "a Victorian picture show."

Mr Murray, one of England's more popular novelists, does a fine job on his ninth novel, the story of Camilla North, a girl painter with brash ideas in the day before women began to gain emancipation.

EXCELLENT

Plot, characterization and prose are all excellent, enough to ensure a fine sale and continued popularity for the author

But, perhaps the most pleasing feature is the "picture show" of the late 1800's In these sidelights the reader accurately sees flashes of all facets of the Victorian life, in the city, the country homes and the countryside

Thus one sees the great Disraeli at work and at play, a Limehouse opium den, General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, "saving" a young woman on the streets of London, the artistic world, a great ball, the wild party of the London music hall entertainers, and the full world of politics, society and pleasure

VIVID PICTURE

Derby day and night is another of the vivid pictures painted in this book.

The story traces in detail the lives of Miss North, her suitors, and her brother.

Mr. Murray has drawn some fine characters in his choice of suitors for Miss North. Major Maconnter soldier of fortune, the Duke of St Arvern, and penniless artist Harold Calverley all live and move realistically across the pages of the book

Edward North, brilliant politician, aesthete, gambler and anonymous haunter of the underworld, is one of those many-faceted characters that rarely seem real in modern-day literature This is one of the few instances where the author realises his ambition.

VERSATILITY

To illustrate Mr Murray's versatility it is only necessary to look over his past novels. These have dealt with the theatre, Oxford, London, "Tale of Three Cities" (Rome London and Paris), Brighton, the Crimean War, Papal Rome and the circus

This is a lengthy novel—453 tightly printed pages—but every word is needed to tell the widely varied story. Unless continuous action is necessary to your reading, this novel will give hours of enjoyment —F C B

Raconteur Revisits Paris After Ten Harsh Years

"Springtime in Paris," by Elliot Paul (Random House, $4)

Here is an entertaining book about a street in one of the world's most entertaining cities

Elliot Paul who hit the best seller market soon after the fall of France with "The Last Time I Saw Paris," has returned to the city he loves and in this book does everything in his power to make his readers love it, too

It is a Paris ravaged by a long war and a hard peace, but in Mr Paul's eyes it is still alive gay and full of characters who make this book practically a succession of short stories

Many of the Rue de la Huchette's residents who figured in "The Last Time I Saw Paris" are still on hand

ELLIOT PAUL

There are Louis, the one-armed garcon at the Hotel Normandie, Noel, the taxidermist, Monge, the horse butcher whose trade has prospered Hortense Berthelot, who has become a florist and Pierre Vautier the painter

Besides that there are Christophe, the pushcart man, Garry Davis, first citizen of the world, Anatole Pillode, the book clerk, and Carmen Orey a rich girl from another section, and Hermann and Miriam Pflantz, the Cologne refugees.

This succession of characters twines in and out among the fictional episodes adroitly strung together by the master raconteur Mr Paul, who himself enters a good many of the scenes

Mr Paul lives with his characters in a Paris that is his second home, and his stories have an affectionate insight and humor that spells good reading —W T G.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Peach Bavarian
(Serves 6)

- 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin.
- ¼ cup cold water
- 2½ cups sliced peaches fresh or canned
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ⅓ cup sugar
- Dash of salt
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel.
- ⅛ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water. Put peaches through sieve to measure 1½ cups, add with remaining ingredients, except cream, to gelatin Chill until partially set Beat fluffy Fold in cream Chill in an oiled 1-quart mold. Unmold and garnish with sliced peaches and maraschino cherries, if desired

With a chilled pear salad or a molded salad that contains other fruit as well as pears, you'll like sandwiches spread with butter that has a dash of ginger mixed in with it

Fireside Musings

By HELEN T. CARRINGTON

AUTUMN BONFIRES

IS there just a touch of mingled yearning and sadness as we pile on the collection of dry, fallen leaves and garden refuse in the Autumn bonfire?—but perhaps, simultaneously, something very sweet and visionary takes hold of us as we inhale the warm, pleasant pungency

We think of the charm and promise of the Spring buds that later gave the grateful shade of Summer, we remember tugging at the defiant, yet brave little weeds as they held tenaciously to a tiny hope of life and our self-respect may seem lessened when we recall our decision to divide and discard flowers and plants that once yielded their all to our whimsical demands.

Now, with the attenuating, yet still beautiful and beneficient sun flooding alike the good old earth and our wayward souls we think of the time, so rapidly nearing, when all will have been transmuted into Winter's cheery glow—the coy sunbeams in their tired game of hide-and-seek and the long-strewn hearth.

We look again at our garden-gatherings as they lie tumbled together in a last gasp ere they surrender their united embers to a final, lowly service. Then with a little sigh, another heap of leaves is added to the flames

But, suddenly a wave of reality sweeps over us!—we feel it a satisfaction to know we can legitimately disencumber ourselves of all the false and useless accumulations of years of mistaken endeavors—we can rake out and destroy the tangled undergrowth of meaningless, futile sprigs the heart of the fire can consume that which most obstructs and retards the onward upward climb

* * *

The flames subside the embers grow dim sundown is at hand!

Have we managed to disburden ourselves of the years' waste and inefficiencies? The collection of faithfully rejected obstacles and impediments?—are they too, now becoming useful ashes for the reanimating of valuable and essential soil and growth?

ONE OF THE SEASON'S most fashion wise fabrics is used for this lovely afternoon or informal dinner dress, rayon crepe made of Avisco yarn in a flattering beige The simple lines form a perfect background for the sequin pattern The dress is good in both small and large sizes

Style Begins At Forty

By ANNE YATES CLARKE

It is a well-known fact that the fashion needs of the mature woman are very different from those of her younger sister. With her children grown or old enough to care of themselves most of the time, she has more leisure, more money to spend on clothes, more places to wear them At the same time her figure is changing so that she needs not only more clothes, but better costumes.

It is no accident that lists of best-dressed women are usually top-heavy with women around or over forty. In their maturity they have poise and grace, and they have developed a clothes sense and an individual taste that make them distinctive. The increasing pressure of social engagements makes it necessary as well as desirable to have larger wardrobes

If you follow the lead of the mature women you know, you will buy clothes that are ageless, many of them timeless Made of good fabrics that can stand up under many dry-cleanings (or launderings, if they are casual cottons or other washable materials for Summer) they will make the most of simple, well-cut lines, of trimming that gives variety, and distinction and of colorings that are becoming, but it is not "too much." Favorite fabrics are rayons which combine texture interest with soft but distinctive color. Drapability is a feature, especially in soft afternoon clothes

The woman with a figure problem or a problem figure may have to pay more for her clothes than her friend with an average figure. Actually there should be no problem figure if women would find the size range and size that suit them best

Elegant New Handbags Reflect Newest Style

LIKE all Fall and Winter fashions, handbags are designed for the occasion and the costume The well-dressed woman needs a wardrobe of bags, one for each type of costume and time of day If she has co-ordinated her accessories and chosen them correctly she should be able to thrust a well-gloved arm and hand through a door and from her sleeve, bag and glove you could tell where she is going

Bags are more elegant than ever, even simple street bags to be carried with tweeds or tailored clothes The materials determine their use as much as the designs do for most bags are fairly plain and all are definitely functional There is a wide selection in smooth leathers, reptiles suedes and broadcloth for daytime, with velvet and the rich brocades or similar materials for late afternoon and evenings

BROADCLOTH POPULAR

Broadcloth is being used this year by some makers because it is more durable than cashmere which we have enjoyed in seasons past It will give better service as an afternoon or dress-up bag than suede which looks so right with mink finer fabrics and other formal or semi-formal costumes Broadcloth is always softly styled usually made with dressmaker details and is seen most often in black, though it is good in dark colors, too These bags come with longer, more slender handles than they had last year and in many shapes including pouches and frame bags

VELVET GOOD BUY

Velvet is a good buy in a handbag right now for you can use it for early Fall and right on through the Winter. Black, navy and red are the favored colors, and shapes are very varied, A popular type with the sheath dresses of Autumn and Winter is the very long envelope which "crosses the T" of the silhouette when held under the arm Velvets range from tiny pouches for the petite woman to large shapes for a dramatic look if you're tall enough to carry them

It would be hard to imagine a season without suede, so soft and beautiful. It is elegantly designed and sewn into bags for Fall that have great distinction. It goes perfectly with your mink coat, with dressmaker cloth or fur-trimmed coats, with any late-day costume This year there is more detail on suede bags than on others. In buying suede or antelope it is more important to select a good quality, non-crockable (which means that color will not rub off) and in a style suitable to your own type and the clothes you have

POLISHED CALF

Finally there is calf, polished this year and beautiful with your tweeds and country clothes, with simple daytime costumes. Bags are designed for the occasion, small or large with the roominess you will need according to your occupation and pursuits. There are travel bags with extra compartments and clasps some even with locks There are bags in two or three parts with different openings, for the woman who carries valuable papers They come in colors as well as black with deep reds grey and London tan most popular. The latter is suggested with the oxford grey that is so good in flannel and tweeds.

A PAIR of bas-relief sculptured paintings which are authentic replicas of the Rejang dancers of Bali. The busts are spectacularly colored in terra cotta, chartreuse, sparkling white and coral against a deep green textured homespun background

New and Unusual . . .

By BETTY LENAHAN

A NEW media of artistic expression to decorative accessories for the home has been developed by Kathi Urbach, talented young artist of tremendous versatility

This new media, fibre sculpture, facilitates greater movement, more interesting textures and color combinations, and striking three-dimensional effects

Impregnated with a secret solution, malleable fibre in high fashion colors are moulded like clay into floral arrangements, figures and scenes on texturally contrasting backgrounds All in relief, some as high as two and one-half inches they harden to glazed or dull finish Handsomely framed, they are easily cleaned with a damp cloth

One or a pair of these unique pictures would add to the charm of any room and would also make an ideal present for the Fall bride Though they are modern in feeling they would be equally at home in a traditional background

There is a wide selection of subjects to choose from among which are framed pairs of floral fibre sculptured paintings in brilliant color combinations; clay and fabric sculptured figurines, in both shadow-box frames and in smaller editions of custom-made murals frivolous circus clowns, designed for game or children's rooms

"OPERATION SAYWARD"

SNAG FALLING the start of reforestation operations. These big dead trees often [illegible] the centre, [illegible] chimneys. Fire roars upwards, frequently exploding the snag, spreading sparks for great distances.

TED WHITING, reforestation field chief and Forester Eric Druce check up on a one year old seedling. In five years if there is no fire this entire area will be covered with a thick green mat of head-high firs, hiding the blackened stumps and felled snags.

PLANTED IN 1944, this young fir tops six-foot Forester Ted Whiting. Once young trees get through the first two or three years when they are browsed by deer and grouse, they shoot up rapidly.

TOM MASQUETTE, king of the cookhouse at Dawson Lake Forestry Camp. Work in the woods gives forestry crews [illegible] appetites. Cook is most important man in camp. Tom can turn out pastry that would be the envy of chefs in the most swish hotels.

BRITISH COLUMBIA is creating a new forest. Where blackened stumps and towering ugly snags once stretched as far as the eye could see, lush young firs are now covering the scars of fire with a mantle of green. The Sayward Forest, lying north and west of Campbell River, covers some of the richest timber growing land on the Coast. It was set aside in 1929 as a forest reserve under Government operation to ensure a perpetual supply of timber.

Logging operations have been conducted there since 1889, when bull teams skidded logs down to Elk Bay. Since then these operations have given a livelihood to hundreds of families and today produce 106,000,000 board feet annually. Within the Sayward region there is still 6,869,450,000 board feet of mature timber and 106,650 acres of immature timber.

Large areas however, have been devastated by fire. In 1938 the great Campbell River fire cut a 75,000 acre swath for 40 miles to the southeast.

One of the biggest jobs in the Sayward district is replanting this and other areas not reseeding naturally. The jobs start with collecting cones, drying them and extracting the seeds. Seeds are started off in nurseries and transplanted by hand, a laborious and difficult task.

Since 1939, British Columbia's Forest Service has replanted 3[illegible]000 acres in the Sayward Forest, with 26,000,000 trees. To prepare for planting and to guard against fires the service has cut 1,500,000 snags.

Fire is the ever-present danger which can wipe out this 10-year labor. To guard against it the service has built a network of roads to allow suppression crews to gain quick access. The difference between minor damage and disaster is sometimes only minutes. For quick spotting the service has built a series of lookout stations connected by two-way radio with suppression crew headquarters.

Wherever possible the service has made use of high school and university students during their Summer holidays. It is a heartening sight to see them, tanned and strong, obviously enjoying their work in the woods, consuming vast quantities of food of excellent quality, or, in the lonely look-out stations, a young student, scanning the horizon and then turning to his books to prepare for the next school term.

MOST VITAL of all forest [illegible] is fire protection. Here Forester Robert Glossford, at Parksville ranger station, checks over fire lighting [illegible]. They are complete units ready to be loaded on trucks which rush to kill small fires before they sweep through valuable forest land.

FIRE SUPPRESSION CREW at Parksville. Made up mainly of university students, these crew members are trained for quick effective action in catching and extinguishing forest fires before they become major conflagrations. Between fires they are working on park development. Left to right: Ranger Robert Glossford, Bob Keockle, A. Campbell, L. Foggetter, W. Dobie, D. Creighton, Gerry Bowden (Victoria), C. Morrison and D. He is one of a crew of [illegible]6 high school students, mostly from Victoria, who work on road building, collecting cones and cutting brush during Summer holidays. They came out of woods with stake averaging $150, tanned, physically fit, self reliant, and well trained in many phases of forestry work.
